OFTHE

LAST WAR

IN

SPAIN:

From 1702 to 1710.

WHEREIN

The CONDUCT of the British Ministry, the ALLIES, and the GENERALS in that Service, are fully Defended.

With an ACCOUNT of the Annual Sums granted by Parliament, and the Just Application of them to those Services for which they were Levied.

The whole Collected from Original Papers, Councils of War, &c.

Interspersed with Genuine Copies of the LETTERS which passed between the Earl of Peterborow, Prince of Hesse, Sir Cloudsley Shovell, E. of Gallway, Sir Charles Hedges, Prince Lichtenstein, K. Charles III. Sir John Leake, E. of Sunderland, Sir George Bing, and the late Earl of Oxford, then Secretary of State.

Also the Proceedings at Large in the House of Peers, against the Earl of Gallway, with his Defence.

Written by his Lordship's Command.

and the general content of the Zoran to have to seem

A Treatise concerning the Management of the War in Spain, may seem very unnecessary, at a Time when it is pretended in Our News-papers, that we are going to give up both Old and New Spain, by Public Treaty to the Duke of Anjou: But since the Allies thought sit, for very Weighty Reasons, to refuse much better Terms about Two Years ago, it is not impossible but the New Preliminaries may meet A 2 with with the same Fate; and that his most Christian Majesties Attempts to draw England into any Treaty that might create a Jealousie in the Allies, may prove as unsuccessful as those Baits which his Plenipotentiaries offer'd to the Dutch at Gertruydenburgh.

And in this View it is, that I have been induc'd to send the following Sheets to the Press, which were at first design'd to have been Publish'd about the Rising of the last Sessions of Parliament:
I flatter myself the Reader will receive some Satisfaction, by being faithfully inform'd of the several Steps that have been taken for

for the Recovery of that Monarchy, whose Union to the House of Bourbon was the true Cause of our engaging in the present Expensive War.

I was the rather enclin'd to this Undertaking, because I am convinc'd, that as much Noise as this Subject has made in the World, it has yet been either very little understood, or very imperfectly represented: For which Reason, I thought myself oblig'd, to give the Public a more Impartial Account of it than hath hitherto been Printed; beginning with the Declaration of the War, and tracing the most Material Facts, down towards the End of the the Year 1710; but more particularly in the Years 1703, 4, 5, 6, and 7.

I have Collected the Best Information that was possible to be had upon this Subject, and I think it has been my good Fortune, hardly to advance any single Fact, which is not sufficiently proved by Original Papers: By Papers that frequently Clash with a former Account given of this War, by an Author, whom I should not otherwise have thought worthy of my Observation.

It has been my Intention in the following Sheets, to do Justice to those Noble Persons, who have been Employ'd

Employ'd in the first Stations both at Home and Abroad, during the Present War. And though I shall ever confess myself unequal to the Undertaking, yet I will not think my Time Mis-spent, if I may have been so happy as to have convinc'd the Impartial Reader, That, the Race is not always to the Swift: Nor the Battle to the Strong: Neither Bread to the Wife: Nor Riches to Men of Understanding: Nor yet Favour to Men of Skill. That there may be Success without Conduct or Design, Conduct and Bravery without Success. That the Event does not always answer the Intention, of which we have had a very Recent Instance in the Expedition that Inclination her Neighbours had to Repose, after the last Tedious and Expensive War, had already got Possession of the Spanish Monarchy, before the rest of Europe were aware of the satal Consequences, that would naturally result from such an Union.

so well had the concerted Measures on this Occasion, the Dutch Troops in the Spanish Netherlands were made Prioners of War by Surprize, and the States-General oblig'd to purchase their Liberty, at the Expence of owning the Duke of Anjou to be King of Spain; but we acknowledg'd him without the east Compulsion; and so secure was is Most Christian Majesty of carrying, his his Point in England, he hardly vouchfafed to fend us the usual Notification of his Grandson's Accession to the Crown of Spain, before he Printed the News of our having acknowledg'd him in the Paris Gazette, from whence the People of England had the first Advice of this Important Step.

FROM fo extraordinary a Success, and from the Supineness of our Temper, the King of France began already to believe himself in Condition to give Laws to Europe: Thus in Breach of the Treaty of Reswick, and in Contempt of England, he caused the Pretender to be declared at Paris King of Great-Britain and Ireland. This indeed rouzed us from the Lethargy that had fo long possessed our Minds 3 the-most Indolent now apprehended the Growth of fo Exorbitant a Power; and it was thought high Time to interrupt a Progress, that openly tended to Universal Monarchy, lest our Trade should be entirely lost. and England oblig'd to accept a Tributary King from France, to the utter Destruction of that Religion and Liberty, for which our Ancestors had so glorioufly contended.

SUCH was the Condition of England, but more immediate were the Dangers that threatned the Dutch, who notwithstanding their Barrier was possessed by French Troops, Preparations for War on their Frontiers daily encreasing, and their State almost block'd up on every Side, rejected with Con-April 9th, tempt the French Resident's Offers.

THOSE Affurances which the D—ke of M—gb had given the States General in the Queen's Name, of Her adhering to the Alliances made by King William, of ever Glorious Memory. with them and the Emperor, for preferving the Liberty and Ballance of Europe. did no doubt contribute to the Vigour of this Resolution; and Her Majesty made good her Promise in Part soon after, by the following Declaration, which I had not inserted, but to show the Just and Cogent Reasons for our engaging in this War; from whence we hop'd to reap such Advantages, as I fear can never be sufficiently secured to us, whilft a Prince of the House of Bourbon shall continue in Possession of any Part of the Spanish Monarchy.

ANNE R.

" Us, shall be Safe in their Persons and Estates.

Given at Our Court at St. James's the Fourth Day of May, 1702, in the First Year of Our Reign.

THE War being thus declared upon mature Deliberation, let us now examine what Measures were taken for the Support of it: But as this would be too large a Theme for the narrow Compass I have proposed to confine myself to, should I attempt to trace it in every Branch, I shall in Silence pass over Our Successes in Flanders, and content myself with enquiring in the most Impartial Manner into the Management of the War in Spain.

1702.

THOUGH the Affistance of the Dutch loudly claimed Our Earliest Care, yet the Conquest of Spain was not neglected: Our Declaration of War bore Date but the Fourth of May, and by the First of July the D— of O—nd sail'd from St. Hellen's with Ten Thousand Land Forces to Cadiz.

May 4th. Fuly 1ft.

THE Success of this Expedition is so well known, I need only observe, that we found Cadiz in a much better Posture of Desence, and the People there there much less inclin'd to the Interest of the House of Austria, than had been expected: Yet 'tis agreed on all Hands, that this Project, unsuccessful as it proved, was not ill concerted at Home; for indeed, King William, whose watchful Genius took no Rest whenever the Liberties of Europe were in Danger, had thought of it before he Died, upon obferving the Measures France pursued: And it seems as if Providence had refolved to make us amends for the Difappointment, by throwing the Galle-Odober 12; ons in our Way at Vigo, whilft the Fleet was returning home; which lucky Accident being well improved, put the Nation in good Humour, and procur'd the Thanks of both Houses to the Dof O-d, and Sir George Rook.

BY our Disappointment at Cadiz, we were convinc'd that the Spaniards, at least those of Andalusia, had not Vigour enough to think of shaking off the French Yoke, and that Spain was not to be reduc'd by a Declaration. Considering therefore the constant Dissiculties that attend Descents in an Enemies Country, where the Hazard is ever great, and the Success uncertain, it was thought highly necessary to engage the B 4 King

King of Portugal in a Treaty, which, besides many other apparent Advantages to the Common Cause, would furnish us with an excellent Port for our Ships, and a Door to enter Spain in a more Commodious Manner.

HIS Most Christian Majesty, no less Sensible of the Influence any Treaty of this Nature would have upon his Grandson's Affairs, left no Methods unessay'd by his Ambassador at Lisbon to dissuade the Portuguese from list'ning to' our Proposals; but the Emperor, the Queen, and States-General, positively refusing to allow them a Neutrality, and the French not being able to furnish that Number of Ships which they had promis'd for the Protection of the Portuguese Coasts, all other Difficulties were foon remov'd, and Don Pedro, then King of Portugal, entred into a League offensive and defensive with the Emperor, England, and Holland, for expelling the Duke of Anjou out of the Spanish Dominions, and settling King

May 16th, Charles upon the Throne of his Ancestors

THE Happy Arrival of the Almi. rante of Castile about this Time in Portugal, the Hopes of a Revolution upon his coming over, and the Glory the King King of Portugal promis'd himself in giving a Prince to that Monarchy, upon which his own Kingdom not long before been dependent, helped very much towards the Dispatch of a Negotiation, which was almost entirely managed by Mr. Methuen, to whose Experience, and indefatigable Address, the Alliance in general is as much indebted for this Treaty, as his own Country in particular for another of Commerce.

BY this Treaty of Alliance, amongst other Things, it was stipulated, that the Most Serene Arch-Duke, being undeniably entituled to the Spanish Monarchy, by Vertue of a Renunciation from the Emperor, his Father, and from the King of the Romans, his Elder Brother, should come in Person to Lisbon, attended by a Royal Fleet, and accompanied with an Army of 12000 Men, Two Thirds English, and One Dutch, to which the King of Portugal was to join 13000 Portuguese, at the Expence of the Allies, and 15 more at his own. making in the whole an Army of 7000 Horse, and 33000 Foot; who were by Vertue of the faid Treaty to be under the Command of His Portuguese Majesty, and his Generals. IN

IN this Manner the Scheme was laid by the Ministers at Home for a vigorous Profecution of the War in Spain; and their Part towards it performed, by fending His Catholick Majesty to Portugal after his Arrival in England, according to the Terms of the Treaty, without Loss of Time, tho' there was no Money given by Parliament this Year for that Service: For King Charles landed at Portsmouth about the latter End of December, 1703. And notwithstanding the Delay occasioned by violent Storms, the Confederate Fleet convey'd him faf to Lisbon, with the Forces stipulated by the Treaty, under the Command of the D - of Sc -gh, by the End of February, to the great Mortification of the French Ambassador then refiding there, who immediately retired into Spain.

I shall not interrupt the Connection of this short Discourse, with inserting a particular List of the Troops sent upon this Embarkation, because I have digested as well the Account of all the Forces at any time sent into Spain or Portugal, as that of the Money granted by Parliament, and applied to this Service, in a few Pages at the End of this Book; where the Reader may see them at one View, and whereby he will be able to judge how far there has been Reason to blame the late Ministry for any Neglect of the Spanish War.

THE Queen in naming a General for this Service, took Care to make Choice of that Noble Duke, whom She had great Reason to believe the most Grateful Person she could send to the Court of Portugal, as well upon Account of his own Personal Merit, as his Father's, who had the greatest Share in refcuing that Crown from the Usurpation of the Spaniards, and in fecuring it to the House of Braganza. But it seems the Duke did not find the Preparations for taking the Field in such Readiness as he expected; nor that Union amongst the Generals which could have been wish'd for: The Forces were divided contrary to his Opinion, Two or Three separate Corps form'd, and not much Harmony in the Operation; whilst the Duke of Anjou, tho' not fo early in Publishing Manifesto's and Declarations, was the first in Action, and had already taken several Towns on the Portuguese Frontiers, part by Surprize, and part by Storm, before the Two

Two Kings of Spain and Portugal were in Condition to enter the Field; Portalegre and Castel Davide, where the Regiment of Stanbope and Stewart were made Prisoners of War, with Salvaterra, and several other Places of less Importance.

THE Enemies Success gave us no fmall Uneafiness in England, and the D - of Sc-gb finding his Advice had not that Weight it deserved with the Portuguese, was desirous to quit a lofing Game; upon which the QUEEN resolv'd to send the Earl of Gathither to supply his Place, whose Experience and Temper were thought very necessary Qualifications for a Person that was to have the Command of Her Majesties Forces in that Country, join'd with those of so many different Nations.

IN Obedience to Her Majesties pofitive Orders, tho' much contrary to his own Inclination, as my Lord G--informs us in his Narrative, he accepted this troublesome Command, and after having represented such Matters as he barqued for Portugal.

MEAN Time the Confederate Faly 16th. Fleet had attack'd Gibraltar, the Prince of of Heffe landed with some Marines on the Back of the Island, near Point Europa, and Sir G - ge By - g had the Command of the Squadron appointed to cannonade the Town, which was so effectually done, the Sailors soon made themselves Masters of the Mole, and the Place surrendred: A Conquest of so great Importance, we could never have been able without it to have carried on the War in the Mediterrean.

NOR should we pass over in Silence that Memorable Action on the Thirteenth Day of August, 1704, between Sir George Rook and the Count de Tholouse, where the Confederate Fleet, tho' they had already expended great Quantities of their Ammunition upon Gibraltar, (which obliged many of our Ships to go out of the Line before the Battle was over,) if they did not obtain an entire Victory, did at least so much Execution upon the Royal Navy of France, that his Most Christian Majesty has never fince been able to put a Squadron to Sea, sufficient to cope with the Maritime Powers: More I would have faid of this Important Fight, did it not appear at first View foreign from the Subject I have proposed to treat of; less I could not. not, in Justice to my Country: Besides, I have ever been of Opinion, that the whole Expence of the Fleet appointed to ferve in the Mediterranean for the Support of the Spanish Service, ought to be placed to Account of that War, which together with the Charge of Transportation, would amount to fo large a Sum as might be sufficient to shew how Zealous the late Ministry were for the Profecution of that War, and how little they were Chargeable for any Neglect of it.

UPON the Earl of G----y's Ar-July 30th, rival at Lisbon, he found the Two Kings of Spain and Portugal were already gone for Abeira; his Lordship overtook them upon the Road at Coimbra. and was forry they were fo far advanc'd, that it was impossible for them to go back, well knowing, that the Presence of Two Sovereign Princes in the Field could not much contribute to the Service: And as his Lordship had in some Measure foreseen the Campaign ended without any Action of Importance; for the Enemies Troops being in much better Order than those of the Allies, who were most of them newly Raised, and the Duke of Berwick well intrench'd on the Banks of the Agueda, his Catholick Majesty himself would by no Means suffer the King of Portugal to expose his Troops, and consequently his Country, by attempting to attack the Enemy in that Advantageous Post: So the Forces on both Sides retired into oa. oth, Winter Quarters, and the Duke of Berwick had an Opportunity of detaching a confiderable Body to join the Marquis of Villadarias, who was going to beliege Gibraltar.

WHEN my Lord G --- was return'd to Lisbon, News came that Gibraltar was actually invested with a Formidable Army; and that the Prince of Hesse, who commanded in the Town, unless immediately relieved, would be oblig'd to Snrrender: Upon which Advice his Lordship did, by the King of Portugal's Leave, send thither Four of the best English Battallions under his Command, and Two Dutch Regiments, with a good Supply of Stores and Ammunition; which Relief arriv'd fo happily, as not only to preserve Gibraltar, but likewise to contribute to About 18. the entire Ruin of the Enemies Infan-Novemb. try; for the Mareschal Tesse was there himself with the best part of the French

French Troops; and this prevented their being in a Condition to take the Field the following Campaign, upon the Fronders of Portugal.

THE Regiments my Lord Gfent to Gibraltar, were part of a Reinforcement design'd for Portugal, and arriv'd there in good Time to be fo well employ'd: For the Ministry did not only fend Recruits for the Queen's Forces already in Portugal, but likewise confented, at my Lord G---y's Instance, to furnish an Extraordinary Body of Troops for that Service, besides those agreed to by the Treaty.

THE ill Condition of the Enemies 1705. Foot gave the Allies an Opportunity

NS.

April 8th, in the Spring Campaign to take Valencia de Alcantara by Storm, and Albuquerque May 22d, by Capitulation, within the Compais of Two Months; Two Frontier Towns of great Importance, tho' not equal to Badajox, which is situate on the Guadia. na, and extreamly well feated for a Place of Arms: Besides, this Town had at that Time but a weak Garrison in it; and my Lord G-y was for attempting it before the other Two, but his Opinion was over-rul'd.

BEFORE the Troops had retired into Quarters of Refreshment my Lord P ___ warrived at Lisbon, with a June 20th, Body of Seven Thousand Eight Hundred Men, English and Dutch, besides Marines, on Board the Grand Fleet, of which his Lordship had been appointed Joint Admiral with Sir Cloudfly Shovell for that Expedition; entrufted (as his Historian says) with Commissions of as different a Nature as Land and Sea, War Account of and Peace: And indeed it is not to be of Pdeny'd but the Success which attended the Queen's Arms whilft his Lordship Conduct in held those Commissions was very great ; pag. 4. yet I would not attribute the Whole to his Excellency, fomething fure was due to the Gallant Prince of Heffe, something to Mr. Crow's Negotiations with the Catalans, something to the Good-will of the Country People, a great deal to the Affistance of the Fleet, and more to Providence; for 'tis very plain, by the Relation that Author has given of the E ___ of P ___ w's Conduct in Spain, he trusted more to his Good Fortune than ever any General in the World before him; and those Projects that have been the most happily executed, during the Won-

Wonderful Campaign of Valencia, seem to have put his Lordship to the least Expence of Thought.

THAT the Reader may be better apprized of the Design of this Expedition, it will not be improper to observe, that the Kingdoms of Arragon and Castile, the united so long ago by the Marriage of Ferdinand and Isabella, still preserve their Ancient Enmities; and the Castillians, since the Death of King Charles the Second, had espous'd the French Party with a Warmth but little expected from a Nation formerly of so different an Interest; which Motive alone was sufficient Reason for the People of Arragon to wish well to the juster Title of the House of Austria.

UNDER the Name of Arragon is contained, not only the Ancient Kingdom, so called, but likewise that of Valencia, and the Principality of Catalonia: The Valencians were very well inclin'd, but the Catalans gave such Indications of their Zeal for their Lawful Sovereign, that the Queen, by Advice of Her Ministry, thought sit to dispatch Mr. Crow, who had great Interest and Credit with the States of that Principality,

lity, to treat with them about a Revolution, as appears by the following Credentials.

" ANNE, by the Grace of God Queen of Great-Britain, France, and Ireland, De-" fender of the Faith, &c. To the most Illustrious, most Noble, and most Excellent " Lords, Dukes, Marquisses, Earls, Barons, " Nobles, Gentlemen, Magistrates of Towns, " Governors of Places, and to all Officers Ci-" vil and Military what soever, as well of the Principality of Catalonia, as of any other " Province in Spain, to whom these Presents " may come, Greeting. Having arm'd Ourfelves in Defence of the Liberties of Europe, " in order to reduce the Exorbitant Power of " France, and disappoint Our Neighbours Aims at Universal Monarchy, We have with great Satisfaction been inform'd, that as you were ever zealous in afferting your Liberties, to at this time you brook with just Indigna-" tion the French Toke imposed upon you, and are determined, as becomes Men of Refolution, to hake it off. Wherefore, We have "thought convenient to fend you Our Trusty and Well-beloved Mitford Crow, Esq; already known to some of you, who will inform Us of your present Dispositions, " and confirm you in the profecution of fo "Glorious a Defign; for which Purpose We " have given him full Power and Authority " to treat and act with you in all fuch Parti-" culars as may be thought conducive to the " perfection of this egregious Work; not doubting therefore but his Arrival will be " very grateful, We shall only desire you " would give ear to those Proposals, and de" pend upon those Promises he shall make you in Our Name.

Given at Our Palace at St. James's this 7th Day of March, in the Year of Our Lord 1705, and of Our Reign the Third.

A ND that nothing might be left unattempted towards the Reduction of Spain, the Earl of P-w was fent with the 7500 Land Forces on Board the Grand Fleet already mentioned, as well to carry the War into another Part of that Monarchy, whilst my Lord G-y was acting on the Side of Portugal, as to improve those Advantages that were reasonably hoped for from the good Inclinations of a Warlike People, who as they had been ever vigorous in the Defence of their Own Just Liberties, fo were now no less active in afferting the Rights of their Lawful Sovereign; and to their Honour it must be said, they have made a much better Figure this War than any other Part of Spain. fo much Virtue does a Notion of Liberty inspire.

I shall not trouble the Reader with Copies of my Lord P—w's Instructions upon this Occasion, because they were very long and numerous; but I shall do his Lordship the Justice, whenever I pretend to argue from them, to transcribe at least faithful Extracts of the Paragraph referr'd to; and in the mean Time will content myself with observing, that the Services directed by those Instructions, were, First, The Reduction of Barcelona, and in Case of Disappointment there, other Places on the Spanish Coasts were to be attempted, particularly Cadiz; not without some Regard to Italy, Thoulon, and the Relief of the Duke of Savoy: But the principal Design was to make a Vigorous Push in Spain. And as my Lord G - was always ready to promote the Publick Service, to whatever Generals Care the fame was committed, he generously offer'd my Lord P-w whatever Part of those few Troops under his Command he should please to accept of, for the better Support of his Catholick Majesty, who he found defign'd to embark on Board the Fleet for Catalonia: And my Lord P - w it feems accepted the Profer; for he took with him Two Regiments of Dragoons from Portugal, and Four Old Battallions of Foot from . Gibraltar, leaving only Two lately rais'd in their stead.

AFTER the Fleet was fail'd, My Lord G-y prevail'd with the Portuguese to besiege Badajoz, whereby he boped to give the Enemy so considerable a Diversion, that they should not be able to oppose my Lord P-w's Attempt on Catalonia. But the Portuguese did not take the Field this Autumn Campaign before the Second of October. 'Twas during Siege that the E— of G—— -y stand. ing on a Battery to redress the Disorders that had happen'd there, by the blowing up of some Barrels of Gunpowder, had the Misfortune to lose his Right Arm by a Cannon shot, upon which the Mareschal Tesse found Means to throw Relief into the Town; yet 'tis allowed this Undertaking was begun with great Vigour, for the Army in their March to the Place croffed Three Rivers, and invested the Town the same Day: And had the Disposition my Lord G --- made for preventing the Enemies Design, which was approved in Council the Morning he loft his Arm, been executed, 'tis certain we should not have been obliged to raise that Siege.

on this Occasion, because it is already Printed; nor shall I mention the present, which 'tis commonly reported Her Majesty sent him upon the Loss of his Arm, because I conceive that may have been a Mistake; but it was generally believed the Queen did his Lordship the Honour to send him a Letter upon that Subject, all of Her own Handwriting, and infinitely more Valuable to a Person of his Lordship's truly Generous and Disinterested Temper, for coming unmixt, and without allay.

Reader to that Author for them, who says his Lordship indeed did twice give his Vote for the Undertaking; but from those Councils of War it will appear 'twas only out of the extreme Passion he had to comply with the King of Spain's Desires, and not out of any Confidence he had of succeeding. Yet this extreme Passion did not last long, as may be seen by those very Councils; I shall not repeat them at large, because they are already Printed; but will content myself with observing, That the first Council was held the 16th of August, 1705, O. S. and the Siege judged impracticable Nemine contradicente: The 22d a particular Attack upon the Curtain was proposed, and my Lord P-w the only Person that approved it: The 25th a general Attack was proposed for Eighteen Days, which was agreed to only by my Lord P-m, Mr. St-ope, and Brigadier St. Amand: The 26th it was resolv'd by all the Generals, at the King of Spain's Request, to try their Fortune Eighteen Days before the Town: But the 28th another Council was held, where his Lordship was as forward as any one for Embarking the Troops again, and feems to have furnished the Generals with the

the Reasons for that Resolution; which I am the rather inclinable to believe, because the Reasons alledg'd in the Council of the 28th of Angust are, That they had not been affitted, either by the Fleet or the Country People, as they expected: That the King was uncer: tain in his Resolutions, One Day for a Siege, One Day for a March; and that the Deputies of Catalonia had told my Lord P-w their People could not work where they were exposed to the Enemies Fire. Tis certain, in the Council of the 26th, when the Generals resolv'd to try their Fortune for Eighteen Days before the Town, it was defired the Fleet would furnish a certain Number of Men, and that the Prince of Heffe should procure a Proportion of Miquelets; upon which my Lord P --- w having fig red to this Council in the Affirmative as General, writ a Letter to the Prince of Hesse, and fent Mr. St-ope to make a Demand of Men in Behalf of the Land Council of War from the Flags; but coming on Board himself the same Day, in regard to the Safety of the Fleet his Lordship gave his Opinion, in writing as Admiral, directly contrary to his Opinion and and Request as General, as may be seen from the following Papers.

"SINCE the King of Spain is resolv'd to lay the whole Stress of his Affairs upon making an Attempt on Barcelona for Eighteen Days, (specified in his Letter to us,) notwithstanding all unanswerable Arguments to the contrary at Three Councils of War; and tho' we have Reason to fear the Result will too much justifie our Opinions, yet in regard that our General the E. of P.....w

The Earl of P-w's Opinion as a Council of War of English and Dutch Flag-Officers, held on Board the Britannia, Aug. 27. 1705.

AT which I was not present, the Sir Cloudsley Shovell fent Capt. Loads to desire me " to be there; it being agreed to ask of the " faid Council of War, whether they could fpare Fifteen Hundred Men a Day to work " in the Trenches, belides Two Thousand Ma-" rines, as absolutely necessary to enable us to " fuffice for the common Works; which, by " the Computation of Ingineers, requir'd Five "Thousand Men a Day on Duty; being satisfy'd vid. p. 27. that such a Numbercould no way be spared, and about the well knowing that I could never come up to it in my Middle of private Judgment; but more particularly, having the Page. that very Morning receiv'd, by the Charles Galley, " Letters, which in my Opinion did much recom-" mend the Services in Italy, to which in my Judgment I inclin'd for the Publick Service, and which all the Officers of the Council of War ashore did agree amounted to positive Orders. I did not affirt at that Council, because I thought I should pervent perhaps the "Opportunity they had, and was confident would " make use of, to shew their great Zeal to the "King, and the present Service, which in offer-"ing 3750 Marines included out of the Com-" plement of their Ships, was more than could " be expected, or that perhaps I could have agreed 66 to in my private Opinion; tho' it did not a-" mount to what might enable the Land " Forces to comply with the Demands of the "Ingineers, fince we in our Conclusions had " counted the Marines as Land-men when a-" shore, being absent at that Council of War, " I thought fit to annex this my Opinion " to it. P w.

THUS his Lordship having voted only conditionally as General for undertaking the Siege of Barcelona, and having afterwards disagreed to the Performance of that Condition as Admiral, we may reasonable conclude he did not vote for undertaking the Siege at all; and yet had a Mind the Experiment should be made at the Hazard of the other Admirals in his Absence. But however contradictory these Two Opinions may appear, and however oppofite they may have really been to His Catholick Majesties Interest, this is not the only Instance his Lordship has given under his own Hand, of the little Inclination nation he had to contribute to the Reduction of Catalonia, as will plainly appear by several Original Papers.

ONE would believe at the Time this Request was made by the Land-Generals, the E - of P - w did not think it unreasonable, nor the Day after, till be came on Board; for in his Lordship's Letter to the Prince of Hese, he abides by his Opinion as General: And tho' I have not a Copy of that Prince's Answer by me, yet because the Council of War of the 28th feems to reflect upon him for not having furnish'd the Number of Miquelets he had promised, I will do so much Justice to his Memory as to Print a Letter of his, which feems to have been written to Sir Clouds. ley Shovell in his own Justification upon that Subject.

The Prince of Hesse's Letter to Sir Cloudsley Shovell.

From the Camp, Sept. 12. 1705.

Honoured Sir.

I Am very much oblig'd to you for communicating me the Councils of War about all the Transactions by Sea and Land, and belonging to what you desire to know of me, if since the Resolution of the Attack the Land-Officers made any Demand of Men from me of the Country, to work, or to affift in the Duty of the Trenches; You will see out of the Copy of the E—— of P—— w's Letter, upon which I immediately sent him 600 very good Men; his Demands coming to me about Noon, and the People being upon Duty, reparted round the Town, and some Two Leagues off could not come in Time; and the Day after, when I had prepared 1200, a Stop was put to the Attack; so that they came not to be employ'd, neither put to a Trial if they could do their Duty so well as others. I am with all Respect,

Honourable Sir,

Your most Humble and Obedient Servant, of Spain's Want of Resolution, I think that may easily be accounted for, from the different Temper of his Two Generals, the Prince of Hesse continually advising His Majesty to press the Siege, my Lord P—w as assidnous to make him lay aside all Thoughts of it, as may be seen very evidently from the following Letter to Sir Cloudsley Shovell.

The King of Spain's Agreement to the Expedient propos'd to him by the Earl of P——w.

My Lord Earl of P——w,

"I Accept the Offer you make me, seeing, by the Resolutions of the Councils of War, there remains nothing else to support me in Spain; so that I assure you I shall remain positive in the Resolution of Marching into the Country, being what you may take upon yourself, and justifie it, because the Council of War had determined upon it. HOWEVER, his Lordship's Author is resolved not to allow the Prince of Heffe any Share in the Delign against Montjuic, because of the open Misunderstandings between his Lordship and the Prince at that Time; nay, he affures Us my Lord even conceal'd it from the Court: And yet the Prince of Heffe went Volunteer upon this Project, which one would think he should hardly have done in those Circumstances, had the Thought been entirely my Lord P-w's, and kept a Secret from his Highness till the Execution: But to say nothing of the Prince's longer Service and Experience, and to pals over the Improbability of his Lordship's having form'd in so little 2 Time as One Night a happy Project against a Fort, which he could not possibly know so well as the Prince, that had been Vice-roy of Catalonia in King Charles the Second's Time, and had defended defended Barcelona against the Duke of Vendosme, let us examine into the Success of this Attack, which was, that a Party of Grenadiers, supported by the Prince of Hesse, carried all before them, and made themselves Masters of the Outworks; but the taking of the Dungeon, which began to be despaired of, was afterwards intirely owing to the Accidental siring of a Bomb that blew up the Enemies Magazine of Powder, and frighted them into a Surrender, which Happy Accident was the chief Occasion of our taking Barcelona.

FOR my Part I shall not pretend to determine who has the best Right to the Glory of this Project; but 'tis certain the Prince of Hesse was no Stranger to it; and since he lost his Life in the Execution, I will do so much Right to his Memory as to publish some few of his Letters, which may serve as lasting Proofs of his great Zeal for the Common Cause, and will give the Reader a fair Opportunity of judging for himself.

Note, This Letter bears Date the very Night before the Attack on Mont-juic.

As it is impossible in Enquiries of so Nice a Nature, as this we are now upon, to produce too many Proofs, I hope the Reader will pardon me it I add the Copies of Two Letters from Sir Cloudsley Shovell, the they are very long, because they will not only serve for exact Journals of that Siege, but will likewise shew something was owing in the Reduction of Catalonia, as I have afferted, to the Good-will of the Country People, and a great Deal to the Assistance of the Fleet.

THAT whereas in Two Several Councils of War. the one of the 16th, the other of the 23d of August, it was resolved, by the Said General Officers, that the Attack on Barcelona could not be made with any hope of Success: And whereas in a Letter from the King of Spain, dated the 2d of Sept, N. S. His Majesty seem'd desirous to have Eighteen Days spent in Attempts againt Barcelona, supposing there might be Time for the Fleet to aillift in other Operations for the Publick Service; which Councils of War and Letter I have communicated to you: And whereas by Letter dated the 26th of July, the Lord Treasurer of England feems to infer, that Instructions given, which related to the Duke of Savoy, and Services in Italy, should be attempted, when any Opportunity offer'd isfelf; as to other Services for the Publick, tho' there be no room for a full Execution of the private Instructions; and that when the Service on Barcelona is judged impracticable, the next Article in Course of our general Instructions, is to use all Means for the Assistance of the Duke of Savoy, as a Service of the greatest Importance; depending upon the Affiftances of Councils of War, to help me in the Double Commission the Queen has bestowed upon me, to Enable me to acquit myfelf of my Duty to the best of my Power, and to be able to return an Answer to the Letter of the King of Spain, I take the Liberty to Offer to the Council of War, and desire a Determination upon these Two Points: Whether after Eighteen Days the Flect can accompany the Army in any Enterprize to be made on Shore? And, Whether, if the Forces be immediately Imbarked within Seven Days, the Time yet allows their Passage towards Succouring the Prince of Savoy, and the Services yet possible in Italy?

"THE 17th our great Battery of Thirty Guns was opened, and Fourteen of them began to Play with very great Execution upon that Part of the Wall where the Breach was design'd. The Earl of P——w came a board, and represented to us the great Necessity he labour'd under for Want of Money for Substiting the Army, and carrying on the Siege of Barcelona, and Services in Catalonia, and in very pressing Circumstances desir'd the Assistance of the Fleet, upon which our FlagOfficers came to the enclosed Resolution, (a) No 1.

"THE 19th we came to the Resolutions, "(b) No 2. And a further Demand being made for Guns for the Batteries, we Landed Fourteen more, which made up in all Seventytwo Guns, whereof Thirty were Twentyfour Pounders, that we Landed here with their Utensils and Ammunition. We con-

We may easily imagine so unexpected a Revolution as this gave the Court of Madrid no small Uneasiness, and that they lost no Time in making great Preparations for the Recovery of Barcelona. This News reach'd my Lord G—y when he lay ill at Elwas of a violent Fever and Erysipelas, occasion'd by the Loss of his Arm: Yet even during this Sickness he gave himself no Recess from the Weight of Public Cares: Witness the following Letter to Sir Ch— H—es, then Principal Secretary of State.

Extract of a Letter from the E - of G - y to Mr. Secretary H -- es.

SIR, Elvas, Decem. N. S. 1705.

"SINCE the last Account I had the Honour to send you of the State of Affairs here, the Marquiss das Minas has receiv'd several concurring Advices, which are confirm'd by Deserters and Prisoners, that the Duke of Anjou lest Madrid the 4th of the last Month, and is gone towards Catalonia, and that the Mareschal de Tesse, with all the French Forces in Estremadura, is gone after him. By the Advices that come in from all Parts, we find that the Enemy will do their utmost Essorts to recover that Country this Winter; and they have but too many Advantages for it, being able to send a Fleet from Thoulon with Men, Cannon and Ammunition, munition, and can march Forces from so many different Places. The Consequence may be very bad unless we make a vigorous Diversion on this Side, and without any Loss of Time.

"I therefore immediately writ to Diego de Mene" donca to lay my Opinion before the King, that all the Forces should forthwith have Orders sent them to march into this Province, and that the Army should forthwith march into Spain in several small Bodies or Brigades, and go directly to Madrid, thereby to force the Enemy to return, or to improve all the Advantages of his Absence.

"THE King has fince fent to the Generals here for their Opinions in Writing, and they have all concurr'd with me, as you will fee by the inclosed Result of our Conference; fo I hope they will take suitable Measures at Court; I'll not cease pressing them till 'tis " done.

"I did intend to have set out the 4th for Lisbon, but I am troubled with an Erysipelas in my Arm, which retards my Journey;
but I will set out the Moment I am able, and bope it may be by the 10th. I will hasten all Preparations, and will consult with my Lord Ambassador, and the Admirals, if there are any at Lisbon, what can be done at present to Assist the King of Spain by Sea, for I really am in great Pain for him.

THUS we perceive his Lordship foresaw, and did his utmost to provide against, the Storm that threatened Barcelona; but it may not perhaps be improper to shew how well his Thoughts were approved in England by the Answer Mr. Secretary H—s gave to his Letter.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Secretary
H—s to the E—of G—y.

Dated Whitehall, 18th Decem. 1705.

Sir,

"Have receiv'd the Honour of your Excel-lency's of the 7th of December, with the Result of the Conference, wherein the "Generals concur with your Opinion for " Marching forthwith into Spain; which having " laid before Her Majesty, She was extremely " Satisfied with it; and the more, fince my "Lord Ambassador gives great Hopes that " fuitable Measures will be taken at Lisbon, "your Excellency will confirm them in those good Resolutions so soon as you Arrive theregood Refolutions fo foon as you Arrive there, " which Her Majesty hopes you will be able to " do by the Time you propose: For if the " French Troops and the Duke of Anjou are " march'd, as your Deserters inform, there " feems not any Measures more proper than those your Excellency has proposed for re-" lieving King Charles the Third, and what " can be done should be done quickly.

NOR were the Ministry at home less anxious than my Lord G - y to support King Charles and the E - w, whatever has been alledged to the contrary, as may be seen by the following Extract.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Secretary H—s'to the E— of G— -y.

Dated Whitehall, 4th Decem. 1705.

I Hope this will meet your Excellency at Lifbon, where you are of so great Use at this " Critical Jun ure, to concert and forward what is possible to be done for making the best Improvement of the great Successes in Catalonia, which have so far awakened the French " Court, that the utmost Efforts will be made to regain that Country before the next Cam-" paign, if possible, and before it will be practi-" cable to fend a Royal Fleet and Troops " from hence. "HER Majesty has already sent the King of " Spain by Bills to Lisbon, and to be forwarded " in Specie to Barcelona, 40000 l. and is sending E Five Regiments with all the Dispatch imaginable, if any are necessary, before they can arrive 'tis we hop'd the King of Portugal will exert himself; and he may depend on it Her Majesties Quota will be made compleat as soon us possible, the Par-" liament baving provided for it. " Brigadier Si-pe, who is returning. will give your Excellency a particular Account of all that is doing here, and what is " intended for Catalonia.

'Tis observable we got Possession of Barcelona but the Third of October, my Lord Sh—n—n and Mr. St—pe, who brought the News to England, arriv'd not before the 22d of November, yet by the

the great Zeal and Application of the late Ministry, Matters had already been concerted with the Dutch for improving the Advantages obtain'd in Catalonia, Forty Thousand Pound Sterling remitted to King Charles, and Convoys getting ready for Five Regiments by the 4th of December.

THIS sure cannot with Justice be term'd Neglect; yet even this was not sufficient to satisfie the ardent Desire the late Ministry had to carry on the War with Vigour in Spain.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Secretary H - s to Lord Ambassador Methuen.

Dated Whitehall, 26th Decem. 1705.

Have none from your Excellency to acknowledge, the Transport-ships for the Two Regiments from England, and also for the Three from Ireland, have been taken up these Six Days; but the extraordinary unreasonable Weather has obstructed their fitting and taking in Provisions, which has retarded the Expedition for some Time: However, we are affur'd that all of them will be ready in a Fortnight to go to their respective Places of Embarkation, if the Wind and Weather permit. Two of these Regiments were designed to have gone with the Dutch Convoy, which I am informed is now passed through the Channel, with One of Her Majesties Ships, and such Stores and Provisions as were in Readiness. and I bope you will fron hear of them. Another Convoy, with Four of Her Mijesties Ships, with Several Store-Ships, and if possible the Imo Regiments from England, will be ready to fail by the 10th of next Month; and a Third Convoy, consisting of Five more Men of War, will be going the Beginning of F bruary with the other Three Regiments. I fend your Excellency a Copy of a Resolution of the States General, wherein they propose a Detachment of Troops to be sent forthwith from Portugal to Catalonia. The Reafons they urge for it are so strong, and the Advice is to good, that there can be no Objection against concurring as far as it can be put in Practice, and therefore Her Majesty would have you and the E--- of G-join in these Instances as far as you can, always provided that this Expedition be not prejudicial to what the Portugal Troops are upon, by marching in Brigades and fmall Parties into Spain, as your last Letter gave an Account was refolv'd on; but if the Portugal Troops should be marched, or ready to enter into Spain, it is however taken for granted here, that the fending some Troops from Portugal, which may make Her Majeties Five New Regiments as many as the States propole, may be easily complied with by the King of Portugal; because his Majesty may not want half his Troops to march into Spain, where there is no Enemy to oppose them; and therefore it is hop'd the King of Portugal will spare as many Troops as Sir f-n " L-ke will take on Board the Men of War, tho' it is not doubted but he will carry as many as he can when he goes with the Five Regiments. And this is the belt Method that can be thought on here for concurring

" curring with the States-General, which you " are to do as far as is confifient with, and " may not hinder the Portugal Troops from "Marching into Spain, according to the Refult " of the Conference you fent me; and if the "King of Portugal shall consent to fend any "Troops to Lisbon, according to this Propotal, "I am Commanded to put you and the Earl of G. . 1 . . v in Mind of the great Want of "Officers in Catalonia, and that his Lordship " will have Regard thereto when fuch Troops " are detach'd, and make the best Provision he " can to supply that Defect; and it is expected " that the Chief Officer of the States will take " the like Care when he fends the States Pro-" portion of Troops on Board the Dutch Ships " that are to go with Sir J .. n L . . ke, which " is suppos'd will be done in Case the King of " Portugal comes into this Expedient, for fo I "think I may call it, fince by what I have "written, your Excellency will fee Her Majesty's " Intentions are to concur with the States So far as it is practicable, but at the same Time would " not bave this Propofal take off the King of Por-"tugal from pursuing the aforesaid Service of " Marching into Spain, which perhaps may be most " Advantageous to bis Catbolick Majesty. I am " to defire your Excellency to communicate the " States Resolution with this Letter to the "E... of G...., and in Case he be gone " into the Field, that you will please to send "it after him, for I have referr'd him to your "Excellency in all that relates to this Matter, "not having Time to write to him at large. "I am, orc,

Copy of a Letter from Sir C— H— to the E. of P——w.

Whitehall, 18th December, 1705.

My Lord, N the 15th Instant I received the Honour of your Excellency's 2d of Novem. with One for the Counters of P-" which was forthwith delivered. On Tuef-" day last I troubled you with a Letter mostly " in Cyphers, by the way of Genea, and a " Duplicate thereof went by Lisbon, fo that I " need not repeat the Contents. You will " have herewith Two Papers, One Call'd. A " Declaration of the Emperor for the West-Indies, " the Other, Full Powers of the Emperor's Com-" miffioners going to the West-Indies, in Spanish; " which are intended only as Hints for the " King of Spain, whenever he thinks fit to " take Part in that Matter, I fend your Ex-" cellency a Letter from the States-General, and also another from Lord-Treasurer, and " need not tell you all possible Care has been taken to furnish you with Credit by Bills fent to Italy, and by ready Money by the Ways of Italy and " Lisbon; and that there is nothing omitted that can be done from benee for Supporting the King " of Spain, and making the best Advantage of the great Successes be bas bad; and here is reason to hope you will have a good Assistance from the " Motion of the Troops in Portugal, Her Majesty's .. Ambassador and General there having assured " Her Majesty, that a Resolution is taken for the Troops to March to the Frontiers immediately, " and to March into Spain, and even to Madrid, in Cafe the Dake of Anjou be March'd towards " Arragon,

My Lord, "THE Envoy of Holland acquainted me this Evening, that the States-General had " taken a Resolution on the 29th Instant, N. S. " in concert with the D... of M-h, " for sending Six Thousand Men from Portugal to "Catalonia, and had Instructed Monsieur Scho-" nenberg with proper Reasons to induce the King " of Portugal to consent to it; and the Envoy de-" fired that Her Majesty would be pleased "to give Orders to do it, fince the Advice " of the States is very Good, and the Reasons " for it are Strong, If It be Practicable. That "which makes this Doubt, is a Refult of a " Conference at Elvas the 3d December 1705, " where the General Officers concluded, that "as to the fending the King of Spain any "Forces from Portugal, it was every Body's Opinion that it would be impracticable at " present through the Want of Transport-ships,

My Lord,

"THED of M bis re-turn'd, and it has been under Considera. " tion to Night where to find some General Officers " for Catalonia; and I am commanded to acquaint " you that speedy Care will be taken so send them. "I have several times, by the Way of Genoa, " given your Excellency an Account of the Prepara-"tions made bere for sending you Succours. "extraordinary unfeasonable Weather has put us back a Fortnight, but I bope the Five Regi-"ments will be Embarked by the End of this "Month, and in the mean Time you will have " received Money and Gredit by the way of Genoa, "Leghorn, and Italy. I have written to Mr. "Crow to find out some proper Vessels to be "employ'd between Barcelona and Genoa for "Correspondence, as I have also done to Mr. Kirk

" Kirk the English Consul at Genoa. Our French " Intelligence mentions great Preparations ma-" king at Thoulon, and that there will be at least "Twenty Sail from thence at Seanext Month. ". You may be sure all possible Care will be taken on " this Side to keep up a Superiority; but as your "Excellency will have more early and certain "Advice from those Parts than we can pre-" tend to have, and fend you an Account from " hence, fo it is not doubted but you will " endeavour to fend fuch Advices as you have "from Time to Time to Gibraltar, to be left " there for Sir J. L. . ke, or the Commander " in Chief of any Squadron of Her Mijesty's "Ships Convoying to you any Forces, Stores " or Provisions, from thence, or from Lisbon. " I wish your Excellency many happy New "Years, and am with great Respect, Oc.

C--- H----

But it seems the Court of Lisbon did not Relish the Project for sending Six Thousand Portuguese to Catalonia, as it had been Concerted by the Queen and States-General, and therefore as the next best Measure to be taken, all possible Diligence was employ'd to get the Portuguese Army early into the Fleld, which may be Collected from the following Extracts.

THE Measures your Excellency is taking for getting the Troops into Field immediately. Her Majesty is exceedingly well pleas'd with, being throughly convinc'd that this is the most effectual Way of giving present Assistance to the King of Spain, all Expeditions by Sea continuing to be both uncertain and tedious, as this of Ours has been, notwithstanding all the Care that has been taken to forward it. But I may now venture to assure you that we shall be ready to Sail in a few Days.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Secretary

Whitehall, 25th January 1705.

Cu R Transports for the Two English Regiments, and the Convoys, are ready, and wait only for a fair Wind, and those from Ireland will soon follow them; they will all Rendezvous at Lisbon, and attend there for such a Convoy as Sir J... L...k thinks sufficient for their Security in proceeding to Catalonia. This Succour will be later than we expected, the no Endeavours have been wanting to quicken the Officers that have been concern'd in setting it forward. Our great Hopes are, that your Excellency is in Motion with the Troops, as being the most effectual Means to relieve his Catholick Majesty, by giving some Diversion to the French Troops, so as they " may not press the King of Spain too hard before Her Majesty's Forces arrive.

I could add many more Letters to the same Purpose, for I have the Copies of them by me, but I believe these may be sufficient Proofs of the Ministry's Concern, and therefore I shall only beg leave to insert One or Two more to shew that my Lord G—y executed these Orders with indefatigable Zeal, surmounted all Difficulties, and brought the Portuguese into the Field by the 25th of March, N. S.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Secretary H. to the E. of G. ... y, Dated White-hall, 12th of March 1705.6.

WE had a Lubon Mail last Night, but so far as I can hear it brought no Letters from your Excellency, for which we are a little impatient, being in Hopes to hear of your March into Spain, the Success of King Charles, and the Arms of the Allies in Spain seeming at this Juncture very much to depend on it. I am very glad to find, after the great Difficulty your Excellency has met with, you are now ready to March into the Enemy's Country with such a Body of Men as may be able to support a Revolt, for which all our Advices say there is a very good Disposition.

Mr. Methuen writes you have Thirty Battallions, and 4000 Horse, besides the English " and Dutch Troops. I hope we are rightly " inform'd, for there is nothing can contribute more to the Advantage of Her Majesty and Her " Allies than Success in this Expedition. " heartily wish your Excellency may have the " Honour of it.

Extract of a Letter from the E- of G-y to Mr. Secretary H-s, Dated from the Camp at St. Salvador, 31 of March 1706.

SIR,

ON the 24th Instant I went from Elvas to Fuente de Sapateros to Assemble the Forces in those Parts, and by the 25th I join'd . the rest of the Army in the Camp near the Caya, " where we continu'd till this Morning for " the Security of the Train, and Carriages for " Provisions, which could not be got ready " fooner. "WE are Marching directly to Alcantara with 15000 Foet, and 4500 Horse, 16 Battering and 10 Field Pieces. That Place is in no " Condition to make any confiderable Defence, " and is of great Consequence to our Defign of Marching into Castile to preserve our Communication with Portugal.

THUS we see the Spring Campaign on the Frontiers of Portugal begun with great Vigour ; and I think we cannot trace trace the Success in better Words than my Lord G----y's to Sir C-H-s in his Letter of the E of April 1706, Dated from the Camp of Alcantara, as follows.

SIR,

"I Had the Honour to write to you from the Camp of St. Salvador, that we should " March with the greatest Diligence to this " Place. We halted but One Day at Membrillo, " whilst a Way was making for the Passage of our Artillery thro' the Salor. We march'd with " 4500 Horse and 13 Battallions to Attack the Duke of Berwick, who was Encamped near " Albrocas with 4000 Horse: We fell upon his " Rear-Guard about Three in the Afternoon, " which we pursu'd near Two Leagues through a Wood.

" THE 9th we March'd and Invested this " Place; the 10th the Artillery and the rest of " our Army join'd us, a Battery of 12 Guns fired. Extract of a Letter from Mr. Secretary

H—s to the E—of G—y,

Dated Whitehall, 25th April 1706.

lency upon the good News contain'd in your Letters from the Camp before Alcantara of the 14th Instant. Nothing less could be expected from your wise Conduct, and I hope this great Success will have encouraged the Portuguese to concur heartily with your Excellency in the necessary Measures for improving the vast Advantage they now have whilst the Enemies Troops are so broken by the Rout of the Duke of Berwick, and the taking of so many Regiments in Alcantara, that they cannot form any Body of Troops on that Side considerable enough to give you the least Disturbance in the Prosecution of your Designs.

" WE can hardly doubt but the Portuguese " will duly confider of how great a Benefit " the Marching into Spain will be to the Com-" mon Cause, fince that is a more effectual Means es of Succouring bis Catholick Majesty, and Re-" lieving Barcelona, and confequently of fixing " bim on the Ibrone of Spain, on which the Iffue of the War, and the Welfare of Europe, bas so great a Dependance. Neither can we fear that any Apprehensions of leaving the Frontiers " expos'd can be of any Weight against such powerful Confiderations, fince as the Cafe stands, the Portuguese have Troops enough to protect their own Country with one Part " of their Army, whilft the other Marches into that of the Enemy. However, that nothing may be omitted which can be done to engage them to show more Vigour on this Occasion than they have done at other Times, I have, by Fier Majesty's Command, declared to the Envoy of Portugal, That if their Army did not immediately from Alcantara March into Spain, Her Majesty should then see plainly that nothing more is to be bop'd for from Portugal. And the Envoy has promised to write in very pressing Terms to his Master about it, tho' I hope there will be no Occasion; but that before ever this Letter comes to your Excellency's Hands, due Care will have been taken to pursue, without Loss of Time, this Blow you have given to the French Interest in Spain. I am, &c.

C--- H---

HENCE we may perceive with what Diligence the E-of G-yhop'd to proceed in his March towards Madrid; and indeed the Consequence of taking Alcantara was very great; for Moralega, Coria, Placentia, and many other Towns of less Note, immediately fubmitted, the Army of the Confederates carried all before them, and for a while it seem'd as-if Providence had defign'd to drive the House of Bourbon out of Spain in as little Time as they had got Poffession of it: But when the Portuguese arriv'd at the Bridge of Almeras, which was about the 10th of May, N. S. My Lord G ____ y says in May 10th, his Narrative, notwithstanding the ftrongest strongest Representations the English and Dutch Generals could make to the contrary, they resolv'd to go no farther, upon Pretence that they wanted Provifions, and certain Intelligence of the State of Barcelona; by which unhappy Resolution his Lordship observes, that they loft as fair an Opportunity of putting an End to the Spanish War, as my Lord P-w did afterwards by not joining the Portuguese in Time at Madrid. And indeed 'tis very probable, had the Portuquese march'd directly from the Bridge of Almeras, they had arriv'd at Madrid before the Duke of Anjou could have returned from France, the Dutchels must have been forc'd to make her Escape; and the feveral Councils and Tribunals. in that Surprize, not having Time or Orders to remove, as they did afterwards when the Portuguese got thither, the whole Affair had been ended.

MY Lord G—y, tho' he had many Occasions during his Continuance in Spain to exercise that Patience, for which he has always been so remarkable, perhaps never met with any Disappointment that mortified him more than this; which struck a Damp to those Hopes he had so lately entertain'd of marching marching to Madrid. But as he ever promoted the Service upon the best Terms he could, not being discouraged either by ill Usage or unreasonable Difappointments; so by submitting his Judgment to that of other Persons, he had often the good Fortune to bring them by Degrees over to his own Opinion: Thus when Affairs bore the most dismal Face, he had constantly some Refort; nor was ever so much discompos'd by the present Missortune, as not to employ his Thoughts upon the properest Means for Redress: The only One left upon this Occasion, was to join with those whose Project was least prejudicial to the Common Cause; and it being debated in Council upon the late unhappy Resolution, whether the Army should march to Cividad Roderigo, or besiege Badajox, which, as his Lordship says, had been laying aside all Thoughts of Madrid, he join'd with the former, engaged them in his Interest. march'd with them to Invest Cividad Roderige, and by their Affistance afterwards brought the Portuguese to Madrid.

We have already observed, that during the Siege of Barcelona, Tarragona, Girone, Lerida and Tortosa had been taken in, so there remain'd no Place in the Principality of Catalonia in Possession of the Duke of Anjon but Roses: Some Towns likewise in Arragon had already paid their Obedience; but my Lord P-m's Author will have it that the Conquest of Valencia was reserv'd for, and entirely owing to his Lordship's Conduct and Courage, yet I doubt upon Examination it will appear his Lordship had as little Share in this Conquest as in that of Catalonia; for Ramos Baffet and Colonel Nebot had almost entirely reduced this Kingdom before the E-- of P-w left Catalonia; which is a Fact fo notoriously known, that even those who have publish'd Accounts in Favour of my Lord have not denied it. Nay, his own Author confesses that a Revolution had already been brought about in the Capital of Valencia, and a

THE Two Great Exploits which his Lordship's Historian so much magnisses in this Campaign, are the Relief of St. Mattheo, and the Circumvention of Mahoni at Malvedro. In both these Actions, according to his usual Custom, he would attribute the Whole to his Lordship, whom he constitutes in the stead stead of Providence Sole Actor by Means hardly Human: Yet I have heard it credibly reported, that one main Reafon why the Enemy quitted the Siege of Mattheo, was because their Miners had all been kill'd by a Mine of their own that forung backwards; and I believe it would be no unreasonable Conclusion to fay there might have been many cther Reasons for the Enemies quitting that Place equally cogent with this, befides the E-of P-w's Conduct and Address: Be it as it will, 'tis certainly not matter of Importance enough to dwell long upon, and I am fure if his Author had faid less of Molviedro it had been more for his Lordship's Advantage; but take the Story in his own Words.

My Lord, as his Officers conceiv'd, had From the Two infinerable Difficulties the One Middle of " Two insuperable Difficulties, the One to get Fage 100, " Possession of Molriedro, and secure the Pass to the on the River; the other to pass the Two Middle of Leagues of the Plains which were Page 102 betwixt Molviedro and Valencia before fo good and fo strong a Body of Horse: My " Lord was in Hopes if he succeeded in one, " to compass the other, and to that End, " fo foon as he found the Treaty in a Fair Way, be chose Two Irish Dragoons out of Zinzen-" doif's Regiment, which he well instructed, and well paid, and sent immediately as Deserters to the Duke of Arcos; he promis'd to make them

Officers if they succeeded, which was punctually made good to One who had well deferved it, the other dying foon after his Return. "THET were to discover to the Duke of Arcos, that being hid under the Rocks of the Hill where they were drinking a Glass of Wine, they had heard all the Discourse between the Earl and Mahoni: That they faw Five Thousand Pistols delivered; and that Mahoni was to be a Major-General upon the English and Spanish Establishment, and to Command a Body of Ten "Thousand Irish Catholicks which was raising for the Service of King Charles. They agreed with the Duke of Arcos to have no Reward if he were not foon made sensible of the Truth of what they faid by Mahoni himself, fince they were perswaded than he would soon send to engage the Duke of Arcos to march immediately with the whole Army to the Carthufian Convent, under Pretence of joining with his Horse, in order to prevent the Earl of P-w from passing the Plains of Molviedro: But that whereas this March must be made in the Night, all Matters were fo agreed and contriv'd between the Earl and Mahoni, and the Troops to placed, that he must fall into the Ambushes design'd, and run great Hazards of an entire Defeat. " IT fell out that soon after these Spies had " giv'n this Account to the D. of Arcos, Mahoni's Aid de Camp arrived with Proposals exact-" ly to the same Purpose; the spanish General, whose Suspicions were confirmed by the Jealousies the E. of P. .. w had rais'd in se-

"from Molviedro to him, instead of complying with the immediate March propos'd by Ma"boni, remov'd his Camp quite the contrary Way. Mahoni with his Horse expected the

" veral of the Spanish Officers, that were come whole Army at the Carthusian Convent, till the Approach of the E- of P-w made him retire to the Duke of Arcos's Camp; as foon as be arriv'd, be was secur'd by that General, and sent to Madrid.

IT was not thus the Romans got Possession of Molviedro, when it bore the Name of Saguntum; they would not have rendred an Enemy's General suspected to his Master by Arts unwarrantable; nor did they ever interpret in so loose a Sense; Aut Dolus, aut Virtus quis in hoste requirat. But indeed the whole History is of a Piece, like his Lordship's Answer to the Five Questions, Printed in the Monthly Political Account for February 17 and Reprinted at the End of this Book; every Line contains a Wonder, an Accusation, or an Impossibility: Yet, by this very Treatife that Author defign'd to give the World a just Idea of the E of P Conduct; but I leave the Reader to judge, whether fending his Lordship Abroad, as he has done, with every Party of Thirty Dragoons, does not make him appear more like a Knight Errant than a General.

BUT was there no Room in this Impartial History to have mentioned those who, in Imitation of his Lordship, had done handsome Actions, and follow'd him at least, if not passibus aquis? Did not Jones, who defended St. Mattheo, deserve a Civic Crown? Were not Cunningham and Wills, who fought the Battle of St. Estevans, worthy the naming? An Action, perhaps as Warm and Glorious, for the small Body of Men that were engag'd, as any that has happen'd this War, where the English, after their plain Old-fashion'd Way, without Treaty or Address, by Dint of Valour, triumph'd over very unequal Numbers of the French.

MY Lord's Author was surely in the Right to call this an Entertaining Subject, I am so entirely of his Opinion I can hardly leave it yet; but it's high Time to think of the Relief of Barcelona, which had been invested by the Duke of Anjon on the 2d Day of April, N. S. Duke of Any 1706. N. S. 1706.

April 2.

I have already observ'd what Apprebensions the Ministry in England were under for his Catholick Majesty, what Advice they had of the French Designs, what Preparations were making in England

England to disappoint them, and what Steps had been taken to perswade the Portuguese to exert themselves upon this Occasion; but notwithstanding the utmost Diligence that could be used, the French had block'd up Barcelona by Land and Sea. and made a Breach almost practicable for Forty Men to march through a-breast, before Sir J-L-ke arrived there with the Grand Fleet, at the King's Affistance, at a Time when Relief was almost despair'd of. The E-of P-w had certainly the best Intelligence, as his own Author fays, that ever any General had, and could not be ignorant of the Enemies Motions; for tho' they had Cunning enough to delude his Catholick Majesty, they were not so Artful as to conceal from his Lordship their Design of belieging Barcelona: Yet I do not find that the Earl of P-was under any Apprehenfions for that Place the 19th of March, 1705, OS. either by his Orders or Letters of that Date. And we all know the Enemy invested it within Three Days after.

The E — of P — w's Letter to Sir J ... n L ... ke.

Valencia, March the 19th, 1705

SIR,

BEING at present in Valencia with a Part of the Queen's Forces, and the Fare of " Spain depending upon the Support of that Kingdom, it is highly necessary that all Ships or Fleets stop at Altea, it being every Way a proper, fince any Forces fent towards Barcelona in the present Circumstances are sent so far out of " the Way. We were flatter'd some Days ago " with the News that a Squadron of Dutch and English were before Alicant, with Four Thou-" fand Men from Lisbon to reinforce us; if " something of this Nature be not true in a few " Days all the Queen's Forces are sacrificed, who by their Adions have deserv'd a better Fate, and " this Noble Undertaking balk'd, by Want of " being supported either with Men, Money, or " any Necessaries: Since you left us we have received no Letter from any Part of the " World; World; a Thing hardly credible. Sir, I keep Barks out at Sea with Orders to all Admirals and Commanders of Squadrons to make their Way to Altea, sending the Advice of their Arrival by Expresses to Valencia, all that Country being ours. Perhaps I may be even near that Place, to be ready to give the Orders necessary for the Service. Sir, your long Passage save me great Concern, and to that I impute the Delays of Succour. Whatsoever happen we are bound to see it, and if we perish abandoned and unsupported, I hope it will appear we deserved a better Fate.

TO me I must confess it seems very extraordinary, that the Enemy should have been able to keep their Army fo long incognito from his Lordship, who had so good Intelligence; and that King Charles should have been so far wanting to himself as not to send my Lord P-w an Account of their Motions, when the Communication was free; but keep him in so profound an Ignorance, even till the Duke of Anjou was at the very Gates of Barcelona; for 'tis plain when his Excellency wrote this Letter he dreamt of no fuch Thing, but thought that all depended upon Landing the Forces at Altea, and supporting the Kingdom of Valencia :

Valencia; for which Reason be kept Barks out at Sea, with Orders to all Admirals and Commanders of Squadrons to make the best of their Way to Altea; but after they should have disembark'd the Troops, Money, and Ammunition, there, they had leave to go and surprize the French Squadron of Twenty Men of War by Night, that lay in Barcelona Road, if they could.

BUT before Sir \mathcal{J} — L—ke received these Orders from my Lord P—w, he had Letters from the King of Spain and Prince Littenstein of a very different Import.

Copy of a Letter writ by his Catholick Majesty to Sir J Let. Barcelona, March 26. 1706.

WHEREAS the Enemy are on both Sides of my Principality of Catalonia, and my City of Barcelona is likely to be befieg'd by Land, having been Block'd by Sea this Seven Weeks past, I am willing to let you know the State of my Affairs, and to tell you my Desire is, that you come to this Place with all possible Diligence, (and without any Delay,) with the Ships, Troops and Money, which the Queen your Mistress has design'd for my Service, and the Relief of Catalonia. I rely on your Zeal and Diligence for my Roy" al Service, and that of the Common Cause, that you will make all the Dispatch possible to bring me the said Succours, on which depends chiefly our Preservation, and the Security of my Person. In the mean time I assure you of my Royal Esteem and Friendship, which I have always had for your Merits.

Copy of Prince Lictenstein's Letter of the Same Date.

"HIS Majesty the King my Master finds at this Conjuncture the Principality Attack'd on both Sides by the Enemy's confiderable " Armies; One whereof is under the Com-" mand of the Duke of Anjou, and the Other "of the Duke of Noailles, and the City of Barcelona like to be Befieg'd; you may eafily " judge of the great Necessity there is to Assist us speedily with the Squadron, Troops and Money, which the Queen your Mistress has " delign'd towards the Succouring of Catalonia. "I hope these will find you within the " Streights, nay, even on the Coast of the Kingdom of Valencia; and what confirms me in this Hope, is, that the Enemy's Eighteen "Men of War that have Block'd up this City " for this Seven Weeks are Sail'd; but we "know not whether they will return hither " again, or go to Thoulon; 'tis wish'd you could bave the same Success on these Ships, as you had last Year with those of Malaga. All the Ad-" vices we have of the Enemy's Designs and Motions agree, that they refolve to leave " the Towns of Lerida and Girone behind them, " and to March with all their Forces directly 66 for Barcelona; which Place, in the Condition it se is in at prefent, is able to make but a very weak 6 Defence

" Defence, having no Regular Troops, and only Guarded by its Inbabitants. And the Fort of "Montjuic is found in the Same Condition as " when it was taken, the City being also without Stores, Provisions, and Money. I well know "his Majetty is Confident of your Zeal and "Application for his Royal Service, and the " Common Cause, that you will use all possible "Diligence to come bither with the Troops that are to be Landed, without any Delay or Hines drance, without which, this City, and all the " Principality of Catalonia, which depends on its " Preservation, will run the Risque of being Lost, with as much Ease, and in as little Time, as the Glorious Arms of the Queen your Mi-" stress, join'd with those of the Lords the "States-General, conquer'd it; besides, the Sa-cred Person of his Majesty will be expos'd to "inevitable Dangers. Waiting the Honour of " Saluting you in a very short Time, I am, 66 O.C.

P. S. "EIGHT of the Enemy's Ships have weigh'd, and are anchor'd again nearer this "City, which makes me more pressing that you will come speedily with your Squadron and

"Molest us; they have already Blockaded me with a Squadron, and their Army is now almost in Sight of this City, and by their quick Marches have obtain'd some Posts; which if they might have been prevented, would very much have hindred their Designs.

"I am resolv'd, altho' I find myself with " fuch a small Garrison, (as a Thousand Men " of Regular Troops, and Four Hundred Horfe,) on not to leave this Place; for in the present "Conjuncture I have confider'd, that my go-"ing hence will be the Loss of the City, and confequently of all the other Places, which 66 the happy Success of the last Campaign hath "reduc'd to my Obedience; for which Reason it " is my Opinion to Risk all, and venture the Ca-" sualties that a Siege is incident to, putting just " Trust and Considence in your known Zeal towards the great forwarding the Common Cause, making " no doubt how much you have contributed towards 66 the Succours forwardness; I bope in a few Days " you will appear before this Place, where your 66 known Valour and Activity may meet with a "Glorious Success, for which I shall again " constitute you the Credit of my Royal Gra-"titude. Given in Barcelona the 31ft of March. · 1706.

I the KING.

By Command of the King my Master,

Henry de Gunter.

UPON receipt of this Letter, Sir 3—L—ke being then at Gibraltar, on the Sixth of April call'd a Council of War, wherein it was Resolv'd the whole whole Fleet should proceed to Altea, and thence directly to Barcelona, in case they should be inform'd the Enemy had not above Twenty-seven Sail there; for Sir 7-L-e had not yet been joined by the Squadron from England under Sir G-B-ng's Command; and that they might be the better able to engage the French, or throw Succours into the Town, 'twas further refolved to take the Soldiers that were with them on Board the Men of War, and fend the Transports back to Lisbon, leaving orders at Gibraltar for the Convoy expected from Ireland not to follow till Fifteen Days after Sir 7-n should have fail'd.

By the 7th of April, N. S. it seems his Lordship's Eyes were likewise opened; but the News appears to have been a perfect Surprize to him; he talks of the Relief of Barcelona in the following Letter as a Matter desperate, and would compound for the Sasety of the King's Person; but is resolv'd to enter his Protest in Time, and lay the Blame as far as possible from Home: For my Part I do not doubt but his Lordship was very much concern'd for the Danger King Charles and Barcelona were in; 'tis possible fible he might upon this Occasion hear tily wish he had rather staid in Catalonia, to fecure that Principality, than have endeavour'd to grasp such distant Conquests, with so small a Body of Harras'd Troops; 'tis certain he could not but remember the is Condition he left the Fortifications of Barcelona in; and that his Expedition to Valencia had, as his own Author fays, been undertaken contrary at least to the Opinion (of great Part) of the General Officers; but from the Hazard which his Lordship run in that Affair he was better able to advise for a Defensive War in February, 1707.

P——w's Letter of the 7th of April, N.S. I beg Leave to insert another of Prince Listenstein's, which seems to have been sent inclosed in it.

Lord P——'s Latter to Sir J— L—e. Valencia, 7th April 1706, N. S.

SIR,

THE King, contrary to all Advices could be offered bim, having delay'd his going out of Bircelona till it is hardly possible for him to get out of that Place, at least without the Ha" zard of bis Person, it is certainly of the high-" est Consequence that we all Endeavour what "humanly is possible for the Relief of that 16 Place, or particularly for the Safety of his Ma-" jesty. It has been my Misfortune, and I doubt bis ill Fate, that his Majesty bath in no-" thing ever attended to the Advices of the Queen's " Ministers, or Mine, and seldom consulted, and "never approv'd of, those Councils and Advices offer'd him by the Portuguese Ambassador, a 66 Man of great Ability, and very Faithful to "the Publick Interest. His Majesty has been " pleas'd to send positive Orders to contradict those "I had given to the Troops under my Command, 66 the fatal Consequences of which Measures " are now apparent to all Mankind, and by Events. These fatal Ministers he has about "him having fent fuch Orders in the King's " Name, which tho' with the utmost Positive-" ness have always been rejected by the unani-" mous Consent of all the Officers present, his "Own, Spaniards, Germans, Italians, English, " and Dutch.

"BUT thefe fatal Orders have prevented all I am able to do for him with Successes almost Mi-" raculous, and a sure Game made almost desperate, 66 by a Repetition of such unheard-of Follies as no

" History can produce.

"THE King is perswaded by the same Ad-" vices to fend positive Orders, or what is very like " them, to Yourself and Admiral Wastineer.

"I fend you a Copy of my Commission, " which fome Circumflances make me con-"ceive necessary you should look over. The "Contents of one Order they were pleas'd to "Communicate to me, but this last is a Se" cret.

"THE first being an Order to bring immediately to Barcelona the Fleet, the Troops; and . Money, Money design'd for the King of Spain. I pre-Sume this last may be a Repetition of the same with more Earnestness.

"HAVING secured to his Majesty this Ca-"pital of Valencia, and the whole Kingdom "being in Subjection to his Majefly, being in " Person here with a good Body of Horse, besides "Three Regiments of Foot, and possess d of all " those Places by the Sea-side, Denia to Valencia, " by which the Junction of the Succours might be " made safely without any Opposition, baving all "Magazines, Provisions, Ammunitions and Artil-" lery bere, which are provided nowhere elfe. By "the unanimous Confent of Three or Four "Councils of War, the Vice-roy of Valencia " joining with the Representatives of the King-"dom in the fame Opinion, and all his Cathoa "lick Majesty's Officers agreeing to a Man in " those Councils of War, I fent several Orders by Boats and Ships to fignific my Desires that the "Troops, Money, Artillery, Horses, and all rec lating to Land-Forces, might be Landed at Altea, " Denia, or if safe, the Weather Settl'd and fair, at the Grove near Valencia. Small Ships only " coming near the Shore, with Transports that " at a great Distance would be met with great "Numbers of Boats and Barks for the speedy "Descent, the Men of War not being detain'd "from the speedy Succouring of Barcelona by "Sea, if in a Condition to dispute with the " Enemy. I had likewise sent Orders to Lieute-" nant-General Windham to Land the Troops, &c. "with the utmost Dispatch, intending-upon the " first Notice to come aboard to give the best "Directions, Advice and Intelligence, in my " Power. These Orders were previous in Time to those you may perhaps receive from his Majesty, " which I fear are the Produce of Land-Admirals. " I shall now only give the Reasons why I gave

"the Orders for the disembarking the Troops "at Altea or Denia, as of absolute Necessity, in "my Opinion, for the safe and speedy Opera-"tions of the Fleet, as well as the Land-"Service.

"HOW unfafe it is for a Fleet to come before an Enemy with the Incumbrance of Transports ships is obvious, especially when it may be doubtful they may be Superior in "Force; without fuch Incumbrance an unequal Force might be avoided without the Necessity " of a Battel.

"IF the Forces are Landed at a Distance from the Enemy, the Transport-ships might be left with a very small Convoy, and the Main Fleet proceed without Delay or Danger towards the Enemy. The Number of the Ships of the Enemy are now about Seven and Twenty Sail; and the common Report, and the Intelligence from the Court, confirms, that the Count de Tholonse was putting to Sea with the great Ships and Galleys. This is what I thought sit to lay before you, not knowing what to say as to the Contents of this Packet of the King of Spain, it not being Communicated to me. I am, Sc.

To Sir 7- L-e. P-w.

that all the Forces, Ammunition and Money, should be landed at Denia, Altea, or the Grove of Valencia; 'tis further observable, that notwithstanding what has been alledg'dagainst his Lordship for being so remiss in his March to Madrid, he was actually ready for it at the Time he writ this Letter; tho' some unlucky Accident or other happen'd to retard his Motions so long after the Relief of Barcelona, that the Portuguese waited for him at Madrid, and in the Country thereabouts, above Forty Days; but of this Matter hereafter.

THE Fleet, according to the Resolution they had taken the Sixth of April, April 18th arrived by the Eighteenth of the same Month the Length of Altea, where it seems Sir J - L—ke receiv'd my Lord P—w's Letters and Orders of the 7th, but very providentially the Council of War held thereupon were not of Opinion to follow his Lordship's Advice: For if they had, in all Probability Barcelona had been lost, as you will see by Sir J— L—c's Letter.

consider whether to stay till the Irish Convoy join'd Me, the Wind being then Westerly, and it was agreed to remain off of that Place till the next Day at Noon, as you'll see by the Copy of Our Resolution; and to send immediately the same Four Frigats before to Vineros and Tortosa, on the Coast of Catalonia, to gain further Intelligence. The next Morning the Panther, which Ship I had order'd the foregoing Night to ply to the Windward, to look out for the Irish Convoy, discover'd Three Sail, which in a few Hours join'd Me, and proved to be the Antelope, Winchester and

SIR,

Your most Humble Servant,

J-L-c.

BUT before the Fleet arrived my Lord P—— w had march'd with part of the Troops under his Command, and some Miquelets, towards the Mountains near Barcelona, whence he wrote the following Letter to Sir J—— L—— e.

April 22d, 1706, N.S.

SIR.

THE Destiny of Spain depends upon the Arrival of Thirty of Her Majesties Ships before the taking of Barcelona: To see the Fleet there, that is like to decide this Important Affair, would make one mad. There is not above Eighteen Ships of Force, and about Ten Frigats, and Two Bomb-Vessels;

it is very Unfortunate, that by the end of April a Competent Number of the Forty Sail design'd to stay at Lisbon for Our Relief in Spring, should not be in these Seas by this Time, when the great Fleet may almost be expected, which the Queen has writ to the King of Spain sail'd the 12th

" THE Circumstances of the Sea are so uncertain, that without forming any Judgment, I only lament Our ill Fortune; for I cannot conceive that any other Enterprize " could be taken in Hand, that could any ways prevent the Arrival of the Succours and the Fleet for an Hour; if any such have taken Place, the Loss of Spain, the Risque of the "King's Person, and the Sacrifice of all Her Majesties Troops, is owing to so absurd a " Measure; and as I always inform'd Our Mi-" nistry, I can only say, Our hard Fate was that Our Destiny depended upon others, not "Ourselves, for I am confident We have done Our Duty; but in Our present Condi-" tion I only offer my Advice, to pretend to do more without being upon the Place, or appriz'd of all Circumstances, would be very indifcreet: I still continue to think, that the Men of War should get rid of the Transport-ships, and all Incumbrance, before they come near the .. Enemy, it being uncertain how their Number may encrease every Day: So that a Descent at Veneros, a little beyond Peniscola, or at Tortosa ce to chuse, at least no nearer than Tarragona, is what I have advis'd already, and continue in. " the same Mind.

Letter, considering the Circumstances of Barcelona, is, that about a Thousand Men should be received on Board the Men of War, in order to be

" flung into Barcelona by Sea, if it be requisite, which divided will not incommode the " Fleet, and prove of Advantage in Case of " Action; it being certain any Part of the Succours may Land with Safety from Altea to " Tarragona, the Country being all ours, and " all the Cittadels and Places of Strength in our Hands; Tortofa and Tarragona being Places almost Impregnable, and the Enemy prewented from Marching that Way by impra-Aicable Mountains, and the whole Country " in Arms. Lieutenant-General Windham upon " the first Notice will have immediate Orders and " Directions, which will make him eafie, and be " join'd with what Horse or Support shall be thought convenient, and I shall give him the like Intimation, that you may agree in the most or proper Measures for the Publick Service at this Critical Conjuncture. I am,

At my Quartersnear Barcelona; 22d Apr. 1706. SIR, Your, &c.

THIS Letter is certainly a strong Proof of my Lord P——w's Impatience for the Arrival of the Fleet; but we may observe, he was still of Opinion the Forces should be landed no nearer than Terragona, save a Thousand to be clapt on Board the Men of War, which had been done long before his Orders came to that Purpose: And I believe one might without any Injustice say, that

Sir 7- L-e reliev'd Barcelona, if not directly contrary, at least not purfuant, to my Lord P-m's Method: It cannot be denied but my Lord had got some Troops ready in small Embarkations off of Vineros, or Mattero. to take the Opportunity of flipping into the Town under the Protection of the Fleet; and that his Lordship came aboard Sir 7-L-e from the same Place, and hoisted his Union Flag at the Main-Top-Mast-Head; but all the Mea: fures for the Relief of Barcelona had already been concerted, and in a Manner executed: For Sir G-B-ng, Sir 7-n 7-n-ngs, and Admiral Wasanaer, made Sail before the Fleet, cast Anchor in the Road, and by Sir G— B—g's Order a good Body of Forces were actually thrown into the Town, before One half of the Fleet knew that my Lord P-w was aboard, who indeed upon his Arrival at Barcelona was pleased to approve of what Sir G-B-g had directed.

FROM this Relation, which is a very faithful one, and could still be vouch'd, if necessary, with more Original Papers, notwithstanding the Author of the E— of P——w's Conduct in Spain has attributed so great a Share to the Relief of Barcelona to his Lordthip; 'tis evident he knew nothing of the Enemies Defign upon that Place Three Days before they had actually Invested it: Five Days after he knew the Town was belieged, his Lordship was of Opinion for Landing all the Succours in the Kingdom of Valencia, and Twenty Days after no nearer than Tare ragona. Now to fay nothing of the unparallell'd Dispatch made by Sir 7-L-e and Sir G - B - g, in bringing the the Elect and Succours to the Relief of Barcelona in so critical a Time, contrary to my Lord P-m's Opinion, let any indifferent Person judge whether that Place had ever been taken, if my Lord's Opinion in the Eleer, to deny the Assistance of the Seamen, and his Haste to be going for Italy, had been complied with ; or if it had ever been reliev'd if his Lordship's Orders had been obeyed, which were directly opposite to the King of Spain's Interest and Desires, as may be feen by his Letter of the Fourth of May to Sir 3 __ L-e.

WITHIN 2 Days after the Arrival April 30th, of the Fleet, and Landing of the Forces O. S. on the last of April, O. S. Mareschal Tesse thought sit to raise the Siege, being intirely disappointed of any surther Assistance from the Sea, without which which it was impossible for him to subfift, straiten'd by the Miquelets at Land. and despairing of carrying a Town by Storm, that had now near Six Thoufand Regular Troops in it, which 'tis very possible he might believe to have been a much greater Number than they really were. It feems he march'd off with very great Precipitation, for he left behind him not only his Sick, but an Hundred Brais Cannon and Mortars. with vast Quantities of Ammunition and Provisions, which fell into our Hands. I confess I could never yet learn the certain Reasons for so sudden a Retreat, but I have often been inclinable to believe that the Earl of P brib'd the Enemy to it; for his Lordship hints something of that Nature in a Letter of his, which I shall insert in its proper Place, for this is amongst the Articles of Expence for which he had no Vouchers. the same Letter it will appear that Major-General Mahoni did likewise receive a confiderable Sum from his Lordship for delivering up Melviedro.

I believe it would be needless to infert an Account of the many strenuous Offices which Mr. Methuen past at this Juncture with the Court of Portugal, because it is sufficiently known that no Minister ever acted with more Zeal for the

the Common Cause upon all Occasions:
But I shall take the Liberty of Printing

HER Majesty has commanded me to signifie to you, that She thinks your Excellency and Lord G—y have done extreamly well; but She is very much surprized at the Disappointment She finds by the marching back of the Portuguese Troops, through the unaccountable Obstinacy of their Ministers and Generals.

"AND if notwithstanding all this the Portuguese will force Her Majesty to a Breach, your Excellency and the Earl of G—y will best judge how Her Majesty's Forces may be most usefully employ'd, either by joining the King of Spain, who we believe is by this Time at Madrid, or near it, or else by Marching towards Cadiz, or to Lisbon, in order to Embark, or what other Measures are proper to be taken; and let Her Majesty know your Thoughts, that such Directions may be given from hence as are necessary and suitable thereto. I Must desire your Excellency by the first Opportunity to forward to the E—— of P——— w a Copy of my Letter to you of Wednesday last; and as I doubt not but you communicate to him any thing of Importance, so you will now particularly let him and the King of Spain know what Resolutions you take at this Critical Juncture, in relation to Her Majesty's Troops in Portugal. "HER Majesty commands me to signific to you Her Approbation of your Conduct, with which She is entirely satisfied.

THE Portuguese had sat down be-May 21st, fore Cuidad Roderigo about the 21st of N. S. May, and by the 26th of the same Month that Place surrendred; at the same Time arriv'd certain News of the Relief of Barcelona; and my Lord G—y laid hold of this Opportunity to perswade the Portuguese Generals. they might now, without running any Hazards, put their King's Orders for a farther March in Execution, and have the Honour of taking Possession of Madrid for King Charles: Accordingly a Rout was agreed upon, the necessary Preparations made, and the whole The March March perform'd in less than a Month, was began tho' the Army had a great many I eagues to traverse, and several rassages to the 3d of June.

ON the 24th of June Madrid paid June 24 its Obedience to King Charles; and this Important March, which had been fo little expected, aftonished the whole World. It may eafily be imagin'd how agreeable a Surprize it was to the Ministry in England, who had nothing so muchat Heart as the Reduction of Spain; and it may not be improper to fee by the following Letter how prudently they were contriving to improve those Advantages obtain'd by the Lord G - 1's Conduct.

Sir Ch—H—'s Letter to Lord G—y.

Whitehall, July 2d, 1706.

My Lord;

"I Hope this will find your Excellency at Madrid, fince my Lord Ambassador in his Letter of the 25th N. S. past gives an Ac-" count the Army would have march'd to Villa " Castin on the 17th; and that on the News of " the D. of M-----'s Glorious Successes " in reducing the greatest Part of the Spanish " Nerberlands to the Obedience of K. Charles III. " Orders had been fent by the Court at Lif-" bon for the Army to march on to Madrid, in " Cafe your Excellency bas succeeded in this great "Undertaking, and that King Charles be acknow-" ledg'd in that Capital, Her Majesty is of Opi-" nion be will have no Enemies in Spain in Two Months; and is so fully perswaded that Ca-" diz and all the Country will follow the Example of Madrid, that She has not thought " fit to fend any new Orders relating to the " Operations at present; nor does She intend to do it till She fees whether She Conjectures right or not. She believes the Spanish Nation " will so far consider its own Interest, as not " to Aflift or give Countenance to the French " to re-enter that Kingdom; and if they should " not, it seems more impracticable to attempt " it by the Way of Navarre, than it was by " Catalonia. Besides, the French Troops are so " fully employ'd, that there is no Reason to be apprehensive of any Efforts they can make this Year, even though they should quit the "Siege of Turin, or be Masters of that Place. "Her Majesty thinks the Troops for the pre-" fent may be more usefully employ'd in some Part of France than in Spain; and that they " will make fuch a Diversion as will render " France incapable of giving the Spaniards any more Trouble this Year; and the Hopes when they consider the Spanish Netherlands " are already reduced, and that their Lawful " King and his Allies have no Detigns for Dif-" membring their Monarchy, they will never " entertain Thoughts of submitting again to " the Tyranny of France. It is a great Happi-" ness to the Common Cause that your Excellency " will, in all probability, be with the King of " Spain upon his being declar'd, fince it may re-" ceive great Advantage by your good Advice in " Settling Affairs with him, as it has done from your great Care and prudent Conduct, by which you surmounted Difficulties with the Portuguese which were thought Impracticable. " am, Sir, &c. C--- H---

by all Mankind believ'd to be so very Important to the Common Cause; but I could not easily have forgiven his Lordship if for a Piece of Ceremony without Consequence he had quarrell'd withour Allies, and loft fo Glorious an Opportunity, by disputing the Post of Honour with the Portuguese for so small a Number of British Troops, as he had then under his Command, only One Regiment of Horse, and Five of Foot: But whatever may have been faid by fome Persons of his Lordship for this Omission. I am sure he would have fared much worse had he been so injudicious to have infifted upon a Point that must, in all Probability, either have broke the Alliance, or rendred it entirely useless; for after a formal Claim made it could never have been yielded: Nor is their Objection of Force who alledge, that no one could be fure of that Consequence without having prov'd it, fince no Man is allow'd to try Experiments at the Expence of Kingdoms; and they that are acquainted with the Temper of the Portuguese, who (notwithstanding they have Reafon to be more immediately concern'd in the Success of this War than we) had never entred into the Alliance with us, had we disputed the Command with them, will easily conclude how prudent it had been in the Lord G--y to have insisted in so Nice a Conjunture upon this Point of Honour.

BUT as this Objection to the E—of G——y's Conduct would certainly be of no Weight, when put in the Scale against the Importance of his March to Madrid, much Pains has been bestow'd in this Impartial Age to cast a Blemish upon that which deserves the greatest Praise.

A S little Merit, however, as is now allow'd to this March, it had that Effect upon the Spaniards, that almost the entire Kingdoms of Leon, Old and New Castile, paid their Obedience: All the Places of Importance from Madrid to Portugal were ours; Toledo amongst the rest; and Cardinal Portocarrero himself. who was then there with the Queen Dowager of Spain, sent Assurances of his Submission and Fidelity to King Charles. So nothing was wanting to Crown this great Work, but his Catholick Majesties Presence at his Capital, and the Arrival of the Troops under the Command of the E- of P- w; for which Reason Reason the E— of G——ysays in his Narrative, he daily dispatch'd Expresses to them both, urging the great Importance it was of to his Majesties Assairs, that he should join the Portuguese Army without loss of Time: And lest these Expresses should by any ill Fortune miscarry, Publick Notice was likewise given in the Madrid Gazette, that the Portuguese were there, and expected very shortly to be join'd by the Forces with the King and E— of P———w.

BY what hard Fate it so happen'd that all this Diligence had no Effect we shall shortly enquire, and in the mean time content ourselves with obferving, that the unparallell'd Dispatch which was made in the Execution of this Project struck a greater Terror into the Spaniards, and had, in Truth, more Share in the Success, than the Number of our Troops; but the fatal Delays that were made in joining my Lord G-y at Madrid by my Lord to count our Effectives; and when they found the Portuguese Army did not confist of above Fourteen Thousand Men, including Horse, Foot and Dragoons, goons, they began by degrees to be more afraid of the French Army that was expected, than of the Allies that were already there; they renew'd their Correspondence with France, and prevail'd with most of the Towns behind us to revolt, and take up Arms in Favour of the Duke of Anjou, who, with all possible Diligence, joining the remainder of his scatter'd Troops, had already got a Body together of Fortyseven Battallions, and Eight Squadrons, under the Command of the Duke of Berwick, at Xadaraque, and hourly received fresh Supplies from France.

SINCE it has hardly ever been controverted, that the War in pain had now been ended, if my Lord G y had been supported as he deserved. 'tis high Time we should examine into the Reasons of those Delays that were the loss of this great Opportunity; the fairest the Allies have ever been Masters of, or perhaps may ever have again, during the Continuance of this Expensive War; for which Purpose we must return to Valencia, and see how the E of P——w employ'd his Time after his Arrival in that Kingdom, whither he had been sent, as his Historian says, by the Resolution of the Fundamental Council of War, to get all Things in readiness for his Catholick Majesties March that Way to Madrid.

BUT lest I should have mistaken his Author's Meaning, I will do him the Justice to transcribe the Paragraph entire.

"The Siege being rais'd, and the Enemy ad- Page 234 " vanced into Roussillion, his Lordship clearly " forefaw what Deligns they had to put in " Execution towards the Recovery of Spain, and therefore be immediately made all the pref-" fing Instances to the King and Court to basten their Departure from Barcelona, and to use the " utmost Dispatch to get Possession of Madrid; for it was beyond all Contradiction that the King's " Presence at bis Capital would have made all the Chief Places in his Dominions declare for bim. And an ordinary Force upon the Frontiers of Navarre would have fecur'd the Paf-" fes there against any Second Entrance of the French into Spain: These Motives and Ar-" guments urg'd by my Lord had their proper " Weight with the Court and the Army, and " accordingly it was unanimously twice resolv'd in " a General Council of War by all the Ministers and Officers, that the King should with all of Diligence imaginable march towards Valencia, " andthat my Lord P-w with 6000 Men " should go thither before, and prepare every Thing " in Order to carry on his Majesty to Madrid.

HENCE the Reader will naturally observe, that the Earl of P——w's Author would have it believ'd his Lordship's Lordship's Thoughts were entirely bent upon a March to Madrid; and as I have already observ'd, that he was fent to Valencia by Two Solemn Councils of War to prepare every Thing, in order to carry his Majesty thither; yet tis certain his Lordship had no such Defign at that Time, or at least it was not the Project that he thought most immediately necessary, as may be plainly collected from Two Councils of War, held aboard the Fleet in Barcelona Road, where his Lordship approv'd at least, if he did not absolutely direct, other Services for the Land-Forces; but I am inclin'd to believe the latter, because his Author fays, "His Lordship " not only took proper Resolutions, but " with a Prudence, fortunate to himself as " well as to the Publick, never omitted to " secure the unanimous Consent of all Coun-

"being justify'd by the Events. COPIES of these Councils were transmitted by Sir \mathcal{J} — L— to the Prince's Secretaries, in his Letters of 15th of May, 1706, which for that cils of War, and gave in Writing be-" forehand the Reasons that never fail'd.

Reason I shall insert with them.

"I believe will leave this Place in Nine or Ten Days.

"The Mary and Medway are (by my Lord's Delire) order'd to Genea with Mr. M. th. n the Envoy, and to convoy a Ship with Powder for the Duke of Savoy, and as soon as they have been clean'd at Genoa, they are to receive 400 Germans on Board, and return to the Fleet again. I am,

SIR,

To the Honourable Your most Humble Servant, the Secretary to his Royal High-ness.

At a Council of War of Flag-Officers and Captains, held on Board Her Majesty's Ship Prince George at Barcelona, May 4th, 1700.

Present

His Excellency the E. Captain Price, of P—w,
Sir John Leake,
Sir George Byng,
Sir John Jennings,
Captain Noss, Sommersdyke.

IT is the unanimous Opinion of this Council of War, That it were highly for the Interest of the King of Spain, and the Allies, that competent Forces being left for the Defence of Barcelona and Girone, the rest be employ'd immediately, in Conjunction with the Fleet, in Securing the Conquest of Valencia, and promoting his Majesty's Interest all along the Coast of Spain.

" That

"That it is apparent to the Council of War, that no Attempt can be made by the French, in their Circumstances, against Bareciona, but that if any such could be, the Fleet being within the Streights, and the Troops towards the Sea-Coast, no Enemy could prevent the sending Succours to Baroelona in Case of Necessity.

"That nothing seems to this Council of War of greater Consequence than the immediate putting in Execution those Resolutions that may be proper to be taken, (whilst the Enemy are under a Consternation,) towards the encouraging the favourable Disposition in all the other Parts of Spain, even as far as Madrid.

"AND this Council of War humbly take their great Forwardness to concur in all "Measures possible for his Honour and In-

Sir John Leake,

Sir George Byng,

Sir John Jennings,

Captain Noffe,

IT being the Opinion of the Council of War, beld on the 4th Instant, that the LandForces, in Conjunction with the Fleet, he immediately employ'd towards the Conquest of Valencia, lencia, and promoting his Majesty's Interest along the Coast of Spain.

"IT is Agreed and Refolv'd that the Forces be receiv'd on Board the Fleet and Transports, which my Lord P——w shall direct; and if Wind and Weather permit, to Sail on Thursday next; and having Landed the Forces at Denia or Altea, (which of the Places the Wind shall render most con" venient,) to proceed to Alicant.

THE Reader will observe, that the first of these Councils was held on the 4th of May, O.S. where his Lordship indisputably declar'd his Opinion for a March to Murcia, or Alicant at least; and how far fatiguing the Troops with such Expeditions was necessary towards carrying the King to Madrid, may easily be judg'd, since they lye directly the contrary Way from Requena; and by the same Rule of arguing the Reduction of Grenada had been equally conducive to that End.

On the 7th of My, O. S. which is the same with 18th, N. S. about Three Days after the Resolution taken for a March to Alicant or Murcia, that Fundamental Council of War, Printed by the Author of the Earl of P——w's Conduct, was held in the Presence of his Catholick Majesty, where all the Publick Ministers, Admirals and Generals, as fisted. In this Council, as his Lordship's Author

Author fays, Madrid was certainly the great Point in view; but for fear the Resolutions, now taken in so Solemn a Manner, being Subsequent in Point of Time, should have in any kind invalidated those of the 4th, for marching to Alicant and Murcia. His Lordship before he fail'd from Barcelona, viz. on the 19th of May, O.S. convoqu'd another Council of the Flag Officers, where his Opinion of the 4th was confirmed.

THIS Refult no doubt is a very strong Proof of that constant Zeal with which the Gentlemen of the Fleet have ever embrac'd all Opportunities of serving his Catholick Majesty, and promoting the Common Cause; but how my Lord P---w, who knew the Troops required Rest, and ought to have been * referv'd for that Great and Glorious Defign of Madrid, could come into this Resolution, I must confess I cannot eafily conceive.

THUS the Reader will observe, whatever Schemes my Lord might have in Petto at that Time for a March to Madrid, his Opinion deliver'd on Board the Fleet was very different. as a further Proof of his Excellency's steady Conduct, he was no soonhe recollected that he had very pressing Instructions to go to the Relief of the Duke of Savoy with Three Regiments; and this, which if it could have been complied with, was undoubtedly a very important Service, seems to have had the greatest Share in his Lordship's Inclinations, for he would have quitted the Siege of Barcelona to have gone thither Four or Five several Times, as may be seen by Sir Cloudstey Shovell's Letters already Printed.

Upon these Instructions a Council of War was held aboard the Prince George off Valencia, the 28th of May, when his Lordship, in Conjunction with the other Admirals, resolv'd to receive all the Forces aboard that could be spar'd, and sail immediately with them to Italy.

At a Council of War of Flag-Officers and Captains, held on Board Her Majesty's Ship Prince George off of Valencia, May 28th, 1706.

Present

His Excellency the E. Sir John Jennings, of P—w,
Sir John Leake,
Sir George Byng,
Captain Price,
Vice-Adm. Wassanzer, Captain Sommersdyke.

"SIR J——L——e having laid before this Council of War Her Majesty's Or"der of the 2d of April, and that of his Royal Highness's of the 26th of March, in both of which are express'd Her Majesty's earnest Desires to give all possible Aid by Sea and Land to the Duke of Savoy, It's unantements are the spaced for that what Land forces can be spaced for that Service, the Fleer to receive them aboard, and do proceed with them to such Place as shall be thought most convenient for the speedy Succouring his Royal Highness; as likewise to space to the Dutch Admiral all the Provisions necessary to enable the Squadron of the States"General to assist in that Expedition.

THUS you see the March to Madrid, and the Design upon Alicant and Murcia, was entirely laid aside; and one would naturally expect to find his Lordship in a few Days making the best of his Way towards the Coast of Italy.

But

But so so n as his Excellency got ashore again, his Mind alter'd, and in this second Instance as General he contradicts that Opinion which he had taken but the Day before as Admiral. H's own Letter to Sir \mathcal{F} — L—e will best show the Reasons for it.

Letter from Lord P—— w to Sir J— L - e.

Valencia, June 9th, 1706. N. S.

SIR, I Call'd a Council of War, and it was obvious to all there, that the Divers receiv'd from " the Ducen and Prince were to be communi= " cated to the Ik. of Spain, and his Antwer er= " pected, which as foon as I receive I shall " Communicate. This Road being dangerous, and the Resolution to proceed to Alicant taken, I have nothing to offer to the contrary, but to " let you know, that I have Advices the Ene-" my is retiring from those Posts that they " were posses'd of between Me and Alicant; " so that unless the Service require my Marching " into Castile, I shall be in a Condition by " Land to support the Enterprizes of the Fleet on the Coast towards Alicant or Carthagena. " I have nothing more to add, but to wish "you a good Voyage, and I shall constantly communicate what I may think for the Ser-" vice. I am,

To Sir J = L. P = w. HENCE

HENCE you perceive the Reason why his Excellency could not embark the Forces now, was, because the King of Spain's Consent was requisite, but was it not equally so the Day before? And were the Admirals so unreasonable not to have taken that for an Answer if it had been then alledged?

NAY further, when the King of Spain's Leave was actually obtain'd, (as by his Letter of the 3d of July, 1706, Printed by my Lord P——w's Author,) could not his Lordship have then Page 14-proceeded? Especially since the King's Orders were thought so very positive, that he mentions them in the following Manner to Sir J——L—e.

Extract of Lord P --- w's Letter to Sir J -- L -- e, Dated from Valentia 18th July, 1707.

You will have a Proposition from the King by the Count of Zavillar. The Letters I have from the King were so strong for the Relief of the Duke of Savoy, and I thought myself so charg'd by them, that I was very uneasie, and now wonder that one from his Majesty should be soliciting another Expedition.

BUT we may observe, tho'my Lord is not yet return'd to his great and original Design of preparing all Things for a March to Madrid, he is come back to his second Resolution, or rather his first, against Alicant and Murcia. But read the following Letter.

Letter from the E. of P——w to Sir J— L—e, Dated from Valencia, June 10th, 1706. N. S.

"HAVING been indisposed, and now troubled with a Loosness, I cannot come as board; but as you are desirous to know my Opinion as if at the Council of War, I think it is plain the King's Answer may as well be expected at Alicant as in the Bay of Valencia, the first being a safer Road as I apprehend for the Fleet.

"BESIDES, upon the Retreat of the Enemy I have Hopes that Place may Surrender upon Sight of the Fleet; and if not, I am now giving Orders that Troops may march that Way in order to Countenance our Naval Efforts, and in due Time to expect a Siege in Case of Resistance. I have likewise sent Directions to Raise the Country thereabouts, and to some of the Gentry to appear in Case you continue in the same Resolution with the last Council of War, of Sailing to Alicant. As to my own Thoughts, they are for pursuing the Results of the last Council of War.

"I suppose you cannot Sail before to Mor"row, and I desire you'll let me know what "Ships you leave here to be disposed of, as I
"men

"mention'd in my last, and by those that you fend ashore I will return the Letter to the Governour of Alicant. I am, &c.

FROM this Letter I shall beg leave to make some few Remarks, which I conceive to be very just and obvious: That his Lordship had some Forces, even at that Time, the roth of June, N. S. in Condition to march, and undertake a Siege; for he actually sent Brigadier Gorge foon after with Twelve Hundred Men to Alicant, tho' we hear nothing of Requena till a great while after; which if it was the Road to Madrid, as his Lordship afferts in all his Letters to the King of Spain, that was furely the first Post to have been secur'd, and not Alicant, by an Expedition that would naturally harass the Troops, and in case of Success require a Garrison to secure the Place; which must of Neces fity diminish the Number of those Forces design'd to conduct his Catholick Majesty to Madrid: Yet with how much Obstinacy his Lordship pursued this unreasonable Design, directly contrary to the King of Spain's Orders, and Mr. Stanhope's earnest Desire, is evident from his own Letters.

Letter from Lord P ___ w to Sir J _ L __ e.

Valencia, 26th July, 1706.

SIR.

"I Send enclosed'those Letters which give you to understand that the King expedis I should understand that the King expects I should 66 bring more Forces from the Sea-fide, when it " were highly necessary to send more thither. " Such fatal Changes of Measures, such Diver-"fity of Orders and Designs, are very little " confishing with the few Troops, with the Season of the Year, and the fatal Circum-66 stances of our Troops in point of Health, "when Regiments of Seven Hundred Men " are reduc'd to Two. In my Opinion and Decant, and had enclin'd that Way perhaps to a Fault, had the King as plainly declar'd against it; but the cruel Delays have given the Enee my fuch Hopes and Heart, that it is plain our Troops will meet the utmost Refistance; and Alicant is abandon'd by all that would be our Friends, and is become the Refuge of " all those that Baffett's Cruelty have made Defperate. IN the present Circumstances, if such un-

"precedented Resolutions could have been ex"pected as the Court have taken, it had been "more reasonable to have sent all or none of our "Troops that Way. But had the King march'd "directly to Madrid, a Letter had taken Ali"eant, and Mahoni would willingly have gone off with part of his Plunder. Perhaps I "could make this plain, but indeed when I sent the Troops towards Alicant, it could only be with " a Design to try if the Sight of Troops would en-" cline them to give it up; for the Letters from the Queen, and those repeated ones I had from the "King, left no room for other Thoughts than those " of Embarking the Troops for Italy; so that the "Road of Valencia being so very bad, it was " reasonable to send them towards Alicant or " Altea, in order to the Safety of the Ships, "and better Embarkation of the Men.

"THE Letters from Court have not that "Weight with me as those from the Ministers of "England and Portugal; and as the King presses " the March of Troops towards Castile, to repair " the Inconveniencies that Change, Irrefolution " and Delays, have brought his Affairs to, Mr. "Stanhope plainly Says, the King will not spare a " Land-man but for the Enterprizes in the Islands. "This Opinion be does not disapprobe in the " prefent Circumstances, which is a plain " Declaration against the Siege of Alicant, " he declaring in One of his Letters, that "any farther Conquests on the Coalts "does rather Weaken than Augment our " Strength.

"OuR Troops Few, our Men in ill Health, "the Country People, as we always found " them, Useless, and the King declaring against "it, the Event Doubtful, the Success thought " and declar'd Inconsiderable; these are small "Encouragements. But the next Thought is,

" will not the Fleet be Useless?

"YOU know better than me the King's "Opinion and Preferrences of the Services of "the Islands; he has not been pleas'd to write " to me of it, when he fent so solemn an " Embassy about it. All that I can say, is, I " fent Alnut's Regiment to Carthagena, that " the Fleet might take their Marines for that "Service, if they thought fit to attempt it.

"THE King expects more to comply with his Desires, and indeed to prevent his Fears, that are as unreasonable now as his Considence was otherwise before. I think of ordering a Regiment to march immediately to Cattile if the Siege of Alicant be judg'd for the present unreasonable; so that One Regiment, or indeed One Half Regiment, as they are all, is hardly sufficient tor "Carthagena, and Two more, which is all, and the Horse, is but sufficient to save the Country from utter Ruin; so that for the Islands

"IN DEED to me if Twelve Hundred Men are not sufficient, as many Thousands may be wanting, for Success in Majorca depends upon Good-will, and in Minorca upon Suc-

"no Land-Forces can be expected, but those

" cels and Surprize.

"I always lay little Weight upon Opinions at a distance; I rather state the Case, and give my Opinion with much Resignation; only that if any Body has a Mind to it, there it is; and I am the more unwilling to offer my Thoughts when they are required with a haste, and Orders that are pretty extraordinary in a Day and Night. I might have more Light from Intelligence in Eight Hours Time; think the best Answer is, that Councils of War should determine; and nothing more occurrs to me on this Subject.

"I think, Sir, we are pretty fure from any Danger of the Enemy at Sea. The King is very defirous that Two small Ships should "Cruise off Peniscola, to prevent Provisions being flung into the Place. I doubt whether Ships can prevent such Services to be done by Boats, but we do not want Ships to try

" the Experiment.

"The king prelling to much for Troops, "if the Siege of Alicant be not resolve on "by a Council of War, I send Divers for "Montjoy's Regiment to come to Cassile." I desire you will Transport them by Sea in what Vessels you think sit, both for Dispatch and avoiding Hardships in this cruel Weather; they may Land any where near Valencia.

Valencia, July 26. 17c6.

I Refer you to my Letter to the Admiral, and to the Copies I send of the King's and St—pe's about Alicant; but if that Design and Attempt be not judg'd proper in your Council of War, I desire you to apply for Transportation of Montjoy's Regiment to Valencia, or to make them march to Requena, if Shipping cannot be obtain'd.

"I have sent Alnut's Regiment to Carthagens, and to leave you as Strong as you went, and you may follow your own Opinion as you judge sit for the Service, to join either Raphael or Sancta-Cruze in Murcia, if you do not Expose what is behind in Valencia, or get what Cannon you can from the Fleet, to put you in a Way of not being oppos'd in every little Town. I would not have you forget Villena, if you have Occasion.

"leave the Troops in better Hands; and when they have mounted the Horse, they pretend they'll find Horses for them presently in Muricia.

" People and One Regiment.

"I have shown you the King's Mind on "this Occasion, and I think the Cale is "plain: I always cubmit all Things to " Councils of War, and doubt not you will " thuse for the best.

HENCE the Reader will observe, that on the 26th of June, when the King of Spain was upon his March to Madrid, and in Danger of being intercepted by the Enemy, all the Representations both his Catholick Majesty and Mr. St-pe could make for Forces to join them in Castile, were of so little Effect with the E- of P- m, he only resolv'd to send them One Regiment, (which according to his Lordship's own Computation could not be above Two or Three Hundred Men at most,) and that only in case the Siege of Alicant should have been thought impracticable by the Officers that lay before it; tho' Brigadier G-ge at the same Time was commanded by his Lordship to proceed with a Thoufand Men into Murcia, the direct contrary Road to Madrid: Which Orders the Brigadier obey'd after the Surrender of Alicant, but loft a great many Men in this this Expedition, and was foon oblig'd to retreat with Precipitation. Some Troops indeed he left behind him at Elche, an open Town between Alicant and Oraguella, where they were furpriz'd, and made Prisoners of War, by the Enemy.

BUT what is further remarkable in this Affair, the Troops under the Command of Brigadier G—ge, which were so much wanted in Castile, really contributed very little towards the Reduction of Alicant; for as the Fleet, without any Affistance from the Army, had made themselves Masters of Carthagena not long before by the exemplary Cou-fune 13th, rage and Conduct of Sir G - B - g and Sir J - J - gs, so now the Squadron which Sir J - L-e had ordered Sir G --- B --- g to Command for that Purpose, did Bombard and Cannonade the Town of Alicant with fo much Success, that in a few Days they made Two Practicable Breaches in the Wall between the East and West Gates, which the Sailors bravely ftorm'd, and Sir G - B - g being in Possession of the Place, forc'd open the Gates to let the Land-Forces in, who having lost their Engineer Petit, were not yet even Masters of the Suburbs,

MANY Apologies have been made for his Lordship upon this important Objection to his Conduct and his Historian has gone so far as to affert that his Excellency had nothing so much at Heart, even from the Date of his leaving Barcelona, as a March to Madrid, how justaly the World will judge. But to convince all Mankind of the Candour of my Intentions in this Matter, I will take the Liberty of Printing the Extract of One of his own Letters in Answer to a Query made his Lordship by the E—— of S——d upon this Head.

The E—of P—w's Answer to the following Query, in a Letter from the E—of S—d, Dated 28th of September, 1707.

"YDUR not marching with the Troops under Your Command to secure the "Possession of Madrid when you had Posses of the E— of G—y's being there? "TO the first Point I answer, that the Regiments I carried from Barcelona were supposed to be in a present Condition to march, whereas they were unprovided of every Thing.

"THAT I us'd the utmost and most remarkable Diligence to procure every Thing necessary for them. That the Count de las Torres, in my Absence

" Absence in Catalonia, being Master of the " Field, foreseeing he must leave Valencia after "the Siege of Barcelona rais'd, pillag'd the " whole Country, and forc'd all the Mules into the Bordering Places of Murcia and An-" dalufia. " THAT I knew nothing from the E ... of G-y of his being in Madrid, of his Wants or Circumstances, but by hearfay; " never having receiv'd any Letter from him, " nor any Message during all my Stay at Va-

" lencia. "THAT common Fame gave the E ... of "G-y above Twenty Thousand Men, " and I conceiv'd he had no Enemy to oppose " him. That being tied down by the Fundamen-" tal Council of War at Barcelona, to wait for " his Majesty to carry him to his Capital, " and expecting and preffing his coming every " Day, I could not make any Motions till af-" fured he had alter'd his Resolutions.

" THAT I had politive Orders to folicite " the King of Spain in the most pressing Terms " to allow of Succours to be fent to Italy; " and thereupon his Majesty gave me Orders " to keep the Troops ready for embarking, " with the Affurances that he depended on the " Forces under my Lord G-y's Command,

" as sufficient for the Establishment in Spain. " And laftly, That as foon I could, with any " Safety, I broke from a kind of Prison in " Valencia, under the Cover of a Council of War, " upon Notice of the Disorder and Irregularities " of the Army in Castile, and came time enough " to attend the King of Spain with the Troops " into the Camp, and immediately upon the " Lord G-y's Retreat from the Enemy, " of which he had no Notice till he came in " Sight of them.

THUS

THUS the Reader will observe my Lord P - m had several Reasons why he could not march without Delay to Madrid; but so soon as he could break loose under Pretence of a Council of War, he did actually go thither without Loss of Time.

ONE of these Reasons is, Want of Equipage, which I must confess at first Sight has very great Weight in it; but when I consider that his Lordship in his Answer to the Five Questions reprinted at the End of this Book, values himself in express Terms for having carried on the War in Spain without Men, Money, Ammunition, Baggage or Provisions where only one of these Circumstances was wanting, and where there was fo little Opposition in the Way, one would imagine a Person of his Lordship's Marvellous Genius might have cvercome so small a Difficulty, had his Inclinations been entirely bent upon a March to Madrid, as his Historian would have us believe; for 'tis certain he did find Ways to fend a Body of Twelve Hundred Men to Alicant, under the Command of Brigadier G-ge some few Days after his Arrival at Valencia; whereas all the Troops that his Lordfhip ship carried with him, when Two Months after under the Pretence of a Council of War, he had broke through all Restraints to join the Portugese Army, were not much above One Third of that Number: Tho' the E— of P——w had then actually under his under his Command in Spain Thirteen English Battallions, and Four Regiments of fomething odd, That his Lordship should at this Critical Time labour under such Necessities, when its very plain by his Orders to the Fleet already Printed in this Book, He was in Person at the Pead of a very good Body of Troops in Valencia, and in very fastourable Circumstances, it joined by a fresh Body of Men, to march Lord's Ortowards Madrid. even so long be ders of soze as the 18th of March, P. S. that Date when there must have been infinitely Fleet. more Hazard and Difficulty in the Undertaking.

Lord

Lord G——y should be so Unfortuinate to have all those Expresses miscarry, which he dispatch'd every Day after his Arrival at Madrid to the Earl of P——m? Nay, some of them possitively assured my Lord G——y, as he says in his Narrative, that they had actually deliver'd his Lordship's Letters to the E— of P——m; and Lieutenant-General Windham writ to my Lord G——y, That to his certain Knowledge Three of those Letters which his Lordship had sent the E— of P—wupon this Subject did come to his Hands.

BUT be that Matter as it will, was not the great Point at that Juncture to have march'd to Madrid, even tho' the Portuguese had not been there? And did not my Lord P--- w know or believe they were there even by the 23d of June? Whereas 'tis plain his Lordship did not begin his March from Valencia till a Month after. But let us read the following Letter to my Lord G—n, and thence be inform'd had of the Motions of the Portneuele Army, and of the Circumstances he was in himself for a March to Madrid on the 23d of June.

AS this Letter begins something abruptly for the Reader's Information, it will be necessary to Print a Paper of Questions, sent his Lordship by the Hands of Mr. St—pe, to which the Letter referrs.

Copy of some Heads laid before his Excellency the E- of P-w.

"If, THAT his Catholick Majesty should inform the Queen what it is he can depend upon, what those Countries can or will do for his Service.

2dly, "THAT his Majesty makes the Queen acquainted what he expects from her Friendship and Alliance, in order to supply what Spain cannot or will not do for him.

3dly, THAT your Lordship represent to the Queen the Deficiency of the Funds deflin'd for this War, to which End your Lords fhip fend a State of the same, with the expected Charges, and all the Contingencies already pass'd, as the Two Sieges of Barcelona, Fortifications, changing the Foot into Horse,

"and remounting the Old Corps, &c. 41bly, "THAT your Lordship repre-

"fent to the Queen how great a Part of the 250000 l. is now charg'd, and was effectually fpent before it was given.

5thly, "THAT you represent that the Bread cannot be carried into the Field without an Additional Expence. As likewise the Draught of the Artillery. Neither of which are accounted for in the Calculation

" fent from England,

6thly, "TO represent that it is impossible that the Officers, with the little Money allow'd by the Queen, can buy and maintain their Mules for the Service in the Field.

"goons can subsist upon their Pay.

"8thly, THAT the Exchange must be re-"gulated and fixt by the Queen, and if any "fmall Loss happen thereby that it be upon " the Account of the Publick.

9thly, "THAT as to fuch important Services, as the Surprize of Cales, or the Succouring of the Duke of Savoy, a proper Commission be prepar'd to act as the Circumstances may invite for the Advantage of the Publick.

The E— of P——w's Letter to my Lord G——n.

My Lord,

AS to the first, I have often press'd it to the King, but I believe it was never comply'd with, he being unwilling to give the true Answer, which is this, That they can or will give nothing in Catalonia. They gave 100000 Pistoles, but to what Uses employ'd no Body knows.

"THE second I doubt is imply'd by the first Answer, if Spain gives nothing, England must give all. But, my Lord, whatever they say or write, I must assure your Lord-ship they demand and expect you'll fortifie and provide every Place with Ammunition and Provisions; that you'll buy the King's Meat and his Cloaths; in a Word, supply

" every necessary and superfluous Expence. I " think

"think this ought to be explain'd, for while they find a Poffibility of being furnish'd, they expect and ask even for a Pistole, and find fome Method to get Money if it be above Ground.

" MY Lord, as to the third Article, the " Accounts show one Part, where what I call "Contingencies exceeds the Establishment; " absolute Necessity requir'd some Disbursments, and I have explain'd in my Letter to " the Secretary the Methods of getting Money; " but in Truth, my Lord, Such Services, and " fuch a Revolution, must be paid for by Somebody; and you fee how Helpless either the Humour of the Spaniards, or the Court's ill Management of them, have made them to the Pub-" lick upon this Occasion; for they have con-" tributed nothing to their own Deliverance; the few Troops they had behav'd themselves " upon all Occasions infamously, and their Ge-" nerals were absent from me with some little " Number of Men; and the People of the " Country have exercis'd fuch infamous Rob-" beries and unheard-of Cruelties, that their " Scandalous Behaviour has made the Disci-" pline I kept the Troops in the more remarkable. I fend the Copy of a Letter which the Conde of Zavella, one of the greatest Men in Catalonia, employ'd to look into these " Matters by the King, fent to his Majesty, " which gives a true Representation of all the " rest of their Officers, and shows the Cha-" racters of those in the Ministry who would " fuffer such Proceedings. "THE other, he adds, are all infifted upon "THE other, he adds, are all infifted upon in my Letter to the Secretary. And tho' I receive such Epittles from the King about Money, that show how little satisfy'd his Ministers have been with what I have or-der'd upon all Occasions for his Service; yet in Truth I have been often in Pain how I should be justify'd in disposing of so much " Publick Money, without positive Orders for 10 doing. But, my Lord, I must find Ways to fatisfie all the Expences of his Troops, or have no use of them; and had I not Fortified all his Places, and put Provisions into them, as appears by the Accounts, they must have fall'n into the Enemies Hands in a Day. " Dy Lord, there are but Two Services " for which I have not particular Receipts, and those were of a Pature did not admit " of them. The Dne was, when I fab'd " the whole Kingdom of Valencia, and all the Troops with me, and by some Artifice and Treaty got the Strong Pals of Molvie-" dro, the Town and Castle in Six Hours "Time, withour any Artillery with me, " tho' Major: General Mahoni was in it with " a Body of the best Troops, besides the " Militia. The Drher was at the Railing " the Siege of Barcelona ; for the Rafting it " in so Ertraoidinary Manner could not be " natural to leave 107 Cannon, 38 Mortars, " fuch Infinity of Provisions undermin'd, " with five Thousand Barrels of Powder " not blown up, when they might have retir'd " in all Appearance when they pleas'd, and " Cap'd as long as they pleas'd; this must " be owing to some errranzoinary Moribe. "The Truth is, I had Treared with Three "* Regiments which in Twenty Hours " more would have join'd with me, perhaps " to their total Ruin.

^{*} But those Regiments did not come over, and consequently should not have receiv'd any Money.

"MY

MY Lord, I have made thefe true Represen-" tations to your Lordship for fear of the Worst, " tho' I think our Affairs are in fo good a Condition that the Queen may be entirely eafie; " and take for granted, that Her Arms, in less than a Year's Time, will have forced the Duke of Anjou from Spain, and plac'd King " Charles in Madrid. It was more to let you " fee what Difficulties we have thruggled with, " than for any present Uneasiness, that I send 66 fo long a Letter to the Secretaries Office; the " Portuguese have but to walk into Madrid, and " I affure your Lordship it well be without a Blow; " the Two Thousand Horse and Six Thou-" fand foot, with which I march from Valencia into Camle, make the Cafe Desperate, which was enough so before by the Superiority of " the Portuguele, fince the Spiniards have fo lit-" tle Foot ; and humanly Speaking, befoze this comes to Hand, you must hear of my Lord G-y from Madrid.

" BUT when you have so perfect an Account of the Court of Spain, as I hope my " Letters give, attended with fuch Proofs, you know what to depend upon; and what Orders to give. Had I Sufficient Power over the " Fleet, and the Troops, you might be sure, with the Opinion of every Officer here, I hould be now embarked with Six Thousand Men. and the Fleet Sailing inwards Italy. But tho' I shall use Arguments which I think extreamly for the Interest of the King of Spain; " I am fure they will not prevail; and I can get not fo much as Answers to Letters upon that Subject; and they feem to aim at drawing all the Troops towards Arragon from the " Sea-side, to prevent any such Expedition, " fearing there may come Orders with the 'Grand

"Grand Fleet, which they are sensible I should

" willingly Obey. " I cannot but fap Dne Word, which may " look Suspicious from a Soldier, I hope " we are not in Danger of a Peace befoze " we secure the Certainty of Peace, at least " for our Daps, if we were to purfue our good " Fortune as far as I beliebe we may ealily carry it. Your Lordinip will fee plainly by " my Letters how we must be supported for " Men and Money, and how made easie with " Orders. I confess I would secure this " and the future Age from the Power of " France, and Cure the Disease without Dan" ger of Relapse. " My Lord, you will be pleas'd to dispose " of me not only as a Zealous and Faithful Sincere and Faithful Servant to your Lordship.

" Subject of the Queen, but as of a most Valencia, 23d 1706. June.

TO fay nothing of his Lordship's Bribing Mahoni at Molviedro, and the Enemy at Barcelona with Money he could get no Receipts for, without fixing the Sums, whereby he referv'd to himself a Liberty of bringing to Account whatever Charge heshould think convenient upon those Heads, I must desire the Reader to observe, That on the 23d of June his Lordship speaks of marching in the present Tense with Two Thousand Horse and Six Thousand Foot to Madrid, where where he verily believed the Portuguese were already arriv'd: For he could not imagine a Letter from thence would reach England sooner than one from Valencia.

BUT this is not the only Proof of his Lordship's having Intelligence from the Portuguese, or what is much the fame Thing, the Means of getting it; and sure a Person of his Lordship's Disinterested and Zealous Temper for the Service of the Public, would not scruple marching to Madrid for want of the Ceremony of a Letter. On the 26th of June, as my Lord's Historian has it, a Council of War was held in the Viceroy's Palace in Valencia upon the Ar Page 38. rival of an Officer from the E-of G-y with Letters for the King and Prince Lictenstein: 'Tis true, this Officer which his Lordship very much resented, and took a Certificate of the Fact, tho' in Truth he had no Occasion; for the King of Spain, as my Lord G— says in his Narrative, was then at Saragossa, and thither this Officer was dispatch'd, tho' he happen'd to be forc'd out of his Way to Valencia by a Party of the Enemy: Upon the Intelligence however however that this Officer gave, that Council of War resolv'd, the E-of P-m should immediately march to Madrid with all the Forces but those at Aliea, that lay ready to embark, which suppos'd his Lordship to be then, on the 26th of June, in a Condition to execute that Retolution.

THE Obligations the E- of P-w was under to wait the King of Spain's Arrival were now entirely vacated, and his Lordship pertectly at Liberty to have proceeded, had he pleas'd, without Loss of Time; nay further, those Obligations of waiting for the King, tho' recited in this Council, were, as I conceive, purely imaginary; for I collect from the Fundamental Council Printed by the Author of the E-Page 26. P - w's Conduct, there never were in Answer any such Ties laid upon him: On the Question. contrary, in Answer to that Question relating to the Disposal of the King's Person during the Campaign, the following Refolution was taken.

> " WHERE the Residence of his Majesty should be . Altho be declar'd his Mind that he would be at the Head of his Army, it was thought [&]quot; more proper by this Council that his Majesty " Bould proceed to Tortofa, that he may be on the Subjects, in putting them under his Obedience, and to forward the Disposition for the Campaign, towards the Speedy bringing the Army together; and when so, and fit for Service, that they may may with more ease issue out those Orders that

ON the 26th of June at least all Impediments were entirely remov'd, and my Lord P-w perfectly at Liberty to have march'd, if he had pleas'd, the next Day with those Two Thousand Horse and Six Thousand Foot, which he mentioned Three Days before in his Letter to my Lord G — n, except only the Forces that were near Altea, ready for embark. ing, which by his Lordship's Instructions could not be above Three Regiments; yet 'tis certain he did not join the Portuguese Army till the 6th Day of August at Guadalaxara; and when he did fo, only carried Three Squadrons of Dragoons along with him, as may be feen more at large in my Lord G -y's Narrative. I am not insensible that the entire Blame of this Miscarriage has been very Industriously thrown by my Lord P-w's Friends upon the King of Spain: And tho' I think I have evidently shown, that his Lordship was not in any Kind oblig'd to wait the King L 3 of of Spain's Motions, yet as his Catholick Majesty's Envoy here has by a Memorial sufficiently vindicated his Matter's Conduct in this Affair, I think 'tis a Point of Justice due to a Crown'd Head, whom the Alliance is so deeply engaged for, to infert a Copy of that Memorial in this Place; and the rather, because it will fave me the Trouble of observing, that till his Lordship really believed the Purtuguese were got to Madrid, and till he was even according to his own Rules at Liberry to have march'd without the King of Spain, he never press'd his Ca-Printed by tholick Majesty to move; for his first Historian, Letter upon that Subject bears Date the Page 30. 5th of July, whereas the Council of War had fet his Lordship at Liberty to move the 26th of June. And I must confess to me it seems as if the Author of his Lordship's Conduct thought he could very easily have impos'd upon his Reader, if he imagined he would not obferve the Date of this Council, and of that Letter; but whoever reads the Memorial will make his own Remarks.

A Translation of Count Galas's Memorial to Her Majesty, Dated 30 of August, 1706.

Madam.

SO loon as the Enemy had rais'd the Siege of Barcelona, and his Catholick Majesty saw himself deliver'd, through your Majesties Assistance, out of that extreme Danger, into which his Zeal, for all that concerns the Good of the Common Cause, had involv'd him, his first Thoughts and Occupations were to make use of all possible Means for improving that fair Opportunity that offer'd of going-forward to Madrid, where he had good Reason to hope he should soon see himtelf possess'd of all the remainder of the Spa" nish Monarchy.

 with the rest of the Forces design'd for this Expedition, after which they would march

" jointly towards the faid Capital.

"BuT when the necessary Means were to be provided for putting these Measures in Execution, the little Money which the King had taken up upon some Jewels in Portugal, and up in some Plate at Barcelona, with that little wherewith Poor Catalonia could furnish him, being all spent, and there being no Cloathing, or other Necessaries, for the King's Troops raised, and to be raised. And his Catholick Majesty having been informed by his underwritten Envoy Extraordinary, that by the Account he had received from Mr. St ... pe before his departure from hence, among the Provision made for the bervice in Catalonia, there was allow'd to his Catholick Majesty wherewithal to Arm a d Maintain 6000 Men, and to provide 'em with Cloatning, and all other necessary Furniture and Accoutrements. And having likewife Advice from other Hands, that of the 250000 1. Sterling granted by the Parliament, there was above 100000 l. upon the King's Account, his Majesty thereupon had recourte to the faid Lord -w, who (notwithstanding his former Promises publickly made of the Assistance of his Catholick Majesty might rely upon) made Aniwer, that he had received neither Cloathing nor any other Necessaries for his Troops, and that all the Money come-by the " Fleet confifted but of 150000 Pittoles, whereof 10000 l. were delign'd for his Catholick Majefty, of which he was willing to pay him one half now, and the other at another time. Having made this Declaration, he let out for Valencia; and as these 10000 Pistoles, even tho' his Catbolick Majesty had received " the whole in Ready Money, were not sufficicient to supply his Occasions, being no more "than what the faid Lord's earnest Solicitatations had formerly prevail'd with him to borrow, and to give his Lordship for his " first Expedition to Valencia. His Catholick "Majesty still insisted upon his former De-" mands, but could never obtain any Answer but this, That he had no other Money, either " for the King or his Troops, excufing himfelf " upon certain Instructions he pretended to " have received from hence, whereby the " Money was apply'd to quite different Uses. " THUS his Catholick Majesty having from " his first coming into that Country, till that "Time, receiv'd no more from the said Lord than once 10000 Crowns to mount the Regiment of Zinzendorf, 15000 Pistoles at another " time for the Expences of the Siege of Barcelona, " and 5000 Doubloons for the Fortifications of "Girona; and being oblig'd to provide him-" felf all that was necessary in this unhappy " Conjuncture, (which it would be too tedi-" ous to your Majesty to have here enumerated, " but will eafily be conceiv'd by your Majetties " quick Apprehension,) saw himself reduc'd " to so desperate a Condition, that far from " being able to do what was refolv'd on, to " march to Madrid by the Way of Valencia," " he wanted even what was necessary for the " daily supplying his own Table; and found " himself so loaded with Debts, that he had "Reason to apprehend some Disorders would " enfue, if he should depart without paying " them. " NOTWITHSTANDING all this, bis Ca-" tholick Majesty, abandon'd as he was, by the " faid Lord, how great soever the Difficulties might be, used his utmost Endeavours to put

himself into a Condition to begin his Journey; and in effect fet out the 23d June, still with an Intention to go by the Way of Valencia, having no other Fund but what Providence might raise by the Way; and the Hopes, that according to the Promise your Majesty had been pleased to make to him in your " Letter of the 4th of December last, of fending him confiderable Succours of Men and Money, he should at least obtain some Relief " from the faid Lord; but on the contrary, " he received before he reach d Tarr gona les " beral Letters from tim full of Protestari= " ons, That his Lordship had not where: " wirhal to affice him, representing ar the " fame Time the Wap by V lencia to be, by " Reason of several Difficulties he fer touth, almost impracticable, and himself in his Letter of the 17th June intimating that by Saragossa: So that his Catholick Majesty baving nothing to hope for from the faid Lord, and finding it impossible for him to carry his Troops fo far through an Enemy's Country, " without any Means of sublisting them, was " oblig'd to accept the Offer of the Inhabitants of Arragon, who had newly declar'd for him, and invited him thither. . 1 Tis true, that my Lord P-w, when he had Warning given him, that he would become answerable for the Inconveniencies that such an Alteration of the Kout might produce, afterwards wrote to the King, as appears by his Letter 5th of July, that he had found all that was necessary for his Majesties Occasions; but he did not do it before it was too late, and till such Time as his Dasesty was already upon the Road to Sarazotta, which oblig'd him to return the following Answer to the said Lord.

" YO'V

" YOU represent to me the Importance of my " going immediately to Madrid, and propose to me " the Way by Requena, as the shortest and securest from Insults; you tell me the Dispositions, both of Men and Money, you have now made for ac " companying my Person; and further offer me to come to me to concert the rest, which might contribute to the good Success of this Undertaking, for " which I am very much oblig'd to you. But being upon the Road to Arragon, and engag'd to of pursue my March that Way, I am willing to se tell you the Chief Reasons that have induc'd and

" oblig'd me to take such a Resolution. SEVERAL of your former Letters mention " the Concern you were in that you could not sup-" ply me with any Money; That your Foot was al-" most entirely ruin'd, and useles; That you could " not find Mules for the Baggage; And that in Short " you could not make one Step in such a functure " for my Service. To this you farther added an " Account, that in my Passage through the King-" dom of Valencia I should want every Thing; " and therefore baving not the necessary Funds to defray the Expence of the Journey, the Troops I " should bring would be ruin'd in a short Time, " and my Person expos'd to great Inconveniencies " and Disadvantages: So that seeing the Inclina-" tion and Fidelity which the Kingdom of Arragon began to show towards me. I took the Refo-" lution out of Necessity to turn this Way, where I " hope, from a Country abounding in Provisions 46 for a Subsistence for my Retinue, and my Troops, " besides the Supplies which my Faithful Subjects " may present me. With this Prospect I ordered " Some Regiments to march to the Frontiers, where " I now am; and the Province baving order'd it fo, that Saragossa, the Capital, has openly declared " for me, it seems becoming my Royal Dignity to go myself, and take Possession of that Crown; and the rather fince by the same Way I can advance towards Madrid, and making use of the favourable Conjuncture, join with the King of ec Portugal's Army, not doubting but the Generals of the Allies that Command it will fend some Detachments forward to cover, as I defire, my " March to that Capital, being resolv'd to make 66 but a short Stay at Sarago I., and then to march that Way, which will be thought most secure and be practicable, whereof I shall forthwith give you Notice, in order to regulate afterwards the Rout which the Troops from Requent, or the Neighto bourhood, are to take, in Order either to meet " me, or to secure elsewhere my Passage. " willing to beliebe the Road by Requena is " free; but per I wonder that by so easse a " Way you receive no News from my Lozd co (, _____, fince there is nothing that can " hinder the Communication on that Side. B fides the Reasons contain'd in this An-" fwer, there was yet another which does not carry less Force in it than those, viz. That his Catholick Majesty could repose little Confidence in these Promises, having fresh in his Memory the Example of what happen'd at " his Departure from Lisbon, when the Earl, to " Engage his Catholick Majesty to leave that " Place, affur'd him, that he should want for nothing; that he had 40000 Piftoles, whereof 8000 s bad been given him by your Majesty, the Re-" mainder being his own Money, besides an unli-" mited Credit upon Genoa and Leghorn; but se scarce were they arriv'd in Catalonia, when his " Lord (hip instead of Giving any Money, Demanded a some, and oblig'd his Catholick Majetty to Borrow, and advance to him wherewithal to to make his first Expedition into Valencia. " HIS Catholick Majesty hopes that your Majesty will be fully convinc'd by this Rela" tions

" tion, the Truth of which is made Evident by the said Lord's own Letters hereto annex'd, and by the King's Answers, that it " was through meer unavoidable Necessity that his Catholick Majesty did not set out sooner from Barcelona, and took the Way by Saragoffa, instead of that by Valencia. And as your Majesty will perceive by this Account that his Catholick Majesty's Condition for want of Means is brought to this, that he is in Danger every Moment of feeing " himself abandon'd, not only by his Troops, but even by the very Servants of his own " Houshold, who for this Year and Half have not receiv'd the least Payment, which cannot " happen without rendring his Royal Person 66 contemptible to the Spaniards, and without his loting the Affection and Respect of those " who hitherto have been the best and fastest " Friends, discouraging those whom he far-" ther hoped to bring over to his Interest, and " giving the Enemy all the Advantage they can defire.

" HIS Catholick Majesty therefore flatters him-" felf, that after so many Favours granted him "by your Majesty, you will not suffer him to " fink under his Misfortunes, but will forth-" with Affift him with Money to preferve him " from all those Extremities wherewith both " his Person and the Common Cause of all the "Allies are threaten'd. His Catholick Majesty " referrs himself as to what remains to Mr. " St -- pe's Representations to your Majesty " of the Measures to be taken for the future, concerning which it will be very necessary " to confider, that even tho' his Catholick Ma-" jesty should be happy enough to remain Master " of Madrid, and even of the greatest Part or "of all Spain, he will full find a naked City, at and a Country quite ruin'd. Done at London, the \(\frac{2}{3}\) of Angust, 1706.

I believe it may be entirely needless to make any Observations upon this Memorial; but I shall beg Leave to add some few Proofs, that the Subject Matter it undertakes to demonstrate was even before the Delivery of it, the received Opinion in England, as may be seen from the sollowing Extracts.

My Lord,

"HIS Morning I received the Honour of your Excellency's Letter of the 27th of June by Colonel Richards, which has been laid before the Lords of the Committee of Council; but the State of Affairs is so much chang'd since the Date of your Letter, and all Advices by the Way of Holland giving an Account

"Account that you join'd the E. of Gnear Guadalaxara, and that some decisive Action was expected on that Side, it is not " possible to give any particular Orders till Her Majesty has been acquainted what has been the " Effect of your Junction. I am, Oc. C--- H-

BY this Time I believe the Impartial Reader may be pretty well able to judge whether the World has had any Reafon to tax his Lordship's Conduct for having lost so Glorious an Opportunity, which might have secur'd us the Monarchy

Monarchy of Spain, and put an End to that Expensive War: But late as it was, the E- of P-w did arrive at Guadalaxara on the 6th Day of August, tho' his Historian, for Reasons best known to himself, has not thought sit to mention the Time; but here he is pleas'd to say he met the Portuguese retreating in great Disorder from the Enemy, to take Possession of a strong Camp; and many more Reflections his Friends have cast upon the Conduct of the Marquis Das Minas, yet as great Mistakes in all Probability as this, which was certainly fo: For my Lord G-y averrs the Portuguese Army had been encamp'd at Guadalaxara some Days before the E- of P-w arrived there. I shall not say why his Lordship's Friends thought Recrimination fo very necessary upon this Head, but I will proceed to that great Refignation in Point of Command, his Lordship's Historian says he was Master of, which has not as yet been made very plain to my Understanding.

THAT my Lord G——y desir'd nothing more than to be free from the Command of the Army, is evident; for upon his first Arrival at Madrid he dispatch'd Captain Montague with Letters to the Queen, giving an Account of his Circumstances, and desiring to be recall'd, which Request he frequently repeated during his Continuance in Spain and Portugal, for he had quitted his Retreat in Hampshire with Reluctancy, and, as I am inform'd, is now return'd to it with Pleasure, undisturb'd at the Malice of particular Persons, whilft fecure of the good Opinion of the Impartial, supported by the same Constancy of Mind, which first taught him to forego a Nobie Estate for his Religion, and fince to bear chearfully the loss of an Eye and an Arm, for the Publick; Happy in the folid and lasting Comforts of a good Conscience.

ON the contrary, my Lord P—w seems to have been in great Concern that the E— of G—y, if ever they came to join, should Command him; at least it looks as if his Lordship had stated some Query of this Nature to the Ministry at Home by the following Extract.

Extract of Sir Ch—H——s's Letter to my Lord P——w.

Dated from Whitehall, 23d July, 1706.

[&]quot;HER Majesty believes that there can be no Ground of Dispute between your Excellency

Lordship's Conduct, which were certainly made within a short time after the E—of P—w's Arrival at the Camp, but judg'd so very impracticable, no Body, except his Lordship and his Friend Count Noyelle, who were the Two Generals that wanted a Command, could think of complying with them.

THESE Proposals, his Author says, were not approved of, upon which his Lordship desired a Council of War might be called the very next Day, and there started his indispensible Instructions for going to Italy, which in all Probability had never been thought of, if his Proposal about the Command had been approved. The Reader will easily compare the Dates, the Proposal was of the Eighth, and the Council of War of the Ninth of August, 1706. Marquis das Minas, Lord G—y,
Ambassador of Portugal,
Count Noyailles,
Her Majesty's Envoy Mr. St—pe, Prince Antonio de Lictenstein.

Per A. Furly.

IN this Council of War, held the 9th of August, 1706. at Guadalaxara, you will observe it is recited, that his Lordship had communicated to the Generals and Ministers, there present, the positive Orders which he had received from the Queen, his Mistress, to attend the fleet with some Troops to Italy; upon which Supposition, the I helieve believe I shall prove the same to have been a Mistake; that Council of War did agree to his Lordship's going to Italy with the fleet and forces; but he carried neither fleet not forces with him when he went thither: Therefore this Council cannot be alledg'd to justifie his Conduct in that Particular. And indeed his Historian seems to be aware of it, wherefore he adds other Reasons for his Lordship's Voyage; that he was employ'd to borrow Money for the King of Spain, to negociate Bills of Exchange for the Marquis das Minas, and to procure Subfiltence for the Queen's Troops, which at that Time they wanted: It may be eafily granted, that his Lordship did do this, tho' a Contract had been settled by the Lord Tr-r at Home Merchants of Genoa for supplying the Queen's Troops at a much cheaper Rate, and long before the Earl of P--- w arrived there; but these only Accidental Commissions wherewith his Lordship was charg'd; because it had been before resolv'd by the Council of the 9th, that he should go to Italy with the Fleet and Forces, upon which Occasion having offer'd to do do the Common Cause what Service he could, the King of Spain gave him Authority to borrow Money for him, and the Marquis das Minas desir'd the same Favour; but there is not the least Syllable of Money from Italy mention'd in that Council of War. Now therefore, if those Instructions which his Author has Printed, and which I shall faithfully Copy, will not justifie his Lordship in going to Italy without either fleet or forces, purely to borrow Money. I believe the Impartial Reader will conclude with me, that the Queen had Reason to be dissatisfied, as she was, with the E- of P-m, for leaving his Three great Commissions, of Admiral, General, and Plenipotentiary, without her Leave.

Instructions to the E— of P——w and Sir J— L—e, Dated June 12th 1706.

WHEREAS by Our Instructions of the 2d of April and the 14th of May last, We have directed you to Send Three or more of Our Regiments to Athit the Duke of

of Savoy in Case Turin should be Befieg'd, and for putting that Service in Execution, " you were Instructed to Concert with the " King of Spain; tince which We have received " Advices that Turin is actually Belieged, We " have thought fit hereby to require you in " Our Name to piels the King of Spain to con-Gent to the putting those Instructi ns forthwith in Execution. and if it be possible to " Cend Five of Our Regiments to the Duke of Savoy, in Case that you shall be certainly " Advised that the Siege of Turin is carrying on, the Relieving of that Prince being of fo " great Importance to the King of Spain him-" felf, as well as the whole Conf d racy, as not to be neglected, fince the Confequence of his being reduc'd will necessarily be the 66 putting an End to the War in Italy, and " leaving the French Forces in that Country to 66 be employ'd in Spain, or elsewhere. And to " induce the King of Spain, rather to concur in this Service, you are to represent to him, " that fo long as the French Froops are em-" ploy'd in that Siege of Turin, he will have " the less Occation for Our Troops in Spain: " and especially since We have already token " Measures for sending Our Forces now in Por-" tugal to the King of Spain's Assistance, in 6 Case the Portuguese should, contrary to Our " Expectation, make further Difficulties in " marching forward to Madrid; and that in " Case they are going on, you are to observe " to the King of Spain, he will then have less " Reason to detain in Spain the Troops We propose for the Duke of Savoy's Assistance. And you are to understand this Infruction as " what We extreamly Defire to be put in Exe-" cution, leaving it to your Care and Prudence " to proceed therein so far as is Practicable, confidering the present Posture of the Affairs " of Us and Our Allies in Spain, of which " you can better judge, being on the Place, than it is possible for Us to direct positively at this Diffance. And whereas you have an Instruction from Our Dearest Consort the " Prince, to make a Detachment of Our Fleet, and to Repair therewith to Naples, in Case it shall be agreed to send Affistance to the Duke of Savoy, upon his being Besieg'd in Turin, you are to take fuch Our Troops with you for his Affistance, and Land them at Oneglia, or " fuch other Place as the Duke of Savoy and vou shall agree upon; and afterwards you are to proceed with Our Ships to Naples, ac-" cording to these Instructions. And in Case it shall not be found practicable to comply " with both these Services, that is, to affift " the Duke of Savoy, and go with a Squadron to Naples, it is Our Pleasure that you per-" form the Service for the Duke of Savoy, pre-" ferrable to that of going to Naples; We be-" ing very Delirous of taking all Occasions of " using Our atmost Endeavours to Support so " good an Ally; tho' We are very Earnest that both these Services should be comply'd with. " And We do not doubt but the King of Spain will fend fuch Powers and Directions for the "Government of Naples, as are requisite in · Case of your Succeeding there.

Pag. 48. and Sir J—L—e, Dated June 19th, 1706.

"WHEREAS by our Instructions of the 2d of April and the 14th of May last, we have directed you to send "Three

Three or more of our Regiments to the Assistance of the Duke of Savoy, in case Turin " should be besieged, Copies of which Instructions are herewith fent you; and by our further Infiructions of the 12th of this Infiant June, we have ordered Three of our Regiments to be fent to the Succouring the Duke of Savoy, in case the Siege of Turin is carried on, of which you have herewith also a Copy: fince which Time we have received Advices from the Duke of Savoy, and from our Minister residing at his Court, that the Siege of Turin is push'd on with the urmost Vigour, and that there is an indispensible Necellity to relieve that Prince, If it be possible, We do hereby require you upon the Receipt hereof to lend at least Three of our Regiments to his Affiliance as far as may be found practicable. And as we have Reason to hope that the King of Spain's Affairs are in so good a Condition that the fending Three Regiments of our Troops can be no Prejudice to him, you are to press him to consent to so many more as can conveniently be spa-" red. And as you are hereby directed to fend " Three Regiments at least of our Troops to the Duke of Savoy's Assistance, We do not " doubt but you will find the Officers of the " States-General ready to concur with you in fending a proportionable Number of their " own Troops in Conjunction with the faid "3 or more of our Regiments, pursuant to the Orders they will receive from the States by " this Pacquet: And you are to proceed there-" in as shall be judged most Advantageous " for the Service by a Council of War, and to " land them at Oneglia, or fuch other Place as " thall be judg'd proper, as you are directed to " do in Our former Instructions. 66 And "And tho you shall receive Intelligence that "Turin is token, you are nevertheless to proceed in sending the Duke of Savoy the said Succours of Inree or more of our Regiments, with a proportionable Number of Troops of the States-General for his Support, in case he shall be retired to Quieras or Coni, and shall still stand upon his Desence.

A Letter from Sir Ch — H——gs, Secretary of State, to the E —— of P——w.

Whitehall, June 19th, 1706.

My Lord. Courier being arrived from the Duke of A Suroy, with Letters of the 13th Instant, " N. S. giving an Account of his being very hard press'd in his Capital of Turin by the " French Army, under the Duke de la Feuilliad, and reduc'd to the greatest Extremity, and " Her Majetty being defirous of doing all in " Her Power for the Support of fo good an " Ally, and judging it an absolute Necessity in Order thereu to that a Reinforcement be " immediately fent him from the Army under " your Command, She has thought fit by Her " Instructions, dated this Day to your Excel-" lency and Sir J-, L-? (which as " the most certain Conveyance tent to Sir 7-(L-) to require you upon the Receipt " her of t fend at least Three of Her Regi-66 ments to that Duke's Affistance, as far as it thall be practicable. The States General are " fo fully convinc d of the Necessity and Importance of this Service, that they have dif-" patch d their Orders, which are fent herewith to their General and Admiral; and there is no doubt but they will concur with your Excellency in tending to that Prince a proportionable Number of their own Forces.

"THERE is Reason to believe that even the Loss of Turin will not induce the Duke of Savoy to desert the Common Cause, but that he will retire first to Quieras, and atterwards in Case he shall be push'd to Coni, and there do what he can to keep up the Diversion he has hitherto, with so much Constancy and Resolution given to the Enemy, in which Case, as your Excellency will tee in the Instructions, you are to succour him, provided he be still upon his Desence.

"HIS Royal Highness is so sensible of your Excellency's great Courage and Conduct, and the Success that still accompanies your Person where-ever you go, whereby you have more than once restor'd our Affairs when under intricate Difficulties, that he has desir'd you might yourself bring the Succours to him, to which Her Majesty has given Her Consent, but leaves it wholly to your Excellency to go thither, or not, as you shall judge it most suitable to Her Majesties Service, and your own Conveniency.

Ch-H-s.

that Expedition upon Sir Cloudsley's Return for England; at least the Subsequent Instructions of the 12th of June, which speak not one Word of going, even with the Forces, but expresly say, upon all Occasions, fend the Troops to the Relief of the Duke of Savoy, being of later Date, must have superseded the former; and that this was most certainly Her Majesties Intention, is evident from the Instructions, and Sir Ch-H-s's Letter of the 19th of June, for it was then only that the Queen, upon the Duke of Savoy's Request, gave her Confent that his Excellency might carry the Succours himself if he pleased.

'T IS agreed his Lordship was directed to govern himself upon all Occasions by the Advice of a Council of War, as is mention'd in his Instructions of the 3d of May; and this should have been a strong Reason for observing the Resolution of that great Council at Guadalaxara, for his going with the fleet and forces to staly, in Pursuance of what his Lordship was then pleas'd to term his positive Instructions from the Queen:
Nor could that Subsequent Council, held at Alicant the Sixth of September,

only Two Brigadiers, Three Colonels, Five Lieutenant-Colonels, and Four Majors, affisted, absolve his Lordship from the Injunction laid upon him by the former of a Nature so much Superior, where all the Generals and Publick Ministers then in Spain were the Judges.

BUT it seems there was likewise another Council held at Alicant the fame Day, Printed by his Lordship's Author, where the same Persons were present, Page 57. and resolv'd, that no Forces from Alicant could be spar'd to march toward Castile, as had been desir'd by the King of Spain and my Lord G --- y; and fays his Author, 'Twas for the same Reasons that his Lordship resolv'd not to carry any of Page 58. these Troops with him to Italy; and that he thought it more expedient to take the Reinforcement designed for Savoy, if he hould find that Service necellary, out of the Garrisons of Catalonia; but his Lordship having been some Days at Sea, had the good Fortune to meet with the Mary Galley, which brought him the Welcome News of the great Victory obtain d at Turin; so that now there was no further Occasion of

in his Answer to the E— of S——d's Letter of the 28th of September. 1707. whereof I have already Printed a Part, I shall at least do his Lordship this further lustice, to Print another Extract of the same Letter, which relates immediately to this Affair.

Extract of the Earl of P——w's Letter to the E— of S——d.

THESE Facts give the Answer, upon a pretended Express that brought News of a Battle in Italy between Prince Eugene and " the Enemy; all the Admirals were perswaded " of the Truth of the Intelligence, upon which "the Measures taken were unanimously resolv'd " on in a Council of War at Sea; but Count Lecheraine just now come from Italy, and all 66 the Land-Officers, believ'd the Information "Fictitious, I had no other Expedient to oleafe both, than to prepare myself for either Event; so I took none of those Officers I should have Chosen, except Colonel Britton, " nor the Troops from Valencia, but left'em " for the Support of that Kingdom; and my Lord G-y depending on the Troops in " Catalonia, more at Hand to Transport to Italy, in Case I should be inform'd the Intelligence was false, and the Duke of Savoy in Listress. "AT Sea in a few Days I found by a Veffel " fent by the Duke, (with Letters from him-" felf and Mr. M-n,) that Affairs were " almost Desperate, which News put me likewise " almost in Despair, for having given so much Credit to the Sham-Information, and fix'd my Re-" Solution of taking the Troops from Catalonia; "for which purpose keeping the Shore aboard,

"I met happily with the Mary Galley bringing the true and pleasing Account of the Relief of Turin.

"BEING so far advanc'd in Sea, charg'd by universal Desires with the Money Concerns, neither having Troops to carry into "Castile, nor Reason to concerne they could be wanted there during the Months of Winter Quarters, being wholly Useless in Spain, it being absolutely necessary to Clean the "Squadon I was charg'd with for its Security, and for its being in a Condition to do the Services requir'd, the Grand Fleet being under Orders for England and Portugal, I could take no other Resolutions, but to pursue my Noyage to Genoa and Leghorn, for which many other Arguments and Reasons

" are to be given.

I T might be very naturally remark'd upon this Answer, that the Squadron which fail'd to Italy, under his Lordship's Care, was only Two small Men of War; that he could not be very fecure of meeting more positive Intelligence at Sea, much less of Troops, or the Means of transporting them under To weaka Convoy from Catalonia, when that Intelligence should arrive; but as the Observations which the Queen Herself was pleas'd to make upon the E of m's Conduct in this, and many other Particulars, are infinitely stronger and wifer than any I can pretend to offer to the Reader's Confideration, I ball desist, and leave him to peruse N 2 them in the following Letter, as fignifised to his Lordship by the E— of S————d, then Principal Secretary of State by Her Majesties express Command.

The E- of S-d's Letter to my Lord P-w, Dated Whitehall, December 18th, 1707.

My Lord, YOUR Lordships's Answer to the several Particulars I mention'd to you by Her " Majeky's Order in my Letter of the 28th of September last having been laid before the " Queen, Her Majesty has consider'd of it, and bas order'd me to acquaint your Lordship, That your Answer is in no fort Satisfactory; it appearing plainly in your Answer to the First " Head, by the Council of War at Valencia, " which you there refer to, That tho' you had of G of G y, by " the Officer that came Express from Madrid, " yer you had very particular Accounts of the 66 State of Affairs in the Army there, and of " the Discourie there was of the Intention of " the Portuguese to retire towards their own " Frontiers; which ought to have been a fresh "Inducement to your Lordship to have ha-"Tien'd in your March towards Madrid. I " must further take Notice to your Lordship, " that tho' that very Council of War at Valencia did Resolve that you should march towards Madrid forthwith with the Forces that were at Requena, and on the Frontiers of Castile, yet you did not comply with it, " till so long after, that the Earl of G-y was, as you say yourself, retreated from the " Enemy; whereas if you had immediately " march'd march'd with those Forces, that Retreat had in all probability been prevented. And for a farther Light into this Matter, I am commanded by Her Majesty to know of your Lordship, what the Number of the Troops at Requena and on the Frontiers of Castile was, and also at Altea; and with what Number it was your Lordship did at last March towards Madrid, and what Regiments

" you left behind you.

"AS to your Lordship's Answer to the Se"cond Head, Her Majesty is by no Means satissied with it, because it does appear by the "Date of your Letter to the King of Spain," and of Mr. St—pe's Letter to you, to which you refer, that you did not after coming to Valencia from Barcelona, solicite or press the King of Spain to go by Way of Valencia, till after he had taken the Resolution of going by Saragossa; which Resolution of going by Saragossa; which Resoluwas also occasion'd by the Discouragements you had given him from going by Way of Valencia, for want of Money, Carriages, and all Necessaries for the Army.

"AS to the Third Head, what your Lord"thip fays in relation to your Commission for "the West-Indies can be of no Weight, your "Lordship never having served by Virtue of "that Commission, nor executed any Part of "it. Besides, that Commission was only for "an Expedition to the West-Indies, where all "Governors have the same Title of Captain"General. And as to the Queen's Letter of "Leave which your Lordship mentions, that "related only to your Returning into England,
"if you thought sit, but could not be under"stood to give you Leave to Act in Spain
"upon any other Foot than according to your "Instructions of May 3d, 1705.

"AS to your Lordship's Answer to the Fourth Head, Her Majesty does not think it " Satisfactory, because the Council of War at "Guadalaxara, upon which you lay the Stress of your Answer, was grounded upon Inof structions from the Queen, which do not appear to be any other than Duplicates of fuch as you had before receiv'd, and " which had been laid afide, as not fuiting the " Circumstances of Affairs then in Spain, to " which all Instructions and Orders that were " fent to you had always a particular Regard, "Belides, it is to be observ'd, that those In-" fiructions were to carry Troops to the Af-" fistance of the Duke of Savoy, but not to " leave your other Commissions, and go to " Italy without any Troops, only to Negotiate " Matters you had no Authority from the " Queen for fo doing. I am further Com-" manded by Her Majesty on this Head to " know of your Lordship, whether you had " not certain Information of Turin being Re-66 liev'd before you left Spain to go to Italy? " AS to your Lordship's Answer to the Fifth " Head, I am commanded to observe to you, " that the Instructions you refer to for your Justification were given you above a Year before, when you first left England, at which "Time it was uncertain whether you should es go with all the Forces to Spain or Italy, and therefore are of no Weight upon this Head. "AS to your Lordship's Answer to the Sixth Head, in relation to the Money, I am " Commanded to observe to you, That that "Question was general in respect to all the " Bills that had been Drawn by your Lord-" ship upon the Treasury; but you feem to " avoid Answering to that, by taking Notice only of the Money you took up at Genoa.

" AS to what you mention concerning Mr. " Salter's Accounts, that Matter may possibly be cleared, but at present it is not; and Her " Majesty does think this Affair of the Money of fo great Consequence, such great Sums " having been taken up by your Lordship, and " fo much (as yet at least) not accounted for, " that She does expect that your Lordship " should forthwith deliver in your Accounts, " that they may be put into the proper and " regular Method of Examination, as your 66 Lordship in your Answer says you are ready " to do. "I have now acquainted your Lordship with Her Majesty's Pleasure in relation to " the Particulars in your Answer, and must at "the same Time let you know, that Her Mai jesty does expect of you that entire, distinct Account in Writing of all your Proceedings; which was requir'd of you in Mr. Secretary

Your Lordship's most Obedient Humble Servant,

WHILST the E -- of P --- w was pursuing his Voyage to Italy, the King of Spain found himself under a Necessity of retreating out of Castile, because; during the fatal Delays that were made in joining the Portuguese, the Enemy had an Opportunity of receiving such Supplies from France, as made their Army near Forty-seven Battallions, and Eighty Squadrons; almost double the Number of the Allies: Wherefore some few Days after his Catholick Major

Aug. 6. Sty arriv'd in the Camp, it was resolv'd to retreat to Chinchon, and not long after to Valencia.

NOTWITHSTANDING the E—— of P—— w is pleas'd to fay, That we lost 5000 Men in the Retreat to Valencia without a Blow, and entirely Ruin'd our whole Cavalry, 'tis certain our Loss upon that Occasion was very inconsiderable, if any, and the Retreat made in so good Order, that the Enemy (Superior as they were in Number) never durst venture to Attack us after the warm Reception Twenty-two of their squadrons met with from Two Battallions under the Command of Colonel Wade in the Town of Villa Nova, notwithstanding we were oblig'd to cross Plains and Rivers in their View,

" AND tho' his Lordship averrs in his An-" fwer to this Question, That this Retreat was made against the King's Opinion, and that of all his Officers and Ministers, it is certain the Retreat was concerted and agreed upon " in a Council of War. 'Tis true, some Per-" fons about the King feem'd inclinable at first " to have taken Quarters in Castile, but that was foon after found impracticable; for " none of those Spaniards who were best acquainted with the Country could make a Difposition of Quarters where the Troops could " be secure, and therefore it was resolv'd im-" mediately to cross the Tagus before the approaching Rains should have render'd the Fords impracticable; which being done, our " next Defign was to have lodg'd ourselves " behind the River Xucar; but neither could " this be done without taking a small Town " with a Castle upon that River, that com-" manded a Bridge where the Enemy had a "Garrison, and therefore a Disposition was " made for Attacking this Town; but by the " Delay of the King's Generals the Execution of this Matter was fo long deferr'd, that the " Enemy had already reinforc'd that Garrison, " and were advanc'd fo near us with a fupe-" rior Force, that it was not thought edviseable " to attempt the Place. Thus the only Re-" fource left us was the Kingdom of Valencia, whither we were absolutely oblig'd to retreat, that we might preserve our Communica-" tion with the Sca, and Canton with Se-66 curity. "NOR is it to be wondred that Count " Noyailles, in his Letter to the E- of 66 P———w, should seem satisfied with " the Measures that were then taken, fince 'the 66 well known that General used underhand to Ridicule those very Opinions in Councils of War to which he had given his own Affent; for being disappointed of the Com-" mand of the Army, (which was what he " expected at his first Arrival,) he seem'd re-" folv'd that no other General should have an "Army to Command. 'Tis very notorious, " that a Dutch and Spanish Battallion, with a " Detachment of English and Portuguese, a-" mounting to above 3000 Men, were fent to Guenca, and thrown away there, (after it " had been resolv'd to Retreat to Valencia,) " purely to fatisfie his Importunity; for I al-" ways forefaw it would be impossible to pro-" ted a Garrison at that Distance from our " Quarters. But what is still more Extraor-" dinary, the fending the King's Troops into " Arragon, with Part of the Dutch, who might " otherwise have been at the Battle of Al-" manza, was enother fatal Effect of Count " Novailles's Advice.

MEAN Time the Ministry of England were as impatient to know what had been the Consequence of the Earl of P—w's joining my Lord G—-y, as they had been uneasse before at the Delays that were made in the E— of P—m's March, not knowing what Measures to take till they should have been certainly inform'd of the State of our Affairs in Spain, which by this Missortune had received a Turn but little expected.

Sir Ch — H—s's Letter to Lord G—y.

Whitehall, 13th August, 1706.

My Lord;

"THE last Letter from Consul Milner at Lisbon of the 27th Infant, N. S. giving an Account of an Interruption of the Cor-" respondence between the Army and Portugal, " and all the Letters by the Way of France " advising, that upon your Excellency's March " to Guadalaxara to cover the King of Spain's " Junction with you, the Duke of Aujou had " taken Post between you and Madrid, gave for " forme Time great Uneafiness, and especially fince here were no Accounts of the King's March fince he was at Terragona, or where my Lord " P w was; but the French Letters of the 16th Instant which arriv'd Yesterday, " faying that it was certain the King of Spain and the E- of P- w had "join'd you, give good Hopes that the Communication with Portugal will foon be open'd again; but in Case it should not, I " hope you will find fome other Way to Re-" trieve it. I have writ to Mr. Milner to forward all " Letters from hence by fome other Convey-" ance, in Case he finds the Interruption con-" tinues in the direct Way, and must defire " your Excellency to give him your Advice, what you think the best Method for Corre-" fponding, as well as concerning the Measures " you think proper to be concerted with the " King of Portugal. 66 HER cellency what has been the Effects of your Juncition with the King of Spain, with a particular Account of all you may want, and you. Opinion and Advice what you may think fit to be done in any thing relating to the Service with regard to your Circumstances, for which no right Judgment can be made here, and all possible Care will be taken for supplying you effectually with what you stand in need of. Her Majesty receives great Satisfaction in hearing you are join'd with the King of Spain, not doubting but from your Care and prudent Conduct Her Majesty's Affairs will be soon in a better Posture.

THAT no Time was lost in performing the Promife of Affistance made in this Letter is notoriously known; for the Earl R -rs, tho' he had been long detain'd by contrary Winds in Torbay, fail'd from thence the first of October, 1706, and arriv'd at Lisbon about the latter End of that Month with the Grand Fleet, and a Body of Ten Thousand Land-Forces and Marines: The only Difficulty now left to determine, was, on what Side of Spain these Forces could be most usefully imploy'd; .it was first design'd they should have been Landed at Cadiz, and afterwards at Lisbon; but at last, upon Advice that the French were sending a frong Reinforcement to Spain, under

offeb. 1. 1706. the Command of the Duke of Orleans, the Earl R—rs was ordered to proceed up the Streights, and join my Lord

A B O U T the latter End of September, sep: 26 after a long Retreat made in Excellent Order before an Enemy almost one Third Superior to the Allies, even after they had been join'd by his Catholick Majesties Forces, and those few under the Command of the Earl of P-w. that met them afterwards upon their Rout, the Army of the Confederates took their Winter Quarters in the Kingdom of Valencia, in such a Manner the Enemy were not able to give them the least Disturbance, tho' those Troops which had been left behind at Cuenca, near Three Thousand Men, being at too great a Distance to be succoured, as the Marquiss das Minas and my Lord G _____ had well foreseen, were sacrifc'd to the Enemy; for about the Eighth of October, N. S. the Duke of odos. 8th; Berwick oblig'd that Garrison to surrender Prisoners of War.

THE E— of G——, who was always desirous to be recall'd, prest that Request more earnestly at this Time, finding his Constitution greatly impair'd by by the Fatigues of that Campaign, as will appear by the following Extracts. But by the Queen's positive Orders from the Secretary of State, and as was credibly reported, by Letters under Her own Hand, approving my Lord G—y's Conduct in every Particular, he was Commanded to think no more of retiring.

Extract of Lord G——y's Letter to my Lord G——n, Dated from Valencia, November 6th, 1706.

"I A M oblig'd to repeat to your Lordship, that I am not capable of serving Her Maiesty here as I desire, which engages me to insist upon my Leave to retire; I assure your Lordship that is it was otherwise, whatsoever my Inclinations may be to live quiet, my Duty and Zeal to Her Majesties Service would not allow me so much as to think of it.

of it.

"IF the War continues, I believe the Decision of all will depend upon the Strength of the next Campaign in Spain, which I must plainly tell your Lordship can never be to our Advantage, unless the Sole Command of all the Army be put into the Hands of a Person, who; by his Birth and Character, may take off all Disputes of Superiority; and I know no such Person but Prince Eugene; I know they will make many Dissiputies at Vienna, for they have the War of Italy more at Heart than that of Spain; but as Affairs

"mand under the Duke of Savoy; and if Her Majesty approves of this Thought, and that there is Hopes of succeeding in it at Vienna, Means must be taken to bring Portugal to consent to it.

Extract of Lord G——y's Letter to Sir Ch—H——s, Dated from Valencia, November 7th, 1706.

"I DO not deserve the Honour Her Majesty does me in Relation to the Command of " the Army, as you acquaint me in your Let-"ter of the 23d July; it never was my Aim;
"I offer'd my Lord P——m not only the " Command before he join'd us, but also to " ferve under him till I had Her Majesties Leave " to retire; I shall always be very easie in any " Station in which I may do the Queen any " Service, and answer what is expected from " me: So am oblig'd to lay before Her Majesty, " that Affairs here are grown fo very difficult, " that I am not capable to perform Her Service "here: I find Her Majesty believes me here " more necessary than another Person, because of the Interest it is thought I should have " with the King of Spain; but I must beg Leave to acquaint Her Majesty that no Perfon has less; tho' I am far from being ill with him, and believe I never should be fo, yet I could never get him to do any Thing I defir'd or recommended; I do not know what stands in my Way; but this makes me afraid of making use of Her Majeities Name, as She is graciously pleas'd to allow me; when you lay this before Her Majesty, "I believe She will not judge me fo necessary " for Her Service here, and will, I hope, grant me my Request of retiring.

Extract of a Letter from Lord G—y to the Earl of G—n, Dated from Valencia, December 1706.

THERE is another Point of no small Consequence that I must fully acquaint your Lordship of; Count Noyailles expected upon his coming over to have had the Chief Command, and finding it impracticable, as Matters stand with the Portuguese, has perswaded the King, who had no Kindness for this Nation, to form another Army apart from them, and to act apart; I look upon this as an entire Ruin to us, if the King takes that Resolution, the Enemy being as strong as both the Armies we can make, will intallibly beat Us both one after anos ther.

Extract of another Letter from the E—of G——y to the E—of G——n, Dated from Valencia of January, 1707.

HERE again I will demonstrate to your Lordship the ill Consequence of many Generals; we are here Four, and my Lord R—rs will make the Fifth Equal, which will all Command, not one will Obey the other except myself, who obey the Marquiss das Minas, and am to Command the others, which refuse to Obey him; this occasions an irreparable Consusion, which can no Way

"be remedied, but by chusing a Sole Com"mander, whom no Body dares refuse to "Obey; as to me I shall once more insist to have the Liberty to retire, the Circumstances in which I find myself here, and my want of Health, do not give me Leave to stay any longer, and I am absolutely useless here for Her Majesties Service.

Extract of a Letter from the E-l of S-d to the E-of G-y, Dated December 17th, 1706.

"I AM to acknowledge the Receipt of Two of your Lording's Letters to Sir Ch—ges, one from Valencia the Day of November, N. S. the other from Denia the 26th November, N. S. I am forry to find Things in so ill a Posture with you, and cannot much wonder at your desiring to be eas'd and freed from so many Difficulties you have so long laboured under, and especially since you have no more Influence upon the King of Spain; but at the same Time, I beg you to consider, that if ever Her Majesty could comply with such a Request it were giving up Spain at once; for your Lordship knows the Considence the Queen and Nation have in you; besides, I hope what Her Majesty has written to the King of Spain will have its due Weight.

 Extract of a Letter from the E— of S———d to the E— of G—y, December 23d, 1706.

THIS is to acknowledge the Receipt of your Lordship's Letter by Mr. St-" from Valencia of the 29th of October, N. S. "together with the Copy of your Letter to Lord R—rs of the same Date; and to acquaint you, that Her Majesty approves of the Resolution for my Lord R-rs's Landing his Forces in Valencia; and that She hath " fent him Directions to go forthwith in comof pliance with the Desires of the King of Spain and your Lordship, notwithstanding any Orders he may have received from hence to the contrary, (such having been sent some Time " fince.) I am Commanded also by Her Ma-" jesty to acquaint your Lordship, how concern'd She is at the Uneafiness you are under " in the Service, which makes you defire fo much to Retire; which Request Her Majesty " would not deny, but that She is of Opinion, " that besides what relates to the Command of Her own Troops, and any Influence that " is necessary to be had upon the King of Spain, " there is Nobody but your Lordship that can " possibly in any fort manage the Portuguese; so " that if you should Retire that Alliance will be " quite Useless, and consequently the whole Busi-" ness of Spain irretrievable. I am confident when

" when you reflect upon this, you have Her Majesty and the Common Cause so much at " Heart, that you will have Patience at least " one Campaign more, and your Lordinip may depend upon it, that there is nothing in the Queen's Power to do to make you as easie as possible, and to remove the Difficulties you have hitherto ftruggl'd with, that will not be done. You will see by Her Majefty's Letters to the King of Spain how much She takes this to Heart, and how strongly She " Infifts upon his having an entire Contidence in your Counsels and Advice. I must also acquaint you, that the Queen has ordered " my Lord P-w's Commission of Ambaffador to be recall'd, which I hope will contribute to make all that Matter more easie, " fince Her Majesty is willing to consent that the Troops with Lord R-rs should join the King of Spain, and the Troops in Valen-" cia it's expected that they should be kept altogether in one Corps, and under one General. " that they may march straight to Madrid, without " dividing themselves, or amusing themselves in " Taking inconsiderable Places, and such little " Projects, the doing of which before was one great ce Reason that this last Campaign you was not join'd " by any Body of Troops Sufficient to keep you in " Poffession of Madrid. This makes it yet more necessary for your Lordship to Stay; for I am fure Nobody but yourfelf will have Influence or Credit enough to keep them together; and to enable you the better to do this; the most effectual Measures will be taken to " Perswade the Portuguese to make the Diverfion they have promis'd by Way of Toledo; and in order to it, they will be affur'd that " the Troops from Ireland that were to follow Lord R-rs shall be sent as soon as pol-0 2 fible to join them, and enter Spain that Way.

I must also acquaint you, that such Measures are now taking with the Duke of Savny for the next Year's Campaigu, as will essemble force more into Spain. I gave you an Account in my last, that all the Cloathing was gone from hence, except that of Eight Battallions. As for the Six Regiments, whose Officers are to be sent Home to Raise their Men, it is Her Majesty's Pleasure that the Cloathing of the said Regiments be sent back, and that your Lordship would order an Account of the Off-reckonings to be sent hither.

S—d to the E— of G——y,

14th Febr. 1707.

I Have yours of the 16th of January, N. S. together with a Duplicate of one of \(\frac{r}{12} \) of December, which never came to my Hands.
I am very glad to find you have so good Hopes of Success when Lord R——rs's Forces are join'd you; indeed I think there is nothing can Hurt you, but the various Opinions of Generals.

AS to what you write as to the Division of the Army, Her Majesty has Commanded me to acquaint you, that She entirely approves of your Opinion, which you gave in the Council of War against any such Division, and that She would have you insist upon it, as being Destructive to the King of Spain's Interest; and that the Marching in One Body to Madrid is the only Way of being Masters of Spain.

AS to what you mention in your Letter of December in relation to my Lord P his Contracts for the Train of Artillery, my Lord Treasurer does think them fo very Extravagant, that I question whether he will Answer them. And indeed they are as much as for our whole Army in Flanders.

"AS for the Memorandum your Lordship fends Enclos'd about the several Establishments of our Forces, I am to acquaint you this Year they are all put upon one Establishment.

Extract of a Letter from the E— of S—d to the E = of G—y, April 15th, 1707.

I Have the Honour of your Lordship's Two Letters of the 7 of February from Va-" lencia, and am heartily glad to find our Af-" fairs in so good a Condition with you, and particularly that the Desires of all your Friends have induc'd you to Stay. I am to " affure you in the Queen's Name, that you " may depend upon every Thing being done "that is possible to make you easie in the Ser-" vice. Her Majesty is very sensible of the Difficulties you have to struggle with, in par-" ticular those at your Court; but as She has " already writ (as you know) to the King very "fully on that Subject, fo She intends in another " Letter by Monsieur Zinzerling, (who is to re-" turn in very few Days,) to renew those In-" stances in the most pressing Manner, and to " represent to him, that it is impossible for "Her and Her People to continue carrying on the War at this Expence, if he will not on "his Side do what is reasonable towards bring-" ing it to a good End; and that as She has an entire Confid-nce in your Lordship, so " She hopes he will have that regard to your " Advice which his Service requires. I must acquaint your Lordship, that upon the Representation of Monsieur Zinzerling, in the King of Spain's Name complaining of the great Numbers of inferior Officers, that by the late Practice of my Lord Pwere admitted into the Councils of War, " which was both Disagreeable to the King, and Hurtful to the Service, the Queen "thinks, that for the future, at least when the "King is there, there should be no other Of-" ficers admitted but the Generals in Chief of " the diffinct Bodies, viz. your Lordship, the " Marquis Das Minas, Monsieur Frisheim, and the King of Spain's General. As to the "Train of Artillery, the Board of Ordnance, fome Time fince, by Her Majesty's Dire-" Gions, has regulated that Matter, and fent "Orders for the reducing the feveral Trains " into One, and upon One Establishment, the "Troops now being all under One Come mand.

Extract of a Letter from the E— of S—— d to the E— of G—y, April 29th, 1707.

Have the Honour of your Lordship's Letters, of the 6th, the 9th, the 19th, and the 23d, N. S. from Valencia, and am very glad you are likely to be in a few Days in a Condition to march. It is a very melancholy "Thing

"Thing to fee the Court with you continue " to Act as they do against themselves; but " now you are by yourfelf I hope you will be able to overcome those Difficulties. " Queen is so sensible of the Difficulties you " have to struggle with, that She has again " writ to the King of Spain by Monsieur Zin-" zerling, who is going in Two or Three Days " in the most pressing Manner that is possible on this Occasion. As to what your Lordship and Mr. St-pe have done in direct-" ing Mr. Mead not to Issue any Money to the " King of Spain, but by your Order, Her Ma-" jefty does entirely approve of it, and my Lord · Treasurer has sent Directions accordingly to ec Mr. Mead.

WHILST the Army was retreating out of Castile, the Fleet under the Command of Sir 7-L-e, who was always very active in promoting the Interest of the Common Cause, had taken in the Islands of Ivice and Majorca, Aug. 9th, which proved afterwards of great Consequence to his Catholick Majesties Af-But Alicant, which had been fo unseasonably besieged, was now lest in so very bad a Condition, it was not capable to have made the least Resistance against the Enemy, in case they had lest a Body of Troops on that Side of Valencia to have attack'd it; nor was it poffible that Place could have been of any Use or Advantage to the Allies in their 04

Retreat, as his Lordship's Author would instructe; but Brigadier G—ge, who was lest Governour there, will be able to give us the best Account of that Matter.

Brigadier G—ge's Letter to Sir J— L. e, Alicant, October 9th, 1706.

SIR,

Am forry you pass'd us without seeing you, and more concern'd that I am left here: for, give me leave to tell you, that never " Man was left in Such a Condition, for He has neither left me Money nor Provisions, and the " Castle is just as you left it, and the Ball which " Mr. Collier fent up is either all too little or too big for the Guns; therefore if you do not send e me that fort of Ball which is demanded in the enclos'd, I know not what we shall do; and my " Lord told me, be would give Orders to you at " Altea to fend me both Such Provisions and Bisket, which if he has not done by G- I will " Defert, for I will not stay to be made a Prisoner ec of War, and that must be my Case very soon if not Reliev'd by your sending me what you can fpare. But I will press you to nothing, for 46 I flatter myself that you have Kindness enough to Relieve me if you can. "I was within Two Leagues of Murcia, but " was forc'd back upon the News of the Enemies was forc'd back upon the News of the Enemies coming bither, and all the Towns round about here have now declar'd for the Duke of Anion; but I hope when the Troops are a little refresh'd I will make them declare again, if the Enemy does not fend a stronger Detach:

"ment down, the they threaten me hard; but if you will help me with these Things,

"I do not question but to give an Account of them whenever they think fitting to Attack

Dear SIR,

Your most Faithful and Obliged

Humble Servant,

R --- G --- e.

MY Service to all my Sea-Acquaintance, and we drink your Health constantly.

WHEN the Troops were fettled in their Winter-Quarters, the E- of G-y being affured, by Letters from the Ministry in England, that the Body of Troops on Board the Grand Fleet, under the Command of the E-R-rs, were defign'd to join him; as scarce as Mules were in the E--- of P---'s Time, his Lord thip quickly made a Provision sufficient for Eight Thousand Men, who receiv'd their Mules, with Mulitiers to take Care of them, and were in Condition to have march'd within some few Days after their Landing and Arrival at Quarters in the Villages adjacent to Alicant, had there been Occafion for it. ANO-

ANOTHER Care that imploy'd my Lord G-y's Thoughts at this Time, was, the best Method of Recruiting the Forces under his Command; the Five Regiments of Foot, and the Regiment of Horse, with which his Lordship had march'd from Portugal to Madrid, had not suffer'd very much either in their March thither, or in their Retreat afterwards to Valencia: But the Troops the Earl of P-w left him were in a very miserable Condition. especially the Foot, reduc'd to near a Fourth Part of their Complement, which has given Occasion for that Complaint of great Sums gain'd by Captains on their Non-effective Money, tho' it may be without much Reason after the Ballance of their Recruiting Account fettled: And therefore, as my Lord G-y found by Experience, that both the Delays and Expence in sending Officers to Recruit at so great a distance were insupportable, as likewise that Recruiting by Draughts from Regiments in England or Ireland was still more inconvenient, if possible, than the other Method, because of the inextricable Confusion which was thereby occasion'd in the Accounts both of Cloathing and Sublistence, d

Subfishence, as well of the Regiments from whom those Draughts were taken, as of those to whom they were delivered; so he had no other Method left, but that of reducing the weakest Corps to Compleat the strongest, which Expedient, upon mature Consideration, was approved by the Ministry at Home, and put in Execution by his Lordship before the Troops took the Field the following Campaign, as the Cheapest, most Effectual and Expeditious Way, to carry on the Services.

AND indeed nothing can be more evident, than that Draughting of Corps in England or Ireland to Recruit others in Spain, is not only a great Discouragement to the Service, but does likewise render both the Corps Draughted, and those to be Recruited, Non-effective to the Publick for a considerable Time: Besides that, by this Means great Sums of Money are spent abroad for the Subfistence of Officers and their Servants without Companies, which might be better faved at Home; and the General that must wait for Recruits by Sea can never depend upon his Numbers for the ensuing Campaign. These no doubt are the Reasons that have induc'd us to follow the same Method of reducing some Corps to recruit the rest of our Troops in Portugal this Year: Nor is this the only Instance wherein the late Ministry have had the peculiar good Fortune to be imitated even in those very Steps that have been imputed to them for unpardonable Faults.

I need not, I believe, take Notice here of the great Concern my Lord G-y was under to find the King of Spain had refolv'd to fend all his own Forces, with part of the Dutch, by Count Noyelles Advice, to Arragon, at a Time when it imported the Allies to keep together; for all the Troops they could affemble, even when they should have been join'd by the Earl R-rs, were not an equal Match to those already under the Command of the Duke of Berwick, besides the Reinforcement expected from France with the Duke of Orleans: For the Reader will naturally have observ'd this in the Extracts of my Lord G—y's Letter to the Lord G—n, in December 1706, already Printed in Page 192. this Book, Page 192. But it may be necessary to inform him, that while the E--of P-w was in Italy, several Junto's or Councils were held in the King's Presence concerning the Operations of the ensuing Campaign, and the same were repeated after his Lordship's Return. One of these Councils, the Date of which has not yet been six'd, tho' it was once called very positively, The Council of the 15th of January, has of late made so much Noise in England, no Man of the least Curiosity can pass it over in Silence.

At this Council it feems the E- of P---- was for acting defensively; and his Lordship has afferted that the King of Spain, with all the Foreign Ministers and Generals that assisted there, except the E—of G—y, the Lord $T--\gamma$, Mr. St--pe, then Her Majesties Envoy, and the Marquis Das Minas, were of the same Opinion: But the E-of P-w's own Words, and the E - of G - r's Reply to them, will give the Reader the justest Light into this Material Point, which has very unfortunately drawn Reflecti-my Lord T——y, Mr. St——pe, and the Marquis Das Minas, but even upon the whole Ministry at Home, and in Point of Consequence perhaps upon a greater Person, for having approv'd the Opinions

Opinions given at that Council for an Offensive War in Spain.

Extract out of my Lord G _____y's Reply to Lord P _____w's Answer to the Five Questions.

"IN the E-of Pfwer to the Fourth Question, he is pleas'd " to fay, That several Councils were held in " the Month of January at Valencia, about the " Time that Intelligence was brought that the " Forces under the E-of R-rs were " entred into the Mediterranean, in order to ad-" just the Measures for the ensuing Campaign : " That the Matters therein debated were prin-" cipally whether the Army should march to-" wards Madrid, and feek the Enemy: In the "Debates the E— of P——— posi"tively affures, that the E— of G——y
"Lord T——ley, and Mr. St——pe, support-" ed those Measures with the Portuguese Gene-" ral; and that the King, the Count de Noy-" elles, the Spanish Generals and Ministers, with " himfelf, argued strongly against those Measures, " as highly dangerous and impracticable, and " this in repeated Councils of War, till at the last the E. of P. ... w, solicited by the " King of Spain to renew the Debate, defired the "King that he would order all call'd to the " Council to bring their Opinions in Writing, that every Bodies Opinion, and Reasons for " that Opinion, might appear, and be known " to the World, which according to the King's . Commands were put in Writing, and delivered in at the Council. 4. IN Reply to this Affertion, I would beg "Leave to appeal to your Lordship's Memo-

Soon after indeed upon farther Recollection he was pleas'd to add " the Marquis Das Minas to our Number; and " Iobserve he has since given himself a much lar-" ger Latitude, both as to the Time of holding that Council, and as to the Persons that " voted for an Offensive War. His Lordship is now fo far from confining himfelf to a " Day, that he takes in the whole Month; and " by accusing us more modestly for having op-4 posed only the King, Count Noyelles, himself, " and the Spanish Generals and Ministers, leaves " half the Council on our Side: For supposing " all the Spanish Generals and Ministers to have aflifted at that Council, there could only have " been Twelve Persons there; viz. THAT the E - of P -- wwas certainly Ignorant of the true Project against Thoulon is evident to Demonstration, by his proposing at the same Time an impracticable Design upon Naples; for the Germans pursuing the Reduction of Naples so unseasonably as they did, was the real Cause why the Duke of Savoy had not the Number of Troops he had been promised from thence, and was consequently the Occafion of our Disappointment before Thoulon, as may be collected from the following Papers, for his Royal Highness neither defired nor expected any Forces from Spain.

A Translation of the Earl of P—— w's Letter to Sir Ch—— H—— ges, Principal Secretary of State, Dated from the Camp before Cassal, 10th of November, 1706.

SIR,

HIS Royal Highness and Prince Eugene have had the Goodness to communicate to me their Idea's about the next Campaign, paign, and have thought convenient that I should put in Writing what they defign to propose to the Queen, and the States of Hol" land, for the Common Interest.

"I cannot express to you the Pleasure I conceived when these Princes propos'd to me a Detign so Noble and Proper to put a speedy " End to the War. pence with abundance of Eafe.

" I believe it will be sufficient in One Word to inform you, that their Highnesses propose to carry the War into France. That in case the Allies will perform their Part towards this Project, they will enter Provence with an Army of Thirty Thousand Men, and make the necessary Dispositions for the Defence of Italy: The taking of Thoulon feems to them bery practicable, and this perhaps will be One of their First Entets

" BuT the Reasons were so very strong for " this Expedition, which of itself appears so dif-" ficult, that I must confess the Discourse gave me the greatest Pleasure I was ever sensible of in my Life. It is indeed a sufficient Argument of the Goodness of any Design, that these "Princes have approved it; but when they " made it plain that France must provide a more " confiderable Body of Foot for a Defensive

War than to return to Italy, when they proved with an irrefiftible Force that by this Diversion our Affairs in Spain would be set to Rights, which might otherwise, as Circumstances now stand, be spun out to a tedious Length, by supporting a Regular War in that Country, which would be a Drain both of our Men and Money. Judge, Sir, of my Satisfaction, when I saw these Princes inspired to redress our Affairs, which have extremely changed their Countenance; but all the "World will bear Witness for me it has not " been through any Fault for mine. "THEY have represented to me, and indeed " nothing is more certain than that the very " Preparations, which cannot be kept fecret, " will be the most effective Means to preserve " Spain; for nothing can with juster Reason prevent the French from fending. Troops by "Sea this Winter to Spain than their feeing " the Invasion preparing for themselves, against " which they must provide; and they will con-" fider very well before they will venture to " fend their shattered Troops to Spain, when "they shall be sensible how much they are "likely to want them at home; but indeed "it is Time that they who have too long tor-" mented the rest of the World in their own "Countries should now suffer the same Fate. "This is what England ought to wish, and has " ever defired above all Things, fince the De-" firection of the Naval Magazines of France is " fo likely to happen from this Expedition into Provence; and that the Communication with the Camifars in Languedoc will by the " fame Means be so certain and easie.

"THERE are a Thousand Reasons for this Project in regard to Spain, which I shall communicate to you, Sir, in a Letter apart:
But

"But 'tis Time that I should enter into the Detail, because Quick and Positive Answers are expected; no Time must be lost: I think we need only discourse of the Means, the

" IN the first Place, these Princes take it for " granted that the Allies shill not only support the Auxiliary Troops, but that they will likewife take the necessary Measures for com-" pleating them, and for putting them into a Condition to serve more regularly than they have done. His Highness and Prince Eugene declare the Queen ought to affift them in governing these Troops; they believe She shou'd take them under the particular Direction of some of her own Officers, and send Commissaries to pay them, but not without their " Highnesses Direction. Concerning this Article I shall write to you more particularly, " because it will be difficult to manage, and " there are many Circumstances in it to be " explain'd.

"PRINCE Eugene will not want many Re"cruits for the Imperial Infantry; Remounting the "Cavalry indeed will be more difficult, but "we may imagine he will do his best; yet it "will be necessary that the Queen and States"General should make pressing Instances upon this Head at the Court of Vienna, and this "Rule will be good for the Whole House of Au-

"be reduc'd to the following Heads: That their Resolutions be fix'd; That a Squadron of Thirty Sail be immediately sent into these Seas; That so many more as shall be judg'd necessary for the Summer Service do follow with all convenient Speed, by small Squater drons of Three or Four Ships at a Time, as P 2 they can be got ready, whereby the Augmentation of the Fleet will not be perceived, and the Enemy will be kept in Suspence; But a positive Resolution must be taken for the Fleet to Winter in the Mediterranean, which may not only produce extraordinary Effects in Italy, but likewise secure whatever we may get in France or Spain. His Royal Highness will write particularly upon this Head; and it is certain it will be made appear that we shall maintain our People Cheaper, and in better Health; that our Ships will be entirely secure against the Weather and the Enemy, and above all, they will be less expos'd to the Worms than at Lisbon. "In Regard to the Orders that shall be giv'n to those who are to Command, His Royal Highness expects that they should not be con-" ditional, like those which were given for the " Succours I was to have carried to Spain, he " knows too well both that Court and their " Ministers to engage in any Project where "they have the leaf! Share; and he defires a general Liberty may be given to him that Commands to agree to whatever shall be proposed for the Common Interest by His Royal Highness, in case the same shall be approved by a Council of War, to confift of the Officers of the Allies. "They demand Five Thousand of those Men granted by Parliament, to act in Conjunction with the Fleet, to which they will join Twenty-five Thousand more, Three or " Four Thousand of them to be Horse; and se if we have but Transports ready to embark

"Six Hundred Horse at a Time, we may either March by Land, or Transport em by Sea, at several Turns, as many as the Necessity of Affairs shall require.
"THE

"THE Chief Article is how to subsist the "Horse and Foot which shall be embark'd. "We must not expose our Troops to Famine; and it is certain the French will destroy at least "Forty Leagues of their own Country to make our Army perish. This is an Expence which neither the Emperor nor the Duke of Savoy can be at; see therefore what it is they Demand, but upon the following Conditions.

" If we will only take the Kingdom of " Naples, or that of Sicily, bery early in the " Spring, they will charge themselves with " the furnithing of Wheat, and Dats, and " Barley, necellary tog the Hogles ; but if this ce be not done, then the Allies must take Care to of provide; and for this Reason we should go to Work immediately, make Magazines at Porto " Specie, Genoa, or at such other Places as hall " be thought convenient. I shall write you a " particular Letter, and shall show you Propo-" fals for Spanish and Italian Merchants for the " fame, which shall be immediately sent to " England. I shall only say, that it is extream-" ly casie to be done, and even Spain herself " may contribute toward it. And because, " according to this Project, the Fleet must " Winter in these Seas, Provisions must like-" of Success at Naples of Sicily, little of " nothing is requir'd; and whatever has " been provides will remain good for the " fleet.

Dur Intelligence is so very good, especially in Naples, that it is almost impossible we should Miscarry there. And it is this they would have us undertake first; they will fend Three or Four Battallions of Foot to join our Forces; and if it be necessary, they will cause the Cavalry we shall want to march by Land: but this must be executed so early, that the Fleet may be able to execute Enterprize upon Provence at the Beginning of May. " I will conclude with offering Some few Words as to the Facility of this Project, and I will write more at large to our High Admiral the Prince, and my Lord Treasurer. The Dutch " Envoy tells me. That towards the End of November there will be Sixteen or Eighteen " Dutch Men of War at Lisbon, and there are "Nine or Ten which are luckily come into this Port with Orders to make themselves ready for Sea as foon as possible. For my Part I am not acquainted with the Condi-"tion of our Ships, nor with the Orders which Admiral Shovell may have for those Ships " which he brings along with him; but tho' " the Squadron should be fail'd for the Indies, " what with those Ships which are in readiness " in England, and may be fent from thence, and those which are already at Lisbon, it " feems to me we cannot possibly want a " Squadzon fufficient enough, and in good "Time, for the Delign upon Naples, in which I pretume no Difficulties can be mabe, because you recommended that Ser-" vice pourself the last Bear. " IN regard to the Circumstances of Spain, I will answer for our Success there with my "Head, provided I have the Direction, and that " they will fend the Troops which I have demand-" ed; that they will pay them, and follow the easie Method I proposed in my last Letter; and to succeed in Spain, I would give the Five Thou-" Sand Men which are demanded aboard the Fleet so for the Expedition of Naples, and the Desoent in Provence.

" THE Retreat of the Portuguese after they " had plunder'd Salamanea cannot be excus'd " by any thing but want of Forrage, and I did " not Spare Paper to advise them that they should " make Magazines upon their Frontiers; they " might have got them even out of Spain; but as the Cafe now stands, the Troops which you " have fent to Portugal cannot take the Field before the middle of April; and in Case of " Necessity one might Land 'em again in Spain, " either upon the Coast of Valencia or Catalo-" nia, sooner than they can make their March into Castile. Rather than fall, I know our " Friends will undertake the Descent in Provence with Twenty-five Thousand Men, and you will lofe much fewer Men on Board. than if they were guzzling Portuguese Wine in the wretched Quarters they will give "THEIR Highnesses have writ me Letters, by which they declare their Opinion, that to make this Enterprize succeed, I should go immediately to Lisbon, (having first touch'd at Valencia,) in order to equip as strong a Squadron as possible; and that there I may depend upon meeting the necessary Orders from our Court, in Case this Project be ap-

" prov'd of.

"THEY say, and with a great deal of Rea"fon, that this is the best Service I can possibly do either for Spain or Isaly, even the the present Project should not be approved of, because a Squadron in these Seas may hinder the Transport of French Troops to Catalonia, or from the Coasts of Isaly to Naples, where by they may endeavour to support their Body of Troops in the Mantuan, under the Command of Monsieur Medavi. They tell me to 'tis possible I may be necessary to lead a Body of Troops

Embark them with dispatch for some other Part of Spain. I must confess all this is very true; but considering the Treatment I received from Prince Lictenstein, the Temper of the English, and the Efforts which some People will make to excuse their own Conduct at my Expence, I own I am grown a little Timerous, and have not the Heart to do such Services as I ought, and have the Power to perform. It's a terrible Thing to be forced to employ one's Thoughts upon one's own Defence at home, at a Time when one should be contriving how to Attack the Enemy.

"I cannot inform you what Resolutions I as shall take as to my own Person; I am sure I have no Inclination at all to spare it; but I shall take some Measures to secure myself against Malice and Detraction. I desire that Diders

" may be directed so as to find me at Lisbon, " and map be left with the Envoy there; and " that Two Duplicates may be sent, One to " remain with the Duke of Savoy, the Dther

" with the Mice-roy of Valencia.

"TO importune you no further, let me beg the Favour of you, in case you find any thing amis in my Conduct in so delicate an Affair you will let me know it; for if it be thought that I have committed the least Fault, I desire Leave to return Home. I have taken the necessary Precautions for my own Justification; but if the Queen should be of Opinion that I have done my Duty,
I am ready to Serve Her in whatever Capacity She pleases, and in whatever Part of the World Her Majesty shall think convenient, most passionately desiring Her Glory, and the Ruin of Her Enemies.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Secretary H-1-y to the Earl of M-ch-ter, Dated Whitchall, March 3, 1707.

THIS Morning Monsieur Vryberge, the Envoy of the States-General, delivered 2 "Memorial to Her Majesty, a Copy whereof "the Queen has commanded me to transmit to your Excellency, that you may fee the "Opinion of the States upon that Affair in " Italy, in which Her Majesty doth entirely "concur, and therefore you will please, both at Vienna, and all other Places where you " shall think it necessary, to express Her Ma-" jesty's Sentiments upon that Affair, and do "your utmost to prevent any Alteration of the "Project which has been agreed with Prince " Eugene for carrying the War into France un-"der Pretence of Taking Naples or Sicily, " which are Views noways to be brought into "Comparison with the other Design. I am " with the greatest Respect, Oc.

[&]quot;THE Queen having long foreseen, that in Case the Design upon Naples should subsist, the same could not be executed without out fatal Consequences to the Common Cause, has already represented to his Imperial Maje-" fly by my Lord M-ch-er, as well as by " other Hands, Her Sentiments upon this Subject, to which those of all the Allies entirely conform. Her Majesty is so much the more " confirm'd in this, because the late Misfor-" tune which has happen'd in Spain, has made " it absolutely necessary that we should enter " Provence and Dauphine with the greatest " Number of Troops that we can possibly af-" femble; you will see, Sir, by the Copy of the Letter, which the Queen has writ the " Emperor with Her own Hand, how much " Her Majesty has this Affair at Heart; it is for " this Reason that you have a Copy of it en-" clos'd, which I defire you would be pleas'd to " fend to Vienna by this Post, to prevent Loss " of Time, in Case my Lord M-eb-r " should be gone from thence before he re-" ceiv'd the Original; and that you will " Arengthen the Queen's Defires by your Inte-" rest in that Court, fince they are entirely for the Publick Good, and for the Interest of his " Imperial Majesty.  $R \longrightarrow H \longrightarrow y$

I could have added Six or Seven Letters more from Mr. Secretary H—to my Lord M—cb—r, and to Sir Pb—M—m's, upon the same Subject, but I think these are sufficient to prove what I have asserted concerning the true Project upon Thoulon: And yet his Lordship has been pleas'd to assume assume the Glory of this Design to himfelf, and by a marvellous Application has made the same Subservient to his greater Design of drawing a Resection upon several Honourable Persons, by alledging, that this was the Reason why it had likewise been settl'd between him, the Duke of Savos, and Prince Eugence; that our Army in Spain should act the next Year upon the Defensive, tho' by the Way there is not one Syllable of that Matter mention'd in his own Letter, as Copious as it is upon the Subject of Naples, of Sicily: And I believe whoever shall peruse the same will be of Opinion, that whatever Discourse might at any time have pass'd between his Lordship and those Princes, it is · impossible they could have directed the Earl of P-w to write such a Letter.

AS for the Resolutions of the Lords upon that Subject, I am sensible it will not become me to make the least Reselection upon them, and far be it from me to intend it. But I shall gratifie the Reader's Curiosity so far as to show him the several Questions that pass'd upon the late Examination into the Assairs of Spain, as they are already Printed in the Monthly

Monthly Political Account for February 17ff. together with the Protests that were entred against the same, and leave him to judge for himself.

Thursday, January 11th, 1710.

being offer'd and read, desiring Time to put in an Answer in writing to the Matters contain'd in the Entry of the Journals of the House of Lords of the 9th Instant, before their Lordships proceed to any Determination thereon: And likewise a Petition of Charles Lord T——ly to the same Purpose; the Question was put, that the Petition of H—y E—of G——y be rejected, and it was resolv'd in the Assirmative. The same Question was put, and the same Resolution taken upon my Lord T——ly's Petition.

A N D it was ordered, that both the Petitions should be rejected.

"the Opinions given at that Council,) is not fufficient to satisfic what we apprehend to be the Rule of Natural Justice, that every one should have an Opportunity of answering for themselves, at least upon these their humble Petitions, before what we take to be a Publick Censure should pass upon them.

After long "Time spent therein, the House was resumed, and the Earl of Abingdon reported, That the "Committee had some to the following Refolution, fokition, viz. That the Earl of Galway, Lord "Tyrawley, and General Stanhope, insisting at · a Conference beld at Valencia some Time in Ja-" nuary, 1705, in the Presence of the King of " Spain, and the Queen's Name being used in Maintenance of their Opinion for an Offensive War, contrary to the King of Spain's Opinion, and that " of all the General Officers, and Publick Mini-" fters, except the Marquess das Minas; and the "Opinion of the Earl of Galway, Lord Tyrawley, " and General Stanhope, being pursued in the " Operations of the following Campaign, was the unbappy Occasion of the Battle of Almanza, and " one great Cause of our Misfortunes in Spain, and " of the Disappointment of the Duke of Savoy's Ex-" pedition before Thoulon, concerted with Her " Majety.

2. "THE House, according to Order, was "Adjourned during Pleasure, and put into a "Committee to take into farther Confidera-" tion the present State of War in Spain; after "a long Time spent, the House was resumed, "and the Earl of Abingdon reported, That the "Committee had come to the following Re-" folutions, viz.

1. "That it appears by the Earl of Sunder-" land's Letter, that the carrying on the War "Offensively in Spain was approved, and directed by the Ministers, notwithstanding the Design of " attempting Thoulan, which the Ministers at that "Time knew was concerted with the Duke of Savoy " and therefore are justly to be blamed for contributing to all our Misfortunes in Spain, and to the Disappointment of the Expedition against " Thoulon.

2. " THAT the Earl of Peterborow, during 66 the Time be had the Honour of Commanding the " Army in Spain, did perform many great and emi-" nent Services; and if the Opinion he gave in the "Council of War at Valencia had been follow'd, " it might very probably have prevented the Misof fortunes that have happen'd since in Spain.

"THEN the first Resolution being read by the Clerk; the Question was put, That the 6. House do agree with the Committee in this Reso" lution.

"IT was resolv'd in the Affirmative.

Diffentientibus, "BECAUSE that, confidering the Army of " the Allies in Spain was to receive fo great an "addition of Troops, fent under the Earl Ri-" vers, the general Desire and Expectation of " the Kingdom to have the War brought to a "speedy Conclusion, and all other Circum-" stances of the War, as it then stood, we are " of Opinion that an Offensive War was then "fittest for those in Her Majesty's Service to "advise; and we do not find Reason by any "Thing arifing on the Examinations and De-"bates to be of another Opinion; the Occa-"fion of Fighting the Battle of Almanza depending, as we conceive, on Causes subsequent to that Advice; the ill Success of it, as we apprehend, being justly attributed to "other manifest Reasons; and the real Design "on Thoulon, as finally adjusted with the Duke " of Savoy, not requiring, as appears to us, the " Affistance of any Forces from Spain.

THE E- of G- was not at first to be sure prepar'd to receive such a Return for the Loss of an Eye and an Arm, for fo many Years Faithful and Difinterested Service, after having pass'd thro' Employments of the greatest Honour and Importance, without adding One Shilling to that small Fortune his Parents brought with them out of France: My Lord T—ley, who had ever behav'd himself like a Man of Honour, and gave his Opinion Honestly, as a good Officer ought to do, could not but be a little surpriz'd to find himself. even casually, involv'd in a Censure, for having done what he conceiv'd to be indispensibly his Duty; and much more would Mr. St-pe be aftonished. when he should learn from the Madrid Gazette that he had been condemn'd at Home, whilft a Prisoner, for the Service of his Country, absent and unheard, within so short a Time too after he had receiv'd his Catholick Majesties Thanks at the Head of the Army for restoring his Affairs, as having been the Chief Instrument of obtaining those Two Signal Victories over the Duke of Anjon at Almanara and Saragossa: But above all, the Marquis Das Minas, a Q 2 Foreigner, Foreigner, Subject of a Prince in Alliance with England, a Man of the greatest Quality and Interest in his own Country, who had voted strongly in the Councils of Portugal for the Grand Alliance, and endeavoured to promote the Common Cause, by marching their Army to Madrid, would wonder to hear that we should reach so far beyond the Limits of the Queen's Dominions, and reflect upon a Nobleman; who has ever been Happy in his present Majesties, and his Royal Father's, most peculiar Favour. Whether Proceedings of this Nature may cultivate a good Understanding with our Allies I am notable judge; but I greatly apprehend the other Reflection which some Perfons have made upon the E-of for having yielded the Post of Honour to the Portuguese, will, for the remainder of this War, put their Army upon the Defensive; for my Lord Po-ore having such an Example before his Eyes must take Care that he falls not into the same Error, and without it the Portuguese will in all Probability take Care never to pass their own Frontiers.

BUT there are many other Things laid to my Lord G-y's Charge by the E-- of P--w, who feems to have been resolved this Way to revenge himself for that Distatisfaction in Page 63. his Lordhip's Conduct, which the King of Spain had been wrought upon (as his Historian says) to signifie to the Court of England, dus ring the Correspondence with the Portugal Army: Amongst other Reflections, the E of P mis pleas'd to infinuate, that the King of Spain left Valencia, and went away to Barcelona, purely because my Lord G - had had upon all Occasions thwarted his Majesties Designs; but the Answer my Lord G y has given to this Imputation is as follows.

Lord G ____ y's Reply to the E ___ of P ___ w's Answer.

"IN the Earl's Answer to the Fifth Question, he says the King of Spain, when the Troops were marching into Murcia towards the Enemy, affembled a Council of War to no other Purpose, but to send by the Hands of his Secretary of State a Protest, with his Reasons why he would not march with the Army, but go to protect his Subjects in Catalonia; the Contents of which Protest the Q3.

"Earl very well remembers, having had a "Copy of it by the King's Order.

Lord G----y's ... Reply.

"HIS Lordship's Memory, as positive as " he is, must have fail'd him extremely in this Matter, for the Army never did march into Murcia, nor any part of it, except a Detach-" ment of the Troops under his Lordship's "Command, which return'd from thence with very ill Success; and whatever he may " averr to have been the Reason of the King of " Spain's leaving the Army, and going to Cata. " lonia, 'tis certain his Journey thither was " fix'd long before the Army affembled, for " no other Reasons, that I ever yet heard of, but " because he had a mind to redress some Disor-" ders there: And his Majesty always promised " to be back again by the Time our Army

" should be ready to take the Field.

" AND it is notoriously known that the Reasons for that Journey were thought so in-" fufficient, that not only all the Foreign Ge-" nerals and Ministers, but even the City and "Kingdom, and Valencia, by their Deputies protested against it.

"AS to what the E-of P-" is pleas'd to fay concerning those Instruments " which he has to produce Proofs of the King of Spain's having been over-rul'd in many Occasions in what he propos'd for the Publick Service, I can only reply, that I do not " remember to have seen any of those Proofs, except a Letter of the King of Spain's to his " Lordship, where his Majesty observes that the English, Portuguese and Dutch, Generals " had refus'd him Men to send to Majorea in " Councils of War, held on the 17th and 19th " of January; from whence I hope I may rea-" fonably infer the great Probability of those Generals, being of Opinion but Two Days before against dividing the Troops. And I must say, my Behaviour to the King of Spain, whilst I had the Honour to serve under him, was such, that he never had occasion to complain against me by his Ministers to the Queen, as he did most strenuously by the Count de Gallas against the E— of

NOW it happens providentially that the very Original Paper, containing the King of Spain's Reasons for this Journey, which the E—of P——wis pleas'd to call a Protest, is fall'n into my Hands, I have faithfully translated it for the Reader's Satisfaction, who will be best able to judge whether this Letter in any kind warrants either that Title, or the Inferences his Lordship would draw from it, and from thence learn how far the E—of P——w's other Averrments are to be Credited.

A Translation of D. Juan Antonio Romeo & Anderas, Secretary of State to the King of Spain, his Letter to the E— of G——y.

Dated February 26th, 1707.

Most Excellent Sir,

[&]quot;HIS Majesty having been told that your Excellency upon hearing what I inform'd you of Yesterday in the Council by Q 4 his Royal Order, had express'd yourself in the most lively Terms of Fervour and Zeal upon the Apprehenfions your Excellency had left his Royal Person should be exposed to the Danger of a Siege in Catalonia; his Majesty does very Graciously, and with Royal Efleem, accept of this your Excellency's tender Care for him, and Commands me to acquaint you, that his Royal Pleasure is to part from hence to Tortofa in order to give .. the necessary Directions there for the Defence of that Principality, and from thence with a small Train he will pass for a short. Time 66 to Barcelona, to concert with the Commons of that Place, (who move not out of their City,) the Dispositions conducive to this End. Wherein his Majesty does believe that " he runs no Hazard of his Royal Person; nor ought this in any kind to retard the Operations of the Troops already fettled, fince the first Thing to be executed is what regards Oraquelia and Murcia, and the providing of Magazines of Com a ainst the Came paign; during which Interval it does not appear to him that those Diligences which " his Majeffy makes in Catalonia (hould hinder the Progress of the Troops, but rather advance them; for the more the Principality of Catalonia is cover'd, (which is so necessary to be done,) to prevent the Defigns of the French, the more will our Troops be at Liberty that are to Att in Castile.

"HIS Majetty being farther inform'd of all that pais'd in the Council of Yesterday, as likewise of what I had offer'd there by his Order, and of the good Disposition which your Excellency and the rest of the Generals showed, to hope that the approaching Campaign might proceed with all the good Order and Unanimity that could be wish'd for; his Maj sty depending thereon, has ordered " me to acquaint your Excellency, as I do, that 66 he promises upon his Royal Word to hold himself in a Readiness to join the Army in Arragon at " the Place appointed him, whither his Majesty will punctually repair at the Time when the General's shall advise him we may begin the Project for entring into Cattile: And that his Majesty will Affin in the Army with great Pleasure, " to contribute towards the Success of those " most Glorious Progresses of the Campaign, which " his Majesty promises himself will be very happy from the known Conduct and Affection of your Excellency, and from that reciprocal Union and Conformity which he hopes there will " be amongst all the Generals. And because it " is necessary to Treat this Evening in a Coun-" cil of War of certain Matters which at pre-" fent offer relating to the immediate Opera-" tions, I give your Excellency Notice of it, "that you may be pleas'd to be there at Six. "God preserve your Excellency many Years, as I defire.

Most Excellent Sir,

From the Palace this 26th of Febr. 1707. I Kiss your Excellency's Hands, and am the least of your Servants,

D. Juan Antonio Romeo & Anderas.

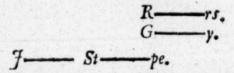

IF this be a Protest, if this be an Argument of Misunderstanding between the King of Spain and my Lord G—y, I will for ever acknowledge myself incapable of drawing a just Conclusion from plain plain and evident Premises; but if it be not so, I will venture to say the whole Accusation is as groundless as this; and that there is not one Line in the E—of P——w's Answer to the Five Questions, reslecting upon the E—of G——y's Conduct, that might not receive as full and reasonable an Answer, were it worth either my Time or the Reader's to dwell longer upon his Justification.

Feb. 8th, 1707. N. S.

BUT these Controversies have already detain'd us too long, and 'tis Time I should inform the Reader, that about the 8th of February, 1707. N. S. the Earl R ______rs arrived at Alicant with the Forces under his Command, which were Landed there, and his Lordship fome time after went to Valencia, where the E— of G— γ , tho he had then received a New Commission to Command all the Queen's Forces both in Spain and Portugal, offered my Lord R _____rs the Command of the Army; but his Lordship declin'd it for the Rea. fons mentioned in the following Agreement made between them in the Prefence of Mr. St -- pe, and foon after return'd to England.

of G—y and R—rs, Mr. St—pe being present, that it would be better for Her Majesty's Service that there should be no more than One General, upon which the E—of G—y generously offered the Command to E—R—rs, which he resused in Consideration of the E— of G—y's greater Experience, more especially in the Affairs of Spain and Portugal, and therefore willingly resign'd the whole to the E—of G—y in order to return himself to England. And they further agreed to the annexed List of General and Staff-Officers.
Affented and Agreed by,

THE Campaign now drew nigh, and the E— of P——w return'd to Italy. The Troops that arrived with E— R——rs, as I have already observ'd, had been quarter'd upon their Landing in the Villages and open Towns next adjacent to Alicant, extending themselves as far as Elche, which is the middle Way between Alicant and Oraquella, on the Borders of Murcia, a Wall'd Town, which we had an Inclination to take in before the opening of the Campaign, to leave the Kingdom of Valencia as well guarded on that Side as possible against any any Insurfions from the Enemy. But this Project was foon laid afide for want of Provisions.

IN the Councils of War where the Operations of the enfuing Campaign were fettled, it had been unanimously agreed to march to Vaarid by the Way of Arragon; and as the Reader will have obferv'd in Don Juan Antonio Romeo's Letter, the King of Spain promis'd to join the Army there; but as every one thought it unreasonable to leave the Poor Kingdom of Valencia, which had shown fo much Zeal for his Catholick Majesties Service, expos'd, it was refolved before the Troops began their intended March to Madrid, they should destroy all the Enemies Magazines, and ruin their Frontiers bordering upon Valencia, that they might be less able to harrass the Country with their Parties. But as to this Affair, see what the E - of G-y fays in his Narrative.

FOR the better Execution of what had been Resolv'd for our March thro' Valencia and Arragon, proper Commissaries and Officers were dispatched to provide Bread and Forrage sufficient for the Troops in all Places where it was design'd the Army should pass. I went with the Marquiss Das Minas to the Frontiers towards the latter End of March, and we took the Field the Beginning of April.

"We ruin'd part of the Country bordering upon the Frontiers of Valencia before the Enemy could join their Troops, particularly Tecla, where they had their largest Magazines; and judging it necessary to take the Castle of Villena, to prevent the Enemy from being Matters of one of the most Considerable Inlets into the Kingdom of Valencia, we sat down before that Place; but it prov'd Stronger than was expected; and after we had spent some Days there, we had Notice the Enemy had Assembled their Troops at Almanza.

" UPON this Advice a Council of War was held, where it was unanimously Refolv'd to Fight the Enemy; which we were the ra-" ther induc'd to, because it was judg'd impossible to subfift upon the Defentive in the " Kingdom of Valencia; for that Country had " already been fo much exhausted by our " Winter Quarters, there was not Two Days " Provision to be found for the Army; and we " could not have been able to have substitted so " long as we did, but for the Supplies we " found in the Enemies Magazines at Yeela; " nor did we think it proper to pursue the once intended March through that Kingdom " and Arragon, left Provisions should be want-" ing, leaving the Enemy fo near, and in Condition to follow us. For the Commissa-" ries had been employ'd, there was reason to apprehend the Towns we were to pais thro: would shut their Gates against us, whilst we " were closely followed by the Enemy, and persecuted by the Peasants of the Country, " who, grown Desperate by seeing themselves " abandon'd, would naturally be up in Arms in the Mountains. Besides, we had certain Advice that there were already a Body of French Troops, contisting of 8000 Men, in Spain, and upon their March to reinforce the Enemy. Thus as the Army must inevitably have perished without Fighting, twas thought reasonable to run the Hazard of a Battle, wherein we had an equal Chance to come off Victors, which was accordingly done Two Days after, on the 25th of April 1707, N. S. but with ill Success.

THO' the Success of this Action prov'd different from what might have been wish'd, 'tis certain the ill Fate of that Day cannot with the least Colour of Justice be imputed to the Earl of G - y, since it is notoriously known both his Lordship and the Troops immediately mediately under his Command, as well as the Dutch that were present, did their Duty to Admiration; but wanting near Five Thousand of the King of Spain's Forces, with Part of the Dutch that had been detach'd contrary to my Lord G—— γ 's Opinion to Arragon, and being oppress'd by unequal Numbers, Part of our Army were forc'd to give Way, and the rest to surrender Prisoners of War upon Honourable Terms.

YET as many Regiments as we lost at Almanza, and as much Noise as this Missor tune has made in the World, 'tis certain it only reduc'd us to a Necessity of acting upon the Desensive: For my Lord G——y says in his Narrative.

[&]quot; THE Cavalry of the Allies, with fome " Part of the Foot that had escaped the ill Fate " of the Day, joined again at Aleira, and re-" tired to Tortofa; and finding the Enemy had " cros'd the Ebro, I endeavour'd by opposing " their Passage over the Cinca to amuse them " till the latter End of the Campaign. Mean " time with great Expedition I gathered the " broken Remains of the Foot, out of which " I form'd Five Battallions, and rais'd Four " more of Catalans, with which we made a " fland against a Victorious Enemy, and pre-" ferv'd the Principality of Catalonia entire, " excepting Lerida; after the taking of which "Place the Enemy thought fit to retire to " Winter Quarters, and we did the fame. HIS

as well as on all others, has spoken with too great Modesty; for he did not only preserve the Principality of Catalonia entire, excepting Lerida, but even in Valencia ittelf, except the open Country, which is ever at the Mercy of a Superior Army; the Enemy all that Year only made themselves Masters of Two little Towns, Alcira and Xativa; for Alicant, Denia, Villa, Joyosa and Alcoy, remain'd in our Possessi.

much wounded in this Action, yet neither this, nor the deeper Wound, which the Loss of the Day had given him, were capable of making his Lordship forget even the minutest Cares incumbent on a General.

THE Day after the Battle, not being able to write himself, he ordered Captain Dolon, one of his Aids de Camp, to send the necessary Directions to Major-General Richards, then Governour of Alicant; and the Day sollowing he writ himself, both to the Major-General, and Sir G—B—g, who Commanded the Squadron then in the Streights; and as he had ever shown a particular particular Zeal for the Service, (performally contributing more than one towards the Conquests on the Coasts of Spain;) so upon this unhappy Occasion he very seasonably assisted my Lord $G - \gamma$, and did much towards helping the broken Army of the Consederates out of those Difficulties they then labour'd under, as may be seen from the following Letters.

Lord G _____ y's Letter to Sir G _____

Alcira, 28th April 1707, N. S.

SIR, Suppose you have already heard the Bad News of the Battle being loft, by the " Letter I got writ Yesterday to Major-General " Richards at my Arrival at Ontiniente. I did not write to you being not in a Condition, and having a delire to inform you more exactly of the Particulars thereof. We have lost our Artillery; and as to our Foot none " is return'd in a Body; only a few Officers, and some scattering Soldiers. As to the Horse I believe there may be about 3000 or more faved. You are sensible with that we shall not be in a Condition to form an Army able to protect the Kingdom of Valencia. We " just now resolv'd to pass with what we have here and at Valencia with all the Diligence " we can to Tortofa, to see if we can with the "Troops his Majesty has in Arragon and Cata-" lonia make up an Army; but as 'twill be " very difficult to have all those that are at " Valencia go by Land, we would fain embark " the greatest part of them. To that End I " must desire if you have any Transports able " to take in Ten Boats, Iron Ovens, and other "Things belonging to us, you will fend em to Valencia.

"AS to the Recruits, I defire you will send the Portuguese, those of the Dutch Marines that are in Arragon, those of Count Noyelles's Son, and General Freyshiem, to Tortosa, and those of Velders and Vissous, and Capell's, to Barcelona; for as I writ to Major-General Richards, it is desired they may not be left in Alicant.

"OUR Money, Cloathing, Bisket and Corn, must not be Landed neither at Denia nor Va-

. lencia. but carried to Tortofa.

"AND as you have thought fit to ask my Opinion, it is, That your Presence with the Fleet under your Command will be very necessary at Barcelona, to encourage his Catholick Majesty's Court. Since this is written General Freysheim has been here, who desires that all the Dutch Recruits may be carried to Tortofa; so I desire you'll be pleas'd to do the same.

"WE send all our English wounded Officers, with their Baggage, and a great Number of wounded Soldiers, as also the Baggage of the absent and dead, to the Grove of Valencia, and without your helping Hand they must all be Lott; so I hope you will provide with all possible Expedition Five or Six Transports for that Service.

"I am very forry to be oblig'd to Trouble you so much, but in this Juncture we want

" all manner of Help. I am, SIR,

Your most Faithful Humble Servans,

G---y.

Sir G B g's Letter the Earl of G y.

Alicant-Road, the 18th of April, O. S.

My Lord,

I Received your Lordship's of the 28th N. S. from Aleira. I am extreamly concern'd for the Loss of the Battle, and for your Lordship's being Wounded. I immediately call d a Council of War, where it was resolv'd to take on Board the Portuguese and Dutch Recruits from Alicant, and I shall sail with them this Evening, if possible, for Tortosa, calling in our Way at Valencia to take off the Sick, Wounded, and such other Men and Baggage as your Lordship can Ship off from thence. I think there is a Transport at Denia, where I have sent a Frigat like wise to receive Men, and whatever else your Lordship shall think sit to send from that Place.

"AS to the Sick and Wounded at Gandia, I with it were possible for your Lordthip to order them an Embarkation in any Vessels from that Place, or to be brought to the Grove at Valencia, whence you will please to embark what you can possibly in Boats or Vessels of the Country, which shall be received by the Fleet that will make all imaginable Dispatch into the Bay of Valencia with the Transports.

"WE have Landed Bisket for One Thoufand Men for a Month at Alicant, and are inform'd there are Provisions in the Castle which we hope may be sufficient for that Place, should it be besieg'd. We have supR 3

" I fend before to give you Notice of our coming, and he will receive your Order for,

My Lord,

Your most Obedient Servant,

To his Excellency the E- of G-y.

THUS having, by the Affiftance of Sir G-B-g, embark'd the Baggage, the Stores, the Sick and Wounded, and Recruits belonging to the Army for Tortofa; having left Garrisons in Xativa and Alcira, and given the necessary Directions for the Defence of Alicant, Denia, and those other Towns lest behind him; the E- of G-y gather'd up the scatter'd Remains of his Army, retreated in good Order towards Catalonia, where, with incredible Dispatch he Assembled the Spanish and Dutch Troops that had been left in Arragon, Rais'd Four New Regiments of the Country People, Recruited, and in a Manner New Rais'd, the Old Regiment ment of Saragoffa, which till then had been in the King of Spain's Pay, and was mouldred away almost to a Company form'd Five New Battallions out of the Soldiers belonging to the several Regiments of Foot that had escaped from the Battle, kept the Field till the beginning of November, and oblig'd the Enemy to buy Lerida at a dear Rate, whilft they were aw'd by that very Army they had fo lately defeated, and met with an obstinate Resistance from the Town, where Henry, Prince of Heffe, manded, affisted by Major-General Wills, who acted with the same good Conduct and Resolution in this Siege, as he had done before at the Battle of Estevans.

WITH the Siege of Lerida, the only Acquisition the United Forces of the Dukes of Orleans and Berwick were able to make in Catalonia this Year, ended the Campaign, and the Troops on both Sides retir'd into Winter Quarters.

TO Fight a Battle with Success may be the Work of Chance, but to Ralley Broken Troops, to Spirit up a Routed Army, to Raise New Forces in an Instant, to make a Stand against a Victo-R 4 rious rious Enemy, and disappoint him of all those Advantages which seem to have been the Natural Consequences of so entire a Defeat; are surely undeniable Proofs of great Conduct, and a Presence of Mind, but rarely to be found; for nothing gave more Reputation to that Famous General, Monsieur Turenne, than his Retreat into the Country of Hesse Cassel after he had lost the Battle of Mariandal.

WHILST the E- of Gwas thus employ'd, the Ministry at Home were no less Industrious in performing their Part towards retrieving this Misfortune; and the most effectual Method that could be thought of for fending a Relief to Spain, was by making a Treaty with the Emperor for transporting a Part of those very Troops from Naples to Spain, whose Absence from Thoulow had been the Occasion of our Disappointment there; for Experience had shown, that all Embarkations from England were both Tedious and Expensive to a degree, which may perhaps, when duly confidered, induce the Queen to think no more of sending British Troops to far, except on very urgent Occasions: Tho' I conceive ceive it will be pretty evident from the following Papers, that all possible Diligence was used for the Support of the Spanish Service upon this Occasion.

"I Take it for granted that this will overtake you in your Journey from the Hague to " Vienna; and the Situation of Publick Affairs "will have suggested to you the Necessity of making all convenient Speed thither, where " there will be great need of your Presence, " the Earl of M-ch-r having, I doubt, left " that Court before he receiv'd the Queen's " Directions, and Letter writ with Her own " Hand to the Emperor, to disswade him from " the Enterprize to Naples. The Misfortune " which has happen'd to us in Spain, makes that " Expedition, which was always contrary to the " universal Opinion of the Allies, much more un-" reasonable; and the Pretence that there are Troops " enow in Italy to answer both Ends, viz. the " Expedition to Naples, and what is Projected " for the Duke of Savoy to do, is very ill found-de ed; for he will have Need of all the Troops for " what he Designs; and there does not seem to " be any so ready Way for Relieving the King of Spain, as by an Invasion of France from that " Side. The Queen, it is true, is preparing a " very great Embarkation, and is pressing the States to join with Her in the same ; but " She

she will have little Encouragement to do it, fince the Court at Vienna have more regard to the groundless Infinuations, and the Importunity of a few Neapolitan Noblemen, than the Remonstrances of the Queen and the States, who have no other View but restoring the Austrian Family to the Possession of their Right. By this Letter you will be fully Instructed what to say upon this Head when you come there, if it be not too late for that Court to recal their Orders.

Letter from the E of S do the Board of Ordnance.

Whitehall, May 20th, 1707.

Gentlemen,

Her Majesty's Pleasure, That you forthwith give the necessary Orders for 1000 Carabines, 1000 Pair of Pistols, with Belts, Buckets and Cartouch-boxes for Horse, and likewise 4000 Arms for Foot, viz. Muskets with Strings and Cartouch-boxes, to be put on Board the Transport-ships which are now providing in the River, and are design'd for Spain. The Charge of the said Arms is to be deducted out of the Money Her Majesty intends shall be remitted for the King of Spain's Use. I am, &c.

Letter from the E- of S-d to the Commissioners of Transportation.

Whitehall, June 16th, 1707.

Gentlemen,

"I Have receiv'd yours of the 12th Instant, wherein you say the Transports for Spain will be ready in few Days. They must Rendezvous below Gravesend, and a Convoy will be appointed in due Time to take Care of them when they come there. I defire one of your Board will be at my Office to Morrow about Noon. I am, &c.

Extract of a Letter from the E— of S—d to the E— of G—y, Dated 17th June, 1707.

Lordship with this Post, it being impossible to judge what's proper to be done till we have a more perfect Account of the Condition of your Affairs in Catalonia. In the mean Time Her Majesty has ordered Preparations to be made for sending a consideration of Succouring that Country in Time would be by a Body of Imperial Troops from Italy. The Queen is so much of this Opinion, that She has sent to Solicite the Court of Vienna in the strongest Manner to that Purpose, and for the Sublistence of whatever Number of Troops they shall be willing to send.

The E- of S-d's Letter to Mr. S. J-n's.

Whitehall, August 5th, 1707.

SIR.

I Send you this by Her Majesty's Commands, to know whether you can propose any Scheme for the making up the Foot now ready for Transportation 4 or 5000 Effective Men out of England and Ireland with this View, that the Officers who are now come, or are coming from Spain, may Recruit their Corps here, which will serve to reimplace the Forces you shall propose to make up the said Number of 4 or 5000 Men. I am, &c.

S----d.

S—d to the E—of G—y,
Dated 16th Sept. 1707.

Have the Honour of your Lordship's Letters of the 14 of Angust, and of the 20th.

I am very glad to find the Enemy have been able to make as yet but so little Progress in Catalonia. The Stand you have made there is very Surprizing considering their great Superiority.

The Elector Palatine having agreed that his Troops in our Pay in Italy shall go, we have reason to hope the Court of Vienna will be per-repersuaded to add a considerable Number of theirs, and send Prince Eugene with them, which is what your Lordship and Mr. St—pe have so often mention'd. When that is, your Lordship will be at Liberty to leave a Place where you have for so long gone through so many Difficulties, and endured so much Uneasiness. And as you will certainly take Lise bon in your Way, the Queen hopes you will not be unwilling to stay there, as has been proposed, for at least this Winter, which She thinks absolutely necessary for Her Service, considering the Difficulties there will be to keep that Court sirm to the Alliance.

"I am very glad to hear that the Fortifications of Lerida and Tortofa are in such Forwardness; and I am ordered by Her Majesty to acquaint your Lordship, that whatsoever shall be Expended upon the Fortification of those Places, or what other you may judge may require it, will be answer'd here by my

" Lord Tr-r.

Letter from my Lord S——d to my Lord Treasurer.

Whitehall, 7th November, 1707.

My Lord,

"MR. Chetwind, Her Majesty's Envoy at Turin, having given me an Account, that in order to carrying on the Transportation of the Palatine and other Troops from Italy to Spain, it will be necessary that he should have a Credit of Six Thousand Pounds Sterling towards defraying Her Majesty's Share of that Expence. The Queen upon my reading his Letters to Her Majesty, was pleas'd to Command me that I should signific Her Pleasure to your Lordship, that you forthwith cause Letters of Credit to be sent him for the said Sum of Six Thousand Pounds. I am, &c.

FROM these Letters the Reader will naturally observe, that the Mcment we had Notice in England of the Battle of Almanza, which could not well be sooner than the 13th of May, O. S. for the Battle was fought but the 25th of April, N. S. the Ministry left no Method uneffay'd for his Catholick Majesties Relief. Sir P __ m's, was directed to press the Court of Vienna to join their Forces in the Kingdom of Naples forthwith to the Army under the Duke of Savoy's Command, to cause a Powerful Diversion on the Side of Provence. Orders were issued to the Board of Ordnance by the 20th, to make a Provision of Arms for the Service of Spain, and on the 16th of June the Transports were almost in a readiness to Sail.

BUT least the Reinforcements then design'd from England should not arrive in Time to answer the pressing Necessities of the Service, it was resolv'd to treat with the Emperor for a Part of his Forces in Italy to be transported to Spain; and as the Ministry were zealously bent upon supporting his Catholick Majesty, the Number of Troops first design'd from England were not thought sufficient, wherefore by the 5th of August Her Majesty resolv'd, if possible, to make up the Foot then ready for Transportation Four or Five Thousand Estective Men; but the Spanish Service being well supply'd another Way before these Troops were ready to sail, they were afterwards employ'd elsewhere.

BY the 16th of November the Elector Palatine's Confent was obtain'd for fending his Forces in the Queen's Pay from Italy to Spain: The Treaty with the Emperor for a Part of his Forces was in a very fair Way, and by the 7th of November Mr. Chetwind was taking Care to get them embark'd with all possible Expedition, an effectual Supply of no less than Four Thousand Two Hundred Men.

ABOUT the Time these Troops arrived, Mr. St—pe, having obtain'd the Queen's Leave, embark'd for Italy, in Order to return to England, and my Lord

Lord G ____, having fortify'd Tor: tofa and Tarragona, review'd the English Troops in their several Quarters, and left the proper Orders with Major-General Carpenter relating to their Provisions, Pay and Command; then went to Barcelona in Company with the Marquifs Das Minas, to take the Advantage of the Convoy returning for Lisbon, whence his Lordship hoped to proceed directly for England; but Mr. M-n, who had been fent for from the Court of Savoy to succeed his Father as Embassador Extraordinary in that of Portugal, having suffer'd very much in his Private Affairs at Home. during his Father's, and his own, Long and Eminent Services Abroad, did about this Time, with much Difficulty, obtain the Queen's Leave to return to England, and Her Majesty was pleas'd to lay Her positive Commands upon the E- of G- to stay at Life bon Embassador Extraordinary, Plenipotentiary, and General of Her Forces.

Letter from the E— of S——d to the E— of G——y, Dated 16th September, 1707.

[&]quot;I A M Commanded by Her Majesty to represent to your Lordship how necessary She thinks thinks it for Her Service that you stay at Lisbon for some Time, to take the Measures that are necessary for the preserving that Court in the Alliance, and for the inducing them to act with more Vigour another Year: This the Queenthinks no Body so capable of doing as your Lordship, and would have you, as soon as may be, send an Account of the Posture you find Affairs in there, that Her Majesty may thereupon send Her surther Directions to you, till which Time She would have your Lordship stay at Lisbon.

AFTER my Lord G-y left Catalonia, which was in February, 1708, the Command of the Queen's Troops devolv'd upon Major - Genethere ral Carpenter, that of the Portuguese upon Pedro Mascarinhas, the Dutch as before, were under Monsieur Freysheim's Orders, and the General Command was given by the King to Count Noyelle, who till that Time had waited impatiently for it, tho', Poor Gentleman, he enjoy'd the Post but a little while; for it being agreed with the Court of Vienna that Mareschal Starembergh should go to Catalonia, the States - General had refolv'd to recal Count Noyelle, who died before their Orders reach'd Barcelona, and the Ma- April 30. reschal arriv'd there in good Time to 1705. N. S. supply his Place. BUT

BUT now having gone thro' those Passages in the Spanish War which have given the greatest Occasion of Dispute, I believe the Reader will casily forgive me if I dwell not folong as I first intended on the Years 1708, 1709, and 1710, wherein many Remarkable Actions indeed did happen much to the Honour of Her Majesties Troops, and greatly to the Advantage of the Allies; yet I would willingly avoid entring into the Detail of them, because I have not inform'd myself so distinctly as I would of what passed within the Compass of these last Three Years, since the British Troops were under Mr. St ___pe's Command in Spain: And I would be very cautious, either of imposing upon my Reader, or of not doing Justice to that General's Character; tho' the Publick Papers have acquainted us with enough to show how much the Alliance is indeled to him for the Reduction of Minorca, where he fairly ventured his own Life, and loft an Hopeful Brother in the Publick Service; as likewife for those Two Signal Victories obtain'd over the Duke of Anjou at Almanara and Saragoffa; and 'tis reasonably hop'd he may still live to receive his Countries Thanks Thanks for his great and shining Services to the Common Cause, as well as for those which he has done for Her in particular.

I shall therefore content myself with observing that in the Year 1708 the Armies of the Allies, both in Spain and Portugal, were so well Recruited and Reinforced by the early Care of the late Ministry, and so well Conducted by the Generals to whose Command they were committed abroad, the Enemy were not able to gain the least Advantage on the Side of Portugal; and if in Catalonia they found the Means to make themselves Masters of Tortofa, the Allies gain'd a much better Equivalent soon after in Minorca and Sardinia. At the latter End of this Year indeed we lost Denia and Alicant after a Glorious Defence, and with them all the Footing we had left in the Kingdom of Valencia, tho' Mr. St ---- pe and Sir G - B - g did their utmost to relieve the last of those Places, but found it impossible; however, they faved the Garrison by an Honourable Capitulation, and received them on Board the Fleet.

THE Reader, I believe, who has heard so much of the Fatal Battle of Almanza, will wonder if that Battle had really been so dreadful a Blow to the Alliance as fome People would have it believed, that it should not have been attended with more difmal Confequences, especially considering a fresh Reinforcement of Eight Thousand French Troops, headed by a Prince of the Blood, join'd the Victorious Army foon after that Action, and in concert with the Duke of Berwick, purfued the best Measures they could contrive for improving their late Advantage. But if this Battle, which Necessity obliged us to Fight, and which was therefore refolv'd on by the unanimous Confent of all the Generals of the Allies there present, or any other Accident, did really reduce the Affairs of King Charles to a very low Ebb, how much is the Publick indebted to the Zeal of the late Ministry for providing such timely and constant Supplies, as put his Catholick Majesty once more in Condition to visit his Capital, and drive his Competitor from thence? I et the Impartial Reader judge whether fo happy a Revolution could ever have been effected under under such difficult Circumstances, had the late Ministry been guilty of the least Neglect in prosecuting the Spanish War.

THE Year 1709 produc'd nothing extraordinary in Spain; for the great Superiority of the French on the Side of Catalonia prevented the Allies from attempting any Thing Considerable there; but on the Frontier of Portugal an Attempt was made with ill Success in the Plains, between Badajox and Campo-Mayor, where the Allies were forc'd to retreat, being deferted by their Horse on both Wings: On this Occasion the E-of G-yescaped very narrowly being taken Prisoner, and had his Horse shot under him; but the Army foon rallied again, and all the Advantage the Marquils de Bay got by this Action was the demolishing some few Atalaya's, or Watch-Towers, upon the Frontier, that his Parties in Time of Quarters might with less Difficulty make small Inroads into Portugal.

FROM the Fortune of this Day the E— of G——y was convinced of the great Necessity there was to form Corps of Horse or Dragoons that might be depended on, and therefore propos'd to the Ministry the raising of Six Regiments of Dragoons in Portugal, to be Paid by the Queen, and Commanded all by English Officers, except the Colonels; which Project, as it tended apparently to the Benefit of the Common Cause, and to the Particular Advantage of England, in saving both Money and Englishmen, was readily embrac'd at Home, and executed by his Lordship with a Success which could hardly have been expected, considering the very great Scarcity of Horse in Portugal.

BUT this was not the only Care taken this Year for the Service of Spain and Portugal; for to fay nothing of the 12,644 Germans and Palatines sent to Catalonia from Italy, a Project had concerted with the E- of been G-y, Mr. St-pe, and Sir 7-J--- gs, for an Attempt upon Cadiz, where the People, uneasie at the great Scarcity of Bread, and Oppressions of the French Government, were inclinable enough, as was generally believ'd, to revolt; but by contrary Winds it fo happen'd, that the Ten Regiments, with Major-General Wills, (aboard the Fleet Commanded by Admiral B---r,) reach'd reach'd not the Rock of Lisbon till a plentiful Harvest had reliev'd the Wants of Andalusia. And the Armies of Spain and Portugal being retir'd into Quarters of Refreshment, not only the Enemies Troops properly belonging to the Province of Andalusia, but even those of Estremadura, alarm'd by the Approach of the Fleet, were at Hand in Case of any Attempt to have march'd directly to the Isle of Lyons, for which Reason the Project was for that Season laid aside; and Mr. St-pe, who had waited some Time for those Troops at Gibraltar, having given the proper Orders for the Fortification of that Place, proceeded with the Convoy directly for Catalonia.

the Spaniards threatned hard to beliege fome Town in Portugal, but were no doubt effectually diverted from that Delign by the Glorious Progress which his Catholick Majesty made on the Side of Catalonia. Certainly never any Campaign open'd more Gloriously, Two Battles and Three Kingdoms won, Madrid regain'd, and a Communication open'd with Portugal, if our Ailies of that Country had thought it adviseable to S4 make make use of the Opportunity; but they were loth to venture another Army entire into Spain, and leave their own Frontier a second Time expos'd; yet some Hazards should be run for the Benefit of an Alliance when we are once engag'd in it; at least this was the Opinion of all the Foreign Ministers residing at Lisbon, when Mr. St—pe's Letter from Madrid arriv'd there, which was about the Time my Lord G—yembark'd with the Queen's Leave for England.

August,

by the said Ministers to the Court of Portugal, that they should order their Army, or at least a large Detachment, to march with the Queen's Troops to Toledo, which being refus'd, the Imperial Embassador, the Embassador and Envoy of Spain, the Dutch Envoy and English Secretary, enter'd their Joint Protests in Form.

THE unexpected Turn our Affairs met with soon after has afforded the World sufficient Matter for Speculation, according to our wonted Justice, judging by Success, and even taking that ill Success upon Trust from the Paris Gazette, we declar'd ourselves immediately undone done, because Mr. St-pe had been taken at Briheuga, and condemn'd him for that Misfortune, tho' we have since been fully satisfied it was not any Fault of his. The Signal Victory obtain'd afterwards by Mareschal Staremberg over the Enemy at Villa Viciosa, tho' for a while as little believ'd as expected, has not retriev'd what we lost with Mr. St-pe. And what Methods have been, or will be, taken at Home, for his Catholick Majesties Relief, may be the proper Subject of a further Enquiry. At present I shall proceed no further than to infert an Account of the feveral Embarkations for Spain and Portugal from the beginning of this War to the end of the Year 1710; together with a Distribution of the Money given by Parliament, and apply'd to this Service; upon which I shall beg Leave to make some few Remarks, and then conclude.

An Account of the several Embarkations of Forces, as well British as Foreign, that have at any Time since the Beginning of this present War been sent to Portugal or Spain for the Support of those Services.

HE First Article in this Account should be the Forces that sail'd with the Duke of Ormond to Cadiz in 1702, and were about 10,000 Men; but as they only went upon a particular Expedition, and return'd again to England the same Year, I shall not add them to the following Numbers.

Bu T towards the latter End of the Year 1703, One Regiment of Horse, One of Dragoons, and Eight of Foot, were sent to Portugal under the Command of Duke Schonberg, viz.

and 7000 Horse.

THUS the Army designed rather to Favour a Revolution, than to Conquer Spain, was to consist of 40,000 Men. And if the Portuguese Quota has not always been Compleat, 'tis certain the Queen had very good Reasons for not examining too nicely into that Affair, as may be seen by those Two most Gracious Messages sent by Her Majesty to the House of Commons in February 1707-8, and printed in the Journals of that Session.

TO which might be added the great Advantages refulting from our Trade with Portugal; and that the Portuguese, even in their worst Circumstances, have diverted a very considerable Number of the Enemies Troops upon their Frontiers from acting elfewhere.

OVER and above the 40,000 Men agreed for by the Treaty in the Year 1704, when the Earl of Gallway went to Command in Portugal, a farther Embarkation was prepared, and arrived there about the latter End of that Year, viz.

SO that in the Year 1706, at the Time of the Battle of Almanza, (besides the Dutch and Portuguese Forces, and the Recruits that had at several Times been sent for the Queen's Troops,) there were as many English Regiments provided for by Parliament, and sent to Spain by the Ministry, as should have made, (had they been Compleat,) according to their several Establishments, 29,395 Men, Exclusive of the several Detachments of Guards, Dragoons and Marines, that serv'd there, tho' not provided for by Parliament upon that Establishment. And the Reader will naturally observe, tho' it has been been so frequently urg'd that the Service of Flanders was supported to the Detriment of that in Spain, a very great Part of those Troops that make up this Number were actually detach'd from Flanders.

BuT because the World has lately been very desirous to know what Number of Men in the Queen's Pay were present at the Battle of Almanza, and how it came to pass that all the 29,395 were not there, I will insert Two Papers in this Place containing the Earl of G...y's Return of Essectives at that Battle, and his Reasons why the rest were absent.

Note, That besides the 15,651 mentioned to be in Spain at the Time of the Battle of Almanza, Four Regiments of Foot, making 2900, viz. Pearce, Newton, Sankey and Stanwix, were embarqued at Cork in the Kingdom of Ireland for Portugal on or about 28th of April, 1707, which Regiments arriv'd at Lisbon the 4th of June following, and were all the Forces in the Queen's Pay then in that Kingdom.

The Earl of G--y's Reasons why the rest were Absent.

Nº THE Estimate granted for Spain and Portugal, for the Service of the Year 1707, amounts to - 29,393 'TO make up which Number there were in Spain at the Time of the Battle of Almenza, according to the Return made by the Earl of Gallway to the House of Commons, besides a Battallion of Guards, Three of Marines; 'a Detachment of Carpenter and Essex Dragoons, TO which is to be added the 'Two Regiments of Foot of Colonel "Hill and Sir Charles Hotham, twice demanded for in the faid Estimate, and therefore must be once deducted. 6 making 1710 THE Earl of Barrimore's Regiment, which had been reduc'd by the Earl of Peterboram, and was at the Time of the Battle of Almanza Raifing in England, -876 THE

Such was the true State of Her Majesties Forces at the Battle of Almanza, in which they suffered very much; and so did those of Her Allies, insomuch that the Earl of G—y, as we have already observed, was only able to form Five Battallions out of the Remains of the several Regiments, and added to them Four of Catalans, together with an Old Spanish Regiment of Foot new Recruited: So that as I find, by his Lordship's Return, about the Time of their leaving the Field, which was in the Month of Odober, 1707, the Forces then in Her Majesties Pay in Spain consisted of 4242 Foot, and 1466 Horse. But see the Return.

As likewise One of the Five English Battallions to compleat the other Four, which had been compos'd of the Remains of the feveral Regiments after the Battle, together with the Lord Effex's Detachment, and Pearce's Dragoons, who were incorporated into the remaining Regiments of Horse and Dragoons. THE Royal Fuziliers, and the Two Battallions of Marines, which had been in Garrison at Girona, were removed to Lerida, in the Siege of which Place they fuffer'd very much. THE Garrisons of Alicant, Denia and Gibraltar, admitted of very little Alteration fince the beginning of the Year, fave that the Admirals had from Time to Time taken off part of the Marines from Alicant; so we may compute,

THE Queen did likewise this Year pay One Hundred Thousand Pounds to the King of Spain for the Maintenance of 6000 Men; and before the Close of the Year 3000 Germans and 1200 Italians arrived in Catalonia on the Queen's Account; so that we may reasonably compute all the Troops in Spain paid by England at the latter end of the Year 1707, besides the Dutch, to have been Twenty-sive Thousand Five Hundred and Forty-six, viz.

still provided for on that Head.

TOWARDS the End of this Year some Alterations were made in the British Troops, the Marquiss de Guiscard's Dragoons were reduced, and Two Troops added to Pepper's.

of finding Horses in Portugal and Recruits in England, at an Expence greater than could be supported by the Regiments, has been the Occasion that these Corps were not always so compleat as could have been wish'd; for it is notoriously known by all the Officers in that Service, that a Recruit can hardly be raised and carried to Partugal, allowing for Losses by Sickness and Desertion, at the Expence of a full Year's Pay.

Bu T the Difficulties in the Spanish Service, being more remote from England, are still greater; and I believe by a modest Computation it might might be proved, that there is hardly a Foot Soldier transported thither, taking one Embarkation with another, that does not stand the Publick in apwards of Twenty-six Pounds, including his Levy-money, Pay, Victuals and Transport, besides those that die either in the Passage, or by Sickness contracted on Shipboard, which have sometimes been a full 4th of the Number Embarked in England, as may be seen by an Authentick Account of the Forces that went to Spain under the Command of the Earl R——15, delivered into the House of Commons from the War-Ossice seme Years ago; where the Loss out of 8833 is computed to have been no less than 2800.

A N D this I presume might be One of the Reasons that determin'd the late Ministry rather to supply the Spanish Service by Foreign than British Troops, whereby the Common Cause has been more effectually served, great Numbers of the Queen's Subjects preserved, and immense Sums of Money sav'd to the Publick.

A N D now let the impartial Reader judge whether this can be term'd Neglect? Whether this be preferring the Service in Flanders to the Detriment of Spain? Or, Whether it was possible for the late Ministry to have done more, unless they could have prevented all those Inconveniences arising from the Change of Diet and Climate, so pernicious to English Constitutions, and have made those Men Immortal whom they sent thither?

of Men have been fo frivolous and unreasonable, much more unjust and malicious have those Reports been relating to the Misapplication of Money granted for this Service, as will evidently appear by the following Account, where the Sums given by Parliament for Spain

Year. But whatever other People may have alledg'd upon this Subject, 'tis certain the Earl of P——w in one of his Letters from Spain to my Lord G——n was so Ingenious to confess, that he had nothing to Tax the late Ministry with, for they had well Supported him both with Men and Money.

SUCH little Arts as these which have of late been used to defame those Persons who best deserved from the Common-wealth, may serve a Turn, and Truth may for a while be smother'd, but she will make her Way at last, to the Consusion of her Enemies, and the Characters of those Great Men, who so frugally manag'd the Publick Treasure, who so successfully maintain'd the Publick Credit both at Home and Abroad, will for ever be the Subjects of Esteem and Admiration to all True Englishmen.

The Earl of Gallway's Narrative.

"IN Obedience to your Lordship's Commands, I present you with a short Narrative in Writing, containing the most "Material Occurrences that happen'd in Portugal and Spain, during the Time I had the Honour to Command the Queen's Troops there.

"try, I receiv'd the Queen's Commands to attend Her Majesty at Windsor, where She was pleas'd to Order me to go and take upon me the Command of Her Troops in Portugal. I desir'd to be excus'd from accepting an Employment which I did not think myself equal to; but the Queen seeming fix'd in Her " Refolution, I obey'd.

" UPON my Arrival at Lisbon I found
" the Two Kings of Spain and Portugal already " marching for Abeira, and join'd them upon " their Rout. But the Season was much ad" vanced, and it being thought impracticable to attack the Enemy there, it was resolv'd to retire into Winter Quarters.

"THE Troops being in Quarters, I went to Lisbon, where I had certain Advice that Gibraltar was beliefed, and Mareschal Thesse gone thither; upon which, considering the Importance of the Place, I immediately sent the Prince of Heffe Four of the Best Regiments of Foot under my Command, viz. the Battallion of Guards, my Lord Barrymore's, Lord Donnegall's, and Lord Montjoye's, together with a large Supply of Ammunition and Provisions, which the Garrison wanted This Relief arriv'd in good extreamly. "Time, and prov'd fo Successful, as not only " to defend the Place, but to hold out a Siege " that entirely ruin'd the Enemy's Infantry, " and prevented their being able to take the " Field the following Spring in Alentejo.

" BEING inform'd of their Condition, as " likewise that there was but a very small "Garrison in Badajox, I endeavour'd to per-" fwade the Portuguese to attack that Place, " but could not then prevail; however, they " took Valencia de Alcantara by Storm, and Albuquerque by Capitulation, under the Com-" mand of the Conde das Galveas, and after-" wards retir'd to Quarters of Refreshment, " as is usual in the excessive Heats of the Sum-

" DURING this Interval I went to Lisbon to confer with the Earl of Peterborow. I " found the King of Spain defign'd to embark with him; and not doubting but the Earl " was bound upon some Important Expedition, " tho' I had no Orders to that Purpose, and " had now only One Regiment of Horse, Two of Dragoons, and Five of Foot, left under my Command in Portugal, I offer'd him whatever Part of these Troops he pleas'd to defire. The Earl accepted of my Offer, and chose the Royal Regiment of Dragoons, and " Cuuningham's; taking likewise an Order with " him from me to the Governour of Gibraltar, " for fuch Regiments from thence as he should " think fit to take on Board, leaving only a " luf-Bb

" fufficient Garrison for the Defence of the "Town; and accordingly his Lordship took from thence those Four Regiments which "I had fent thither to the Relief of the " Place.

" AFTER the King of Spain and my Lord . Peterboron were failed, with great Difficulty . I prevailed upon the Portuguese to besiege. Ba-" dajox in Autumn; but instead of taking the Field, as we had agreed to do, in the Beginning of September, it was the 2d of October before I could get them to invest the Place " under the Command of the Marquis Das Minas, Our Cannon had already begun to play with Success, when an Accident happen'd in a Battery, which I went thither to repair; and being there to give the necessary " Orders for that Purpose, I lost my Arm by " a Cannon-shot from the Town; but it is the general Cpinion, that if the Disposition which I put in Writing the very Morning " the Misfortuue happen'd to me, and propos'd to a Council of War, where the fame " was agreed to, had been duly executed, Mareschal These could never have reliev'd the Place, which must necessarily have fallen into our Hands in a very few Days.

NOT long after the Siege was rais'd, News " came of the Surrender of Barcelona to King charles; and about a Month after, that " Mareschal Thesse had march'd with the best " Part of the Forces quarter'd on the Frontier " of Portugal, in order to join the Duke of An-in jou, and beliege Barcelona again. " ul ON this I resolved to propose to the Portuguese to march to Madrid, concluding, " that either the Duke of Anjou would, by this " Means, be obliged to quit the Siege of Bar. of celona, or else that we could meet with no

ee Oppo

"Opposition in our Way. For this Purpose I "took a Journey to Lisbon, even while my Wound, upon the cutting off my Arm, was " still open, and had such Success with the King " of Portugal, that his Troops took the Field "the following Spring by the 26th of March, N. S. under the Command of the Marquiss Das Minas, with Intention to besiege Alcan-" tara, and march that Way to Madrid. Mean "time the Duke of Berwick, who had been " fent to Command on the Frontier of Portugal " in Mareschal Thesse's stead, had thrown Ten " Regiments of Foot into Badajox, and march'd "with Seven more, and a Body of 4000 Horse, "towards Alcantara, in order to reinforce that "Garrison by the Addition of those Seven Re-"giments, which he had accordingly left there, and then came back to Brocas with his Ca-" valry, where we furpriz'd him, beat his Rear-"Guard, pursued him a considerable Way, and took possession of the Castle of Brocas, in " which Place we left a Garrison to Cover our " Forragers during the Time that we should lye " before Alcantara.

"AFTER this we continu'd our March to Alcantara, which surrender'd to us in a very few Days; we took Ten good Battallions Prisoners of War there, and found above Sixty Pieces of Cannon in the Place, with great Store of Small Arms and Ammuni-

"AFTER the Surrender of Alcantara we cross'd the Tagus there; and having taken in fome Places of small Note upon our March, and forced a Pass at Massagona, where the Enemy had entrenched themselves, we advanced as far as the Bridge of Almaras.

Bb2 "BuT

"Bu T here the Portuguese resolv'd unanimously to return Home again, notwithstanding all the Arguments the Generals of the Allies could offer to the contrary, which happen'd very unfortunately; for had the Army march'd directly from thence to Madrid, in all probability we must have arriv'd there at the same Time with the News of the Duke of Anjou's being return'd to France, the Dutchess must have been oblig'd to escape alone; and the Tribunals being still there, it is very likely the War would have been over.

"SOME of the Portuguese were willing to go back and befiege Badajox, which was entirely laying aside all Thoughts of Madrid; but others for attacking Cindad Rodrigo, and by joining with these, I engaged them, after the Taking of that Place, to go to Madrid. But the Time which was lost on this Occasion had given the Duke of Anjon an Opportunity of returning from France to Madrid, from whence he withdrew the Court, and all the Tribunals, before our Army could reach that Place; so upon our Arrival there we found Madrid an open Village; and the Troops having been extreamly weakned by so long a March, were not above 4000 Horse, and

THE Portuguese Generals, and those of the Allies, thought it highly necessary the King of Spain should come to Madrid as soon as possible; for besides the Advantage his Presence might have been to his own Affairs, it was of the last Importance to us to be immediately join'd by the Forces with the King, and under the Earl of Peterborow's Command, not being Strong enough without them to attack the Duke of Anjon, who had already "received some Succours from France, besides the 5500 Horse and 8000 Foot, of which the Duke of Berwiek's Army consisted, after he had been joined by the Condo de las Torres.

"BEING perfectly inform'd of the Enemy's "Strength and Motions, and having great "Reasons to believe, that if we were join'd in time by all the Forces, with the King and the Earl of Peterborow, we might, in this "favourable Conjuncture, drive the Duke of "Anjou entirely out of Spain, make ourselves "absolute Masters of that Kingdom, and put an End to an Expensive War. All the while

"we lay at Madrid and Guadalaxara, I dif-"patch'd every Day one or more Expresses,

" and the greatest part of them Officers, with Letters to the King of Spain and to my Lord "Peterborow, representing to them both the "Importance of our being join'd forthwith, and earneftly desiring that no Time might be lost in Improving so Critical a Juncture.

"AS the next Best Means to advise our Friends of our Arrival at Madrid, the first "Gazette Day after we got thither I caus'd it to be Published in the Gazette that we were there, and expected in a very few Days to be

"join'd by the King and the Earl of Peterborow, hoping that the natural Curiofity of the Spa"niards would give a Printed News-paper a " free Paffage.

"BUT notwithstanding all the Diligence that was us'd in this Matter on our Part, near Six Weeks were elaps'd at Madrid and Gua- dalaxara before we received any Advice that the King was upon his March to join us; and in the mean time the Duke of Anjou's Army was so much encreased by daily Reinforcements from several Parts, that he was now become Bb3 fuperior in Number to us, even after we were join'd by those Forces which the King and my Lord Peterborow brought along with them.

" AND I must say, that it is the general Opinion, and I do verily believe, as the Portuguese lost one fair Opportunity of putting an End to the War, by not Marching directly from the Bridge of Almaras to Madrid, fo we lost another for want of being join'd in time by the Forces under the Command of the King of Spain and the Earl of Peter-borow.

" AND whereas that Noble Lord is pleas'd to averr. That he never received any Advice from me of my Arrival at Madrid with the Portuguese; and as an Argument of my Neglect of him on that Subject, produces an Instance of one Officer that happened to pass through his Quarters with Letters from me to the King, and none for his Lordship, I am obliged to observe, That I gave this Officer an Hundred Pikoles, and ordered him to go directly to the King of Spain, who then lay at Saragoffa; but he was accidentally forced to go out of his Way to avoid one of the Enemy's Parties, which was the true Occasion of his passing through the Earl of Peterborow's Quarters at Valencia, contrary to his first Intention. But several other Officers who were dispatch'd by me to the Earl asfured me they had the Honour to deliver " him those Letters which I writ his Lordship " from Madrid and Guadalaxara; and even taking the Fact to be as the Earl of Peterborow is pleas'd to state it himself, it's plain his Lordship had at least some Verbal Informations from that very Officer that pass'd thro' his Lordship's Quarters, and consequently

"quently could not be altogether Ignorant, ei"ther of the Place where the Portuguese Army
"lay, or of the Necessity of joining them, with-

"out Loss of Time.

"AFTER the General had got King "Charles Proclaim'd at Madrid, it was thought fit to advance to Guadalaxara, where we had at last Advice that the King was coming to join us; and at the same Time were inform'd that the Duke of Anjou was at Guadalaxara, to which Place we march'd to prevent the Enemy from intercepting the King. Upon our Approach the Duke of Anjou repass'd the River, which little Advantage we contented ourselves with; for it was not thought adviseable to follow, and attack him on the other Side, being advantagiously posted, and stronger than we.

"WE stay'd here Two Days, and when we thought the King was out of Danger we again retir'd to Guadalaxara, where we were join'd by his Majesty and my Lord Peterborom, with Two Regiments of Spanish Dragoons, and part of Peirce's; for his Lordship had " left behind him, in several Places, Thirteen Battallions of English Foot, with the remain" der of Peirce's, and Two other entire Regi" ments of Dragoons.

"SO foon as the Armies were join'd, (ha"ving, upon my Arrival at Madrid, fent Cap"tain Montague to give the Queen an Account
"of our March, and to defire Her Majesties
"Leave to retire) I waited upon my Lord
"Peterborow, offering him the Command of "the English, and to receive his Orders till I "should have the Queen's Leave to go Home.
"But because the Marquiss Das Minas wou'd not do so too, my Lord Peterborow chose not to stay with the Army, and within a few "Days after went away. Bb4 "THE

"THE King resolv'd, by Advice of the of the General Officers, to go to Chincon, where all Things necessary for the Army were found in great Plenty: But the Season being far advanc'd, a Council was held about taking Winters Quarters, where it was agreed to be by no Means safe to canton on that Side the Tagus, for fear of losing all Communication with the Sea; besides, the Country was so open the Troops could not be divided with " out Danger.

"FOR these Reasons, after having stay'd at "Chincon above Three Weeks, tho' the Army had Forrage and Provisions for as many more, it was agreed forthwith to cross the Tagus, lest the approaching Rains shou'd render the Fords impracticable; nor was there any Possibility of taking Winter Quarters so commodiously as in the Kingdom of Valencia, where the Situation of the Country rendred us secure against any Attempts from a Superior Army.

"THIS Resolution was put in Practice, and we made our Retreat in good Order, not"withstanding all the Interruption the Enemy were able to give us, and we oblig'd at "Intesta to cross the River in Sight of all their " Cavalry.

"WHILST the Army was in Quarters my "Lord Peterborow came back from Italy: And whereas it has been suggested that his Lord- ship did then demand from me 5000 Men for some Expedition on the Side of Catalonia, which were refus'd, I must declare I don't remember that the Earl ever apply'd himself to me in particular upon that Subject; if he had, the Answer must naturally have been, that Matter depended not upon me to grant or refuse, but upon the King of Spain, under whose Command I was. "Bu T

"BuT I do remember the Earl propos'd " this at some General Council, or Council of "War, held in the King's Presence, about the " Operations of the entuing Campaign, and I " join'd with those that were of Opinion, that "it was by no Means convenient to divide the "Troops, as may appear by a Copy of that " Opinion fign'd by my Lord Tyrawley, and by " me, bearing Date the 15th Day of January, 1705. But I must beg leave to observe, That this was not the Decifive Council for the "Operations of the Campaign, for many " Subsequent Councils were held in the King's Presence more Important than this; and tho "in them there might have been some " Variety of Opinions as to the Manner, yet almost all the Generals and Ministers that affist-"ed at those Conncils agreed perfectly in the " Substance, which was, that we should join "our Troops, and march to Madrid. Some "indeed were for passing thro' the Plains of " the Mancha, and croffing the Tagus, but this "Opinion was over-rul'd, because of the Hazard "in passing the River if the Enemy oppos'd us, " and of the Scarcity of Provisions in the Mancha, "which had been exhausted by the Enemies "Winter Quarters; for which Reasons it was, "after many Debates, agreed, that we should " take the Way of Valencia and Arragon, paffing " the Tagus at its Head, to avoid all Opposi-"tion. But lest the Kingdom of Valencia might "by this Means be any ways exposed, it "was likewise resolved, before we should "begin our March, to destroy all the Enemies "Magazines of Provisions and Forrage in the "Country bordering upon the Frontier of "Valencia, to prevent them from making any "Incursions; and I do take upon me to averr, 66 that nothing was ever transacted, during the " Time

"Time I had the Hononr to Command the "Queen's Troops, contrary to the positive " Resolution of any General Council, or Coun-"cil of War, unless that Resolution was after-" wards repealed by some Subsequent Council. "SO fensible was every one of our being al-" ready too Weak, it was refolved to defire "my Lord Rivers (who was lately arriv'd at "Lisbon) would join us with the Troops that " came under his Command from England, " which his Lordship did, not long after. "FOR the better Execution of what had "been resolv'd for our March thro' Valencia "and Arragon, proper Commissaries and Offi-"cers were dispatch'd to provide Bread and " Forrage sufficient for the Troops in all Places "where it was defign'd the Armies should " pass. I went with the Marquis Das Minas to the Frontiers towards the latter end of " March, and we took the Field the beginning " of April. We ruin'd part of the Country " bordering upon the Frontiers of Valencia be-" fore the Enemy could join their Troops, par-" ticularly Teela, where they had their largest "Magazines; and judging it necessary to take in the Castle of Vilena, to prevent the Army from being Masters of one of the most Consi-"derable Inlets into the Kingdom of Valencia, " fat down before that Place; but it prov'd " fironger than was expected; and after we had " spent some Deys there, we had Notice the E-" nemy had affembled their Troops at Almanza. "uPON this Advice a Council of War " was held, where it was unanimously resolv'd " to fight the Enemy; which we were the ra-"ther induced to, because it was judg'd im-" possible to subsist upon the Defensive in the "Kingdom of Valencia; for the Country had " already been so much exhausted by our Win-

"ter Quarters, there was not Two Days Provision to be found for the Army; and we " could not have been able to have subsisted " there fo long as we did, but for the Supply we "found in the Enemies Magizines at Tecla, "Nordid we think it proper to pursue the once " intended March thro' that Kingdom, and " Arragon, lest Provisions should be wanting, " leaving the Enemy to near, and in a Condi-" tion to follow us; for tho' Commissaries had been employ'd, there was Reason to appre-" hend the Towns we were to pass thro' would " shut the Ga'es against us, whilst we were "closely follow.d by the Enemy, and perfe-" cuted by the Pealants of the Country; who grown desperately by seeing themselves aban-"don'd, would naturally be up in Arms in the " Mountains. Betides, we had certain Advice "that there was already a Body of French "Troops, confitting of 8 000 Men, in Spain, " and upon their March to reinforce the Ene-"my. Thus as the Army must inevitably "have perished without Fighting, "thought reasonable to run the Hazard of a Battle, wherein we had an equal Chance to "come off Victors, which was accordingly " done Two Days after, on the 25th of April, " 17.7. N. S. but with ill Success. THE Cavalry of the Allies, with some "fmall Part of the Foot that had escaped the "ill Fate of the Day, join'd again at Alcira, from whence they retir'd to Tortofa, and find-"ing the Enemy had cross'd the Ebro, endea-"vour'd by opposing their Passage over the "Cinca to amuse them till the latter end of " the Campaign. Mean time, with great Expedition, I gathered the broken Remains of the Foot, out of which I form'd Five Battallions, and rais'd Four more of Gatalans, with which,

which we made a Stand against a Victorious Enemy, and preserved the Principality of Catalonia entire, excepting Lerida: After the taking of which Place the Enemy thought sit to retire to Winter Quarters, and we did the same.

"IN February following, the Marquis das " Minas, with most of the Portuguese Generals, "embark'd for Lisbon, and having the Queen's "Leave to do fo too, I visited the several Quar-" ters where the Troops in Her Majofiles Pay "were lodg'd; and having left the necessary "Orders with Majors Generals Carpenter and "Wills, for their Government in my Absence, " took the same Opportunity of going thither. "UPON my Arrival in Portugal, I found " the Queen's Orders there to take upon me the "Characters of Ambassador Extraordinary, " Plenipotentiary, and General of Her Forces, " which Charges I accepted in Obedience to "Her Majesty, tho' I had nothing so much at " Heart as the Pleasure of returning to that « Retirement, from whence only the Queen's

First QUESTION.

THAT the Earl of Peterborow be defired to acquaint the Committee how he was supported with Men and Money during the Time he Commanded in Spain? And what Applications he made for either? And to whom?

ANSWER

TO the First Question he was pleas'd to an- Answer. " That the Management of the War in Spain, when under the Conduct of other Ge-" nerals, was not only supported by great " Numbers of Men, and valt Sums of Money, " but also with notorious Falshoods, publish'd in their Favour to excuse their repeated " Difgraces: Whereas his Lordship was not " supported as the Service required, with ei-" ther Men or Money; but his Conduct tra-"duced, notwithstanding his constant Suc-"cesses, by Multitudes of Representations and " Suggestions to his Prejudice, all of them de-" tected to be false, before your Lordships on " the Evidence lying before the House, or in " his Hands to prove them fo, whenever his " Lordship should be allowed the Oppor-" tunity. " THAT he had no Reinforcements of Men till Three or Four Days before the French " rais'd the Siege of Bareelona : That Mr. Stan-" hope, who came with those Forces, in his " Letter represents them as far short, in his " Opinion, of what the Occasion required: " And that he received no Money from England " till his coming back to Valencia after that Siege; and that the little Sum was out of " his Lordship's Power to make Use of; the " Paymaster for above a Month disputing to

"iffue it by his Lordship's Orders, as appears by Proofs upon Oath in this House.
"THAT the Troops he brought there did not amount to 5000, tho' Publish'd in the

"THAT no One Regiment was provided with the least Equipage, no Mule nor Horse, no Carriage for the Troops, nor any Beast of Draught for the Artillery, no Magazines for Provisions for a March; his Lordship never " having receiv'd any Money from England till that Time, having taken and relieved Barcelona, drove 7000 Men with 3000 out of Va-" lencia, and 25,000 Men out of Spain, with the "inconfiderableForces he had, before he received " One Peny from England. His Lordship said " further, He never had any Establishment ordered, nor allowed for Baggage-money, For-" rage-money, or the Train of Arrillery, till just " about the Time when the Command of the Forces was put into other Hands. His Lord-" ship was pleas'd to say, he was forc'd to shift as well as he could with what Money he " had of his own, and could pick up and down " the World, and was rewarded for his Pains and Services with having his Bills protested, which he drew from Genoa for Moneys put " on Board Her Majesty's Ships, for which Her "Captains were accountable to the Paymaster, " and put out of the Earl's Power. That the "Troops received the full Sum without " any Discount, tho' this was made use of by a " Secret of State as One Motive for recalling " his Lordship, That he had drawn the Bills 4 at 25 per Crnt. Discount. The Earl farther "took Notice, That the he wanted Money, and all Necessaries whatsoever, it was object-" to him, that he did not immediately put the "Troops in fuch a Condition Into the Field, "which was utterly impossible for the afore-" faid Reasons; and his Lordship affirm'd, "that a Merchant had stopped, and yet de-"tained 1400 1. of his Lordship's Money in his " Hands, for the Damages he pretended to have received by the Protesting the Bills " which the Earl of Peterborow had drawn in ec his Favour. " HIS

"HIS Lordship farther observ'd, That " some Lords had seem'd unsatisfied upon this "Head, tho' notwithstanding all these Diffi-" culties, it appeared by the Oaths of all the "Officers examin'd in the House, that the "Troops fent to the Siege of Requena went "without Baggage; which Place was to be "taken to make the Entrance into Castile pos-" fible; and that all the Regiments begun their " March Regiment by Regiment the Moment "they had their Mules delivered to them for " their Equipage. His Lordship concluded " this Head with observing what untrue Re-" presentations were made in Favour of others, " when, to excuse the Fatal Battle of Almanza, " a King was to be used at that Rate, as to " have it in an Account Printed by Authority " declared, That he took Numbers amounting " to 4 or 5000 Men from a Battle to be fought " for his Crown, the very Regiments of Horse "and Foot mentioned by Name; whereas it is " notoriously known to the whole World, that "he took only about 200 miserable Spanish "Dragoons, and that of the Regiments menti-"oned to be taken away from the English Ge-"neral at Valencia; some of them were never "in Being, others were Regiments of Trained-"Bands in Barcelona, and none of them within " 250 Miles of the Place.

Second QUESTION.

That the Earl of Peterborow may acquaint the House of what he knows of the Earl of Gallway's Proceedings during his Stay with the Army at Madrid, his March to Guadalaxara, and his Retreat to Valencia; and if he knows any Thing of the Opposition made by the King of Spain, the Count de Noyelles, and the Spanish Ministers and Generals, to those Measures?

ANSWER

Answer.

TO the Second Question the Earl was pleas'd to Answer, " That from the Time the Earl of "Gallway came first into Spain as far as Almaras, " and thence return'd back into Portugal, the "Earl of Peterborow had no Advices from "the Earl of Gallway, no Account of the Mo-"tives of that Retreat, or any Hopes given "him of the Return of the Portuguese into " Spain. That after the raifing the Siege of "Barcelona, and the Retreat of the French Army " out of Catalonia, the Earl of Peterborow re-" ceiv'd no Letter or Message from the Earl of " Gallway after his second Entrance into Spain; " nor had the least Notice of his Struction, " Circumstances, or Defigns, till he saw his "Troops retreating from the Enemy to take "the Strong Camp of Guadalaxara; tho' the "Marches of the King from Arragon, and those " of the Earl of Peterborow from Valencia, were well known in the Portugal Camp. That "Two several Officers, sent by my Lord Gall-" way, came to Valencia, and brought no Let-" ters to the Earl of Peterborow, One of them "demanding Money for the Pursuit of his Journey. "THAT as to the Persons who advised the "King to go by Arragon, and not by Valencia, "he knows no farther, (being at that Time ab-" fent from his Majetty,) but that having ever " extreamly opposed it, and having writ to the "Secretary of State at his first coming to Va-"lencia against it, he receiv'd an Answer to "this Purpose, That he hoped the Earl Peter-"borow would bear the Mortification and Dif-"appointment with Patience, fince the King " was so resolv'd; and a Messenger, by the ap" pointed Token, known to be fent by my "Lord Gallway, had given Notice that the faid "Earl expected the King by the Way of Arra"gon, and had given to understand how every "Thing was prepared for his Reception that "Way."

Third QUESTION.

THAT the Earl of Peterborow acquaint the Third House what Advices his Lordship received from Questions the Earl of Gallway at Madrid, in order to concert any Publick Measures? And what his Lordship knows of the Reasons that induced the King of Spain to go by Arragon towards Madrid, and not by Valencia?

ANSWER.

TO the Third Question the Earl is pleased Answer. to answer, " That the Earl of Gallway con-"tinu'd about Forty Days at Madrid, without " making any Endeavours to augment his "Troops, or provide any Magazines for the "Subfistence of his Army. That meeting the "Enemy unexpectedly, and retreating to the "Camp of Guadalaxara, the Troops were "without Provisions, and in the greatest Diforder. That the Measures taken in that "Retreat, where Five Hundred Men were loft "without a Blow, and their whole Cavalry "ruin'd, were all positively against the King's " Opinion, and that of all the Officers and Mini-"flers. That the Earl of Peterborow had the "Accounts he gives from the King of Spain's "own Mouth, and several of his Generals; and "it will particularly appear by Letters from Count Noyelles, Velt-Mareschal of the Emperor, and General to the King of Spain, and from Mr. Stanbope, which Letters the "Earl is ready to produce; and that it is no-" torious to the whole World, that if the " Earl of Gallway had purfued the Enemy Ten "Days longer towards the Ebro, all the Horse under the Mareschal of Berwick had deserted to King Charles, and the French could never "have return'd to Spain.

Fourth QUESTION.

Fourth Question. IF his Lordship please to give an Account of the Councils of War in Valencia about the 15th of January, 1707, upon Notice of the Earl Rivers Sailing into the Streights, and upon the Projects of that Campaign? And what Numbers the King took from the Army? And an Account of his Manifesto upon so doing?

ANSWER.

Answer.

- TO the Fourth Question the Earl is pleas'd to answer, " That several Councils of War " were held in the Month of January at Valen-" cia, (about the Time that the Intelligence " was brought that the Forces under the Earl "Rivers were entred into the Mediterranean,) " in Order to adjust the Measures for the en-" fuing Campaign; that the Matters therein " debated were principally, Whether the Army " should March towards Madrid, and seek the " Enemy? In the Debates the Earl of Peter-" borow positively assures, That the Earl of "Gallway, Mr. Stanbope, and Lord Tyrawley, " supported those Measures with the Portuguese "General; and that the King, the Count de " Noyelles, the Spanish Generals and Ministers, " with himself, argued strongly against those Measures, as highly dangerous and impracti-" cable, and this in repeated Councils of War; till at last the Earl of Peterborow, folicited by the King of Spain to renew the Debate, defired the King that all call'd to the Council should " bring their Opinions In Writing, that every Bodies Opinion, and Reasons for that Opi-"nion, might appear and be known to the World; which according to the King's Com-" mands were put in Writing, and delivered " at the Council. That the faid Earl fent " his Opinion home, and gave the Lord Trea 66 furer

"in that Council of the controverted Points in that Council of War by Letters, about that Time, and after the Battle of Almanza, from Genoa, which Letters, attefted upon Oath to be true Copies, he is ready to produce.

"THAT the King's Opinion, and that of all his Generals and Ministers, in Concurrence with the Earl of Peterborow, was over-rul'd by a Minister of Her Majesty, assuring, that Her Majesty had given him Orders to declare in Her Name, that Her positive Orders were, "That they should seek the Enemy, march to Madrid, and not divide the Forces upon any " Occasion whatsoever.

"THAT in a subsequent Council of War the best Measures were concerted for the putting this in Execution, against which the King, and so many Generals and Foreign Ministers, had declar'd; and that it was unanimously agreed the Army should march by the Head of the Tagus into Arragon, to avoid the Enemy's Horse in the Plains, and not have that River to pass before the Enemy.

"THAT notwithstanding this the Earl of Gallway brought the Army into the Plains of Valencia, the direct contrary Rout to that of Arragon, and into all those Dangers which he was to avoid, by marching by the Head of " the Tagus.

"THAT by Letters from my Lord Sunder-land to Mr. Stanbope and Lord Gallway, be"fore the House, it appears that these Lords "and Persons differ'd in Opinion from the rest.
"The Subject Matter of their Opinion being inserted, and it being taken Notice of in such Letters that these Opinions in Writing were "receiv'd, and agreeable to the Lord Treasurer's "Thoughts, and Mr. Stanbope thanked and approved for what he had offer'd in the Queen's Name:

CC2

"THAT the Earl of Peterboron was the more of that Opinion, because the Duke of Savoy and Prince Eugene had declar'd their Sentiments for a Defensive War at that Time in Spain, and had communicated their Thoughts to Charles the Third upon that Subject, to the certain Knowledge of the Earl of Peterboron, as he can make appear by Authentick Papers from the King of Spain.

"THAT the Earl fent a Project to the Duke of Savoy and Prince Eugene, in concert with himself, to the Queen, which Her Majesty had Herself required, in which the said Sentiments might appear, if the Earl had the "Queen's Leave to produce it.

"THAT he went into Italy by the Queen's "Commands and Solicitations, with Powers and Authorities to Negotiate and Treat with the Duke of Savoy, tho'it is true he was found "Fault with for so doing, as if he had not the Queen's Orders, (which yet he is ready to produce,) and was recall'd upon that Pretence. That those Orders were communicated to the King of Spain, Lord Gallway, Mr. Stanbope, the Generals and Ministers of the Army then at Guadalaxara, and he was by them unanimously solicited to go for Italy in purfuance of those Orders, and this agreed to in a Council of War.

"THAT an Objection rais'd, that he went alone when order'd to go with Troops, is of no Weight, fince while he was preparing to execute those Orders according to that Letter, a strong Squadron of the Ships were commanded away to the West-Indies, under Admirals appointed from England, and the particular Ships mention'd for that Service. That those Orders were founded upon the Supposition that Madrid and all Spain were in the Hands of King Charles. That notwith-

"flanding the total Alteration of Affairs, it was not in the Power of the Earl of Pe"terborow to prevent this Fatal Separation of "the Fleet, tho' he propos'd and solicited the "other Admirals to join with him in setting
"aside Orders so prejudicial to the Publick,
"but could not prevail, when yet they allow'd
"it made the Fleet useless for that Year where "they were; and that the Squadron under their "precise and positive Orders could be of no
"Service in the West-Indies, not even to go out
"off there to pursue the Galleons, had they had

" Intelligence of them. "That the King of Spain, Count Noyelles, " Mr. Stanbope and Zinzerling, by the King's Orders folicited the Earl of Peterborow's Return " into Spain, and was ordered by his Catholick " Majesty to solicite in the most pressing Man-" ner that the Earl of Gallway might be recall'd, " and the Portuguese Troops removed: That " accordingly when he had fent the Project " upon Thoulon, and against France, to the Se-"cretary of State, he return'd and affisted at " the feveral Councils which are now enquired "into, and of which he has given a full and "true Account. And that he was the more of preffing and endeavouring to prevent the "rath Measures which brought on the Bartle " of Almanza, because the Defensive in Spain "was agreed on by the Duke of Savoy and "Prince Eugene, in order to the Defign pro-" jected against Thoulon: Which Defign against "Thoulon was wholly altered and made so im-" practicable, that the Duke of Savoy, in the "most Publick and Solemn Manner, declar'd "his Un willingness to engage in it.

"Earl Rivers was Arrived, and Landed at Ali"cant, farther Debates arose what Advices should be given him, and what proposed to Cc3

"him, to execute with his Troops? The "Project approved, and offer'd by my Lord "Gallway and Mr. Stanbope, was, (to the best of his Remembrance,) That the Troops should advance to some little Town near the Enemy, with Affurance given my Lord "Rivers, that in some few Days he should "be futtain'd with a confiderable Body of "Horse, and some Foot: That in the Particular " he referrs himself to the Earl Rivers, not ha-" ving perfect Remembrance of it as the rest; "but that he perfectly remembers that he copposed with the utmost Warmth that any " fuch Proposition should be made to the Earl "Rivers, it being certain (however Dangerous "and Improper it was) that fuch Measures " should be purfued, that Earl being wholly "Ignorant of the Situation of Affairs, would "not object against Marching towards the 46 Enemy.

"HE perfectly remembers, that at these "Councils there was no Account given, that "could be depended upon, of the Enemies "Forces, who, at that Time, were known to have a Body of near Ten Thousand Horse, and might soon be drawn together from their Quarters; he knew that those Troops could do no Service, but must remain satigued and exposed, and without the Forces promised in a few Days to support them, which he was certain could not join them in a Month, and thought himself obliged to give my Lord Rivers and Brigadier Gorge this Account, that the Earl Rivers might take the utmost

" Cautions, and be upon his Guard.

"THAT according to the Account he gave, the Earl Rivers Forces were fatigued and expos'd for near a Month without any Reinforcement from the Earl of Gallway, and at last Orders sent to make a Retreat, which could could not be executed without great Hazard

" to the Troops. "THAT upon the Earl River's Arrival at "Valencia, after such Ulage to himself and Her "Majesties Troops, the Earl of Peterborow met "him just going to the King, and told him why " he was so positive in the Information given bim, that he should not be join'd by any Troops in a " Month's Time. Which was because he knew "that the New Commissaries they had chosen " for furnishing Bread and other Provisions for "the Troops, at a Higher Rate than they were "furnished before, were not engaged by their "Contract to deliver the Necessaries for the Troops which were to join the Earl Rivers " till a Month after the Time they were pro-"mised it; and the Earl of Peterboron then de-" fired the Earl Rivers to ask the King, Whether " this Matter of Fact were not true? Who, as he " believes, might tell him the same Thing. Fifth QUESTION.

WHAT the Motives were of the King of Spain's Eifth Queleaving the Army when it was resolved to March Rion. towards Madrid, and towards the Enemy? And whether there were any Orders pretended from England for those Measures?

ANSWER.

TO the Fifth Question the Earl is pleas'd to Answer. Answer, " That the King of Spain, when the " Troops were Marching into Murcia towards " the Enemy, Assembled a Council to no other " Purpose but to send by the Hands of his Se-" cretary of State a Protest, with his Reasons " why he would not March with the Army, " but go to protect his Subjects in Catalonia; " the Contents of which Protest the Earl very " well remembers, having had the Copy of it "by the King's Order. That he has Instru-" ments under the King's Hand and Seal to " hew how he was over-rul'd and contradicted Cc4 tradicted in the Matters he thought fit to propose for the Publick Service.

The Earl of Gallway's REPLY: Or, OBSERVATIONS upon the Earl of Peterborow's Answers to the Five Questions propos'd to his Lordship by the Lords, are as follows.

The Earl & of Gall- & way's Ob- & fervations on the E. of Peter-borow's Answers.

Y Our R Lordships having been pleas'd to allow me a Copy of all such Papers as have been produced to prove the Truth of the Earl of Peterborom's Answers to the Five Questions that were proposed to him by this Honourable House, together with a Copy of those Questions and Answers, with Leave to Answer to any such Part thereof as I might conceive myself to be concern'd in, and have not already sufficiently explain'd in my Narrative, I do take the Liberty of ob- ferving to your Lordships, that,

"The Earl of Peterborow to the First Question " is pleas'd to fay, -The Management of the War in Spin, when under the Conduct of other "Generals, was not only supported with great Numbers of Men, and vast Sums of Money, but also with Notorious Falshoods publish'd in their "Favour, to excuse their repeated Disgraces, whereas his Lordship cannot but re-"member, that when he fail'd from Portugal with the King of Spain to Barcelona he left only One Regiment of Horse, and Five of "Foot, under my Command in that Country; "I having voluntarily offer'd him, and he as " freely accepted of, Two Regiments of Dra-" goons from Portugal, and Four Battallions of "Foot from Gibraltar, which I had fent to the ! Defence of that Place.

I declare I never traduc'd the faid Earl's "Conduct,

"Conduct, either by Letters, or otherwise, "tho' it seems the Queen had been fully inform'd thereof, particularly in Regard to the Misunderstanding between his Lordship and the King of Spain, to which his Catholick Majesty has attributed his Delays in Marching to his Capital, as may appear by Count Gallias's Memorial, a Copy whereof lyes upon your Lordship's Table. 'Tis well known the first Disgrace that ever happen'd to us in Spain was occasion'd by his Lordship's not joining us in time at Madrid; and all the Missortunes that attended us afterwards were owing to that Neglect, "His Lordship is pleas'd to say farther in his " Answer to the same Question, That to excuse " the Fatal Battle of Almanza, a King was to be " us'd at that rate, as to have it, in an Account 4 Printed by Authority, declared, that he took " Numbers, amounting to 4 or 5000 Men, from a " Battle to be Fought for his Crown, the very Re-" giments of Horse and Foot mention'd by Name: " whereas it is notoriously known to the whole World " that he took only about 200 Miserable Spanish "Dragoons, and that of the Regiments mention'd "to be taken away from the English General in "Valencia, some of them were never in Being, " others were Regiments of Trained-Bands in Bar-"celona, and none of them within 250 Miles of "the Place -- Whereupon I beg Leave to "observe, that notwithstanding the Earl's Re-" flection on that Paper, publish'd by Autho-"rity, the Account therein Printed is fo far "from having been exaggerated, that there " were actually some Battallions of Regular "Troops absent in Catalonia, besides those " mention'd in the Gazette, June, 1707; and "feveral Officers who were at Almanza can "depose, there was not One Spanish Corps, " either Horse, Foot, or Dragoons, on our Side, " at that Battle. LIF

"If part of the King's Forces were at 250 "Miles Diffance, that may be a Reason why they could not be at the Battle; but none " ean be given for their being at that Distance, except in the Case of some few Garrisons, "which might indeed have been necessary, but could not require above Six or Seven Battallions, whilst the Army was then in the "Field; whereas his Catholick Majesty had at "that time, in his own Pay, in Spain, above 60 6000 Men, besides the Dutch and English that were in Arragon and Catalonia. And those Regiments which the Earl is pleas'd to call Trained-Bands, because they bore the Name "of some particular Town or Province that " rais'd or fubfisted them, are no more so, than the Regiments of Picardy and Burgundy in "France, tho' newly raised. "In his Lordship's Answer to the Second "Question he is pleas'd to averr, That from the time the Earl of Gallway came first into Sprin as far as Almaras, and thence return'd back to "Portugal, the Earl of Peterborow had no Ad-"vices from the Earl of Gallway, no Account of the Motives of that Retreat, or any Hopes given bim of the Return of the Portuguese into Spain. "What his Lordship says upon this Occasion is very true, for whilft he was at fo great a " Distance Besieg'd in Barcelona, and the Duke of Berwick, with a confiderable Body of Horse between him and us, it was to no Purpose to " think of fending Dispatches by Land; neither " was it necessary to inform the Enemy that "Way, that the Portuguese were resolv'd (notwithstanding the repeated Instances of the " Foreign Generals to the contrary) to return " back again to their own Country, after their " Army had advanc'd as far as the Bridge of " Almaras, But when we got to Madrid, I "immediately fent fo many Expresses with " Letters,

"Letters, both to the Earl of Peterborom, and

" the King of Spain, that It was morally impos-" fible his Lordship could have been ignorant " above Eight Days of our Arrival there: And "I have fince been affured, by the Inhabitants " of Barcelona, that they were all inform'd of it " by that time; from whence I must conclude, "that his Lordship's Delays in joining us were " voluntary, and not occasioned by want of In-" telligence. I have afferted in the Narrative, " which I deliver'd into this most Honourable "House, that I do verily believe, if the Portuguese Army had been join'd in Time, after their Arrival at Madrid, that the Forces with "the King of Spain, and under the Command " of the Earl of Peterborow, we might have been " able to have driven the Duke of Anjou out of " Spain, and have put an end to an Expensive "War; nor was this my Opinion only, but " that of all the World at that time. And I "find his Lordship thinks it so far imports him " to be clear of this Imputation, that he is re-" folv'd to be rid of it at any Rate. For cer-" tainly nothing less than an Apprehension of " this Nature could have made him averr a Fact " fo improbable as that, where, in his farther " Answer to the same Question, he says, -that " he receiv'd no Letter, no Message, from the Earl of "Gallway, - after his second Entrance into "Spain ; nor had the least Notice of his Situation, " Circumstances, or Design, till be saw his Troops " retreating from the Enemy, to take the Strong Camp " of Guadalaxara. "Now what could be the Defign of his " Lordship's marching to Guadalaxara with so " fmall a Body of Troops as is mentioned in "my Narrative, unless he knew he was to " meet us there? Besides, his Lordship forgets " that he came not to Guadalaxara till some Days after the Portuguese had been actually

" encamp d

"incamp'd there; as I can make appear by the "Oath of several Officers; and consequently it was impossible for him to have seen us retreating thither.

"I believe it may be necessary upon this Occasion to repeat, that when his Lordship did of join us, he brought no more English Troops with him than One Regiment of Dragoons, " and a Detachment of another, tho' he had " actually at that time, under his Command in " Spain, 13 English Battallions, and Four Regiments of Dragoons; as likewife, that the "Officer who (his Lordship fays) passed " through his Quarters with Letters for the "King of Spain, and none for him, was "never defign'd to have gone within feveral " Leagues of his Lordthip, unless he had been " oblig'd to it by a Party of the Enemy, " have already explain'd more at large in my " Narrative; and I cannot help observing, 'tis " very improbable that that Officer should have had Octafion to apply to the Earl's Secretary " for Money, because I gave him an 100 Pistoles "at the time I dispatch'd him.

"In his Lordship's Answer to the Third Que-" Rion he' is pleas'd to fay, -That the Earl of "Gallway continued about 40 Days at Madrid, without making any Endeavours to augment his Troops, or provide any Magazines for the Subsitence of his Army; that meeting the Enemy unexpectedly, and retreating to the Camp of Gua-"dalaxara, the Troops were without Provisions, and in the greatest Disorder. In Reply to this " Paragraph I do affirm, that the Portuguese "faid no longer Time at Madrid than was necessary to get the King Proclaim'd there, "which did not exceed Ten Days; then adwanc'd as far as Guadalaxara, and afterwards to Guadaraxa, about 60 Miles beyond Madrid, " where we obliged Part of the Duke of Anjou's " Froops "Troops to repals the River; but were not " willing to engage them at a time when we "had reason to expect we should have been "join'd in a very few Days by the Forces with the King of Spain, and Earl of Peterborow, " which was the only secure Method left us to " augment our Troops; for it would have been "very imprudent to have attempted to form " Corps of the Castilians, who were entirely " devoted to the Duke of Anjou's Interest. But " all the Officers of the Army know we were fo " far from wanting Provisions ourselves, that " we fent a Convoy of Soco Loaves to meet " the King, and Earl of Peterborow, which (by "their Delay in not advancing fast enough) " grew Mouldy, and was afterwards pillaged by the Peasants. His Lordship's Information " of our want of Intelligence of the Enemies " Motions, and of our Diforder upon the Retreat, are as great Millakes as the former: " For the Occasion of our advancing to Guada-" raxara was purely to post ourselves in such a " manner as to prevent the Enemy from march-"ing or fending Detachments to intercept the King of Spain; and when we had reason to " believe him out of Danger, we return'd to "Guadalaxara, there to be join'd by the King " and Earl of Peterborow; nor was it possible " for his Lordship to have seen our Disorder, " had there been any, because, as I have alrea-"dy observed, he came not to Guadalaxara "himself till some Days after we had been "incamp'd there. " Notwithstanding the Earl of Peterborow is "pleas'd to fay, -That we lost 5000 Men in " the Retreat to Valencia, without a Blow, and en-"tirely ruin'd our whole Cavalry, 'tis certain " our Loss upon that Occasion was very incon-"fiderable, if any; and the Retreat made in to "good Order, that the Enemy (Superior as "they were in Number,) never durst venture to Attack us, after the warm Reception 22 of their Squadrons met with from Two Battal-lions under the Command of Colonel Wade, in the Town of Villa Nova, notwithstanding we were obliged to cross Plains and Rivers in their View.

"And tho' his Lordship averrs in his Answer to this Question - That this Retreat was made " against the King's Opinion, and that of all his " Officers and Ministers, it is certain the Retreat " was concerted and agreed upon in a Council "of War: 'Tis true, some Persons about the "King seem'd st first inclinable to have taken " Quarters in Gastile, but that was soon after " found impracticable; for none of those Spa-" niards, who were best acquainted with the "Country, could make a Disposition of Quar-"ters where the Troops could be secure; and " therefore it was refolved immediately to crofs the Tagus, before the approaching Rains "fhould have rendred the Fords impracticable; " which being done, our next Defign was to " have lodg'd ourselves behind the River Xucar: "But neither could this be done without ta-66 king a small Town with a Castle upon that "River that commanded a Bridge, where the " Enemy had a Garrison, and therefore a Dis-" position was made for attacking this Town; " but by the Delay of the King's Generals the " Execution of this Matter was fo long deferr'd, " that the Enemy had already reinforced their "Garrison, and were advanced so near us with a superior Force, that it was not thought ad-"viseable to attempt the Place. Thus the only Resource left us was the Kingdom of Valen-41 cia, whither we were absolutely obliged to " retreat, that we might preserve our Commu-" nication with the Seas, and Canton with " Security.

"NOR

" Nor is it to be wondred that Count Noy-" elles, in his Letter to the Earl of Peterborow, " should seem dissatisfied with the Measures "that were then taken, fince 'tis well known " that General used Underhand to ridicule " those very Opinions in Councils of War to "which he had given his own Affent: For be-"ing disappointed of the Command of the "Army, (which was what he expected at his " first Arrival) he seem'd resolv'd that no " other General should have an Army to Com-" mand. 'Tis very notorious, that a Dutch and " Spanish Battallion, with a Detachment of " English and Portuguese, amounting to above "3000 Men, were sent to Cuença, and thrown " away there, (after it had been refolv'd to re-" treat to Valencia,) purely to satisfie his Im-"portunity; for I always forefaw it would be "impossible to protect a Garrison at that Di-" stance from our Quarters; but what is still " more extraordinary, the fending the King's "Troops into Arragon with Part of the Dutch, " who might otherwise have been at the Battle of Almanza, was another F, tal Effect of Count " Noyelles's Advice.

"In the Earl of Peterborow's Answer to the "Fourth Question he is pleas'd to say, —That "feveral Councils of War were held in the Month of January at Valencia, about the time that In- telligence was brought, that the Forces under the Earl Rivers were entred into the Mediter- ranean, in order to adjust the Measures for the ensuing Campaign: That the Matters therein de- bated were principally, whether the Army should march towards Madrid, and seek the Enemy? In the Debates the Earl of Peterborow positively assures, That the Earl of Gallway, Mr. Stanhope, and the Lord Tyrawley, sup- ported those Measures with the Portuguese Gemeral; and that the King, the Count de Noy-elles, the Spanish Generals and Ministers, with " bimself, argued strongly against those Measures; " as highly dangerous and impracticable; and this in repeated Councils of War, till, at last, the Earl " of Pererborow, Solicited by the King of Spain to renew the Debate, defired the King that he would order all call'd to the Council to bring " their Opinions in Writing, that every Bodies Opi-"nion, and Reasons for that Opinion, might appear, " and be known to the World; which, according to the Kings Commands were put in Writing, and

" delivered at the Council.

"IN Reply to this Affertion, I would beg "Leave to appeal to your Lordship's Memo-" ries, whether, upon the first mention of these "Resolutions in this most Honourable House, " the Earl did not as politively affirm, That the "Conclusive Council for the Operations of the ensuing Campaign was held on the 15th of January? " And whether he did not offer to depose on Oath, that in that very Council no Person whatever was of Opinion for making an Offensive War, and against dividing the Troops, but the Lord Tyrawley, Mr. Stanhope and 1? Soon after indeed, upon farther Recollection, he was pleas'd to add the Marquis Das Minas to "our Number; and I observe he has since given himself a much larger Latitude, both as to the Time of holding that Council, and as to the Persons who voted for an Offensive War. His Lordship is now so far from con-" fining himself to a Day, that he takes in the " whole Month; and by Accusing us more "modefily, for having opposed only the King, " Count Noyelles himself, and the Spanish Gene-" rals and Ministers, leaves half the Council on our Side; for supposing all the Spanish Gene-" rals and Ministers to have assisted at that " Council, there could only have been Twelve Persons there, viz. Prince Lichtenstein, Count "Oropeza, Count Corsana, Count Cardona, Count Novelles, my Lord Peterborow, the Marquis Das Minas, Count d'Assumar, my Lord Tyrawley, Mr. Stanhope, Monfieur Freisheim, and I. The last Six his Lordship has plainly left on our Side; but my Lord Tyrawley positively assume Count Oropeza was of the same Opinion, and believes Count Corsana was so too. Thus taking the Matter as the E. of Peterborow is pleas'd to state it, we had an Equality, and, as my Lord Tyrawley re-

" members, the greater Number of our Party.

Perhaps when my Lord Peterborow contended to po-" fitively to prove that Council of the 15th of January 66 Conclusive, he was led into that Error by the Mistake in my Lord Sunderland's Letter, in Answer to One of " Mr. Stanbope's of Jan. 15; but he has since been pleas'd " to allow that the Council of the 15th was not Coxclusive, and that many more Subsequent Councils were held, which determin'd the Operations of the enfuing Campaign, wherein he voted himself for marching to Madrid by the Way of Arragon, which, I should have imagined, had left no farther Room to mention our " Opinions of the 15th; but because he is still resolv'd " to make good his Charge against my Lord Tyrawley, " Mr. Stanbope, and me, he affirms to your Lordships, "That the Occasion of that Change in the Subsequent Councils " was, because the Opinion of the Majority had been over-" ruled by a Minister of Her Majesty, assuring, That the . Queen had given him Orders to declare in Her Name, that Her positive Orders were, that they should seek the Enemy, " march to Madrid, and not divide the Troops upon any Ac-" count what soever.

"I must confess I do not conceive that it imports me much to reply to this Part of the Earl's Answer, nor shall I attempt to make an imperfect Defence for an absent Man; for if Mr. Stanhope was here I doubt not but he would be able sufficiently to justifie his own Conduct in this Affair: Yet I cannot help saying, that even MALIC Eitself has never yet suggested, that my Lord Tyrawley, Mr. Stanhope, and I, did not act on that Occasion with great INTEGRITY,

" according to the best of our Understandings; nor (with great Submission to this most Honourable House) shall I ever be ashamed to own an Opinion, which was "then not only the Common Sense of the Army, " but agreeable to the Desires and Interest of the whole

" Kingdom of England,

" IN the Earl of Peterborow's farther Answer to this " Question he is pleas'd to fay, - That notwithstanding this, the Earl of Gallway brought the Army into the " Plains of Valencia, the direct contrary Rout to that of " Arragon, and into all those Dangers which he was to avoid, by marching by the Head of the Tagus, In Reply " to this Answer I shall only observe, that I had not the Command of that Army, (which confifted of Three " separate Bodies, English, Portuguese, and Dutch,) " but the Marquis Das Minas, from whom I always er received Orders, and the Battle of Almanza was fought " by the Unanimous Approbation of a Council of War; " nor could the Resolutions of that Council have ever been executed had there been the least Difference in "Opinion, because each Commander of a separate Corps " might have refused to march.

" For the Occasion of our moving towards Almanza " I must beg Leave to refer to my Narrative, where I have mentioned more at large; that in order to execute " the Resolutions of those Councils of War, where it was agreed we should march to Madrid by the Way of Arragon, but first to destroy the Enemies Magazines on the Frontiers of Valencia, I went with the Marquis Das Minas in the beginning of April to Yecla, where the Enemies Chief Magazines lay, and from thence to Villena, where we had Advice of their Troops being " affembled at Almanza, upon which that Council was " held wherein the Battle was unanimously resolv'd on. "THE Earl of Peterborow is pleas'd to add a Reason " for his Opinion; That the Duke of Savoy and " Prince Eugene had declared their Sentiments for a Defen-" five War at that Time in Spain, and had Communicated their Thoughts to Charles the III. upon that Subject, to the 66 certain Knowledge of the Earl of Peterborow, as he can make appear by Authentick Papers from the King of Spain. "I shall not take upon me to deny a Matter of Fact which his Lordship so positively affirms; but I have been credibly informed, that the Duke of Marlborough. " and my Lord Godolphin, did both of them affure this most Honourable House, that the true Project against "Thoulon was not concerted by the Earl of Peterborow, " Prince Eugene, and the Duke of Savoy, but first fet on " Foot by the Duke of Marlborough with Count Maffey in " Flanders, and finished in England, with the Counts " Maffey and Briançon; but did not require that any "Troops should be sent from Spain, nor was ever Com-" municated to the Earl of Peterborow; which indeed his "Lordship seems to be aware of, when he says not " long after, that the Project against Thoulon, as settled " by him, bad been so altered, that the Duke of Savoy publick-" ly declared his Dislike of engaging in it. - And yet it is most certain that his Royal Highness did engage in an Attempt against Thoulon pursuant to the Project con-" certed in England; and tho' that Attempt did not prove entirely successful, it had a very good Effect: For thereby a great Body of the Enemies Troops were " diverted from acting elsewhere, and a considerable Dammage was done to the Fleet and Magazines of France.

"What his Lordship says concerning a Project that was form'd for the Taking of Origuela before the Opening of the Campaign is very true; but that Project being afterwards found impracticable, for want of Provisions, and the Campaign drawing near, the Earl Rivers's Troops, which had been Quartered after their Landing at Alicant, in the nearest and most commodious Towns for their Reception, were ordered to remove to the Oya de Castalla, Two short Days March from the Places where they lay before, that the Enemy might not get between them and the rest of our Quarters, to surprize us.

"In the Earl's Answer to the Fisch Question he says,
"—The King of Spain, when the Troops were marching into "Murcia towards the Enemy, assembled a Council of War to no other Purpose, but to send by the Hands of his Secretany of State a Protest, with his Reasons why he would not march with the Army, but go to protect his Subjects in Catalonia; the Contents of which Protest the Earl very well remembers, having had a Copy of it by the King's " Order. His Lordship's Memory, as positive as he is, " must have fail'd him extreamly in this Matter; for the Army never did march into Murcia, nor any Part of it, except a Detachment of the Troops under his Lord-" ship's Command, which return'd from thence with very ill Success; and whatever he may averr to have " been the Reason of the King of Spain's leaving the Army, and going to Catalonia, 'tis certain his Journey " thither was fixed long before the Army Affembled, " for no other Reason that I ever yet heard of, but because he had a Mind to redress some Disorders there; " and His Majesty always promised to be back again by the time our Army should be ready to take the Field: And it is notoriously known, that the Reasons for that Tourney were thought fo insufficient, that not only all the Foreign Generals and Ministers, but even the City and "Kingdom of Valencia, by their Deputies, protested " against it.

"As to what the Earl of Peterborow is pleas'd to fay concerning those Instruments which he has to produce so as Proofs of the King of Spain having been over ruled on " many Occasions in what be propos'd for the Publick Service-"I can only Reply, that I do not remember to have seen any of those Proofs, except a Letter of the King of " Spain's to his Lordship, where his Majesty observes, that the English, Portuguese, and Dutch Generals, had " refused him Men to send to Majorca in Councils of "War held on the 17th and 19th of January; from " whence, I hope, I may reasonably infer the great Pro-" bability of those Generals having been of Opinion but "Two Days before against dividing the Troops: And " I must say my Behaviour to the King of Spain, whilst "I had the Honour to serve under him, was such, that " he never had Occasion to complain against me by his "Ministers to the Queen, as he did most strenuously by the Count de Gallas against the Earl of Peterborow.
